Kennedy Remembrance Day Marked

Threatened Rail Strike Put Off

Half Million Attend Dallas Church Rites

Spirit Of Reverence Moves Across City Where JFK Killed

By BOB HORTON

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Solemn Latin phrases broke the quietness of Father Oscar L. Huber's Holy Trinity Catholic church as a priest began high Mass for John F. Kennedy.

"In nomine Patris, et Filii . . .

"In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

And the choir responded:

"Introibo ad altare Dei . . .

"I will go to the altar of God. To God the joy of my youth . . ."

Thus it was at one religious place, and the spirit of reverence moved over almost all other places Sunday in Dallas where Father Huber, one year ago, administered the last rites to a mortally wounded president.

Perhaps half a million persons poured into Dallas churches for services on the first anniversary of the assassination.

As the sun broke in 33-degree weather at Elm and Houston streets, where Kennedy was shot by Lee Harvey Oswald, about two dozen persons, Negro and white, assembled for a word of prayer.

Informal Memorial

With the warmth of the morning, hundreds more came, many placing wreaths in the small three-section park which has become an informal memorial area to the chief executive.

Several nuns and children from Father Huber's church brought a wreath.

The 71-year-old priest recalled perhaps the most memorable duty of his lifetime.

"The policeman led me to Parkland Hospital where the president had been taken," he said. "The hospital is in my parish. I went to the emergency room, and saw the president lying on a table.

"The doctors had given up hope and stood there about to leave. The president was covered with a white sheet down to just below his knees and all I could see was the whiteness of his feet.

"I pulled the sheet down to his nose to annoint his head with oil. He was apparently dead, so I administered only the conditional last rites to ask God to receive his soul."

Minute Of Silence

At 1 p.m., the moment the president was pronounced dead last Nov. 22, people stopped on the streets, in cars, in the shadow of the Texas School Book Depository building where the sniper sat, below the jail where Jack Ruby sits a condemned man for killing the assassin, in church sanctuaries holding special services and in countless other places where men thought of John F. Kennedy.

This was the minute of silence asked by Mayor Erik Jonsson in respect for Kennedy. Jonsson felt a public ceremony would not be appropriate for Sunday.

Flags flew at half-staff.

Ministers in many pulpits mentioned, though needlessly, that the Sabbath also was the assassination anniversary.

Dr. Stanley Wilkes, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, described Nov. 22, 1963 as "Black Friday."

"By the grace of God we survived this tragedy," he said. "Could it happen again?"

In Christ Lutheran church, the Rev. Paul Frank said: "History has a monotonous way of reminding us of the fact we are men and that evil is so very near. We failed again to understand that life, unless it is reverenced, becomes cheap — that evil will eventuate in bitterness, strife and death. But God has other goals for men."

GARNER IS 96—Former Vice President John Nance Garner yesterday celebrated his 96th birthday at his Uvalde, Tex., home. Scores of friends from around Uvalde gathered to honor him. Mr. Garner said he was the youngest man at the celebration and was looking for birthday No. 100. (AP Photofax)

Troops Driving On Stanleyville Halt To Regroup

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Congolese army troops led by white mercenaries halted to regroup Sunday in their drive toward the rebel capital of Stanleyville. Word reached here, meanwhile, that diplomatic negotiations had opened in Kenya on the safety of white prisoners in rebel hands.

With the Congolese advance pausing bout 150 miles from Stanleyville, dispatches said the rebel "foreign minister" Thomas Kanza, had arrived in Nairobi, Kenya to discuss the fate of 1,000 white hostages, including 60 Americans and 600 Belgians branded by the rebels as prisoners of war.

Kanza met with Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya, who is acting as an intermediary in the attempts to free the prisoners and to head off the execution scheduled for Monday of Dr. Paul Carlson, 36, a medical missionary from Rolling Hills, Calif.

Kenyatta told newsmen that Kanza had informed him that "all foreign civilian prisoners of war are safe."

The rebels have charged that Dr. Carlson is a U.S. military man captured in combat.

Kenyatta said the talks will be resumed Monday.

The rebel radio in Stanleyville announced Saturday that the Americans and Belgians had been moved out of the rebel capital and said their lives would be in danger in the event of "the slightest attack" on Stanleyville.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, the United States and Belgium appealed to all U.N. members to "call urgently for the immediate release" of all hostages held by the rebels.

Reports reaching Leopoldville said the Congolese attack force was regrouping for a drive into Lubutu, about 125 miles southeast of Stanleyville. Lubutu and Ponthierville, about 100 miles south of the rebel capital, are the only towns of importance on the attack route.

The column of 200 to 300 white mercenaries and 1,500 to 2,000 Congolese soldiers are traveling in 50 vehicles with air support from U.S.-built fighter-bombers flown by Cuban exiles.

Panama Students Plan To Defy Ban

PANAMA (AP) — Rebellious students and left-wing extremists decided Sunday to defy a government ban and go ahead with a demonstration Monday demanding that Panama take a stronger line in Panama Canal negotiations with the United States.

The Castroite-led student federation warned in a letter that government authorities "would be held responsible for whatever happened."

President Marco A. Robles and his government issued an order Saturday night forbidding the demonstration and calling on the National Guard to prevent it.

Wirtz Asks Delay, Three Unions Agree

Walkout Had Been Set Today; Talks To Resume Nov. 30

CHICAGO (AP) — A threatened strike against the nation's railroads by three nonoperating unions was put off Sunday by union officers for at least a week after an urgent request by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

The strike had been scheduled to start at 6 a.m. Monday.

Shortly after Wirtz' request, J.E. Wolfe, chief negotiator for the carriers, telephoned U. S. Dist. Judge Joseph Sam Perry and notified him the railroads were dropping an injunction petition which sought an order barring the strike. Judge Perry then canceled a hearing set for Sunday.

Postponement of the threatened strike was announced in Washington by a Labor Department spokesman and confirmed in Chicago by union officials. They accepted Wirtz' suggestion to resume talks with railroad bargaining agents in Washington on Nov. 30.

Unions Involved

The unions involved are the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, the Sheet Metal Workers International Association and the International Association of Machinists.

A spokesman for the three nonoperating shop craft unions said the following telegram had been sent to Wirtz in response to his request that they drop their strike plans in the interest of public service and continue their talks:

"It is the purpose of these organizations to do all in their power to accommodate the public. Especially have we been reluctant to cause inconvenience to those who wish to travel during the Thanksgiving holiday. Since it appears that for the first time there is some hope of settlement of our dispute, we are happy to comply with the request contained in your telegram to us of this date."

Three Unions Signed Pacts

Saturday, three other shop unions signed three-year contracts with the railroads, bringing to eight the number of off-train unions that negotiated wage and fringe benefit agreements within 12 hours. The contracts closely followed the recommendations of a presidential board two years ago.

The machinists, electrical and sheet metal unions represent some 49,000 workers.

Terms of the new agreement signed by the eight off-train unions provide that more than 367,000 workers under their jurisdiction will get a 27-cent-an-hour wage increase over three years. Nine cents will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1964; nine cents will be paid next Jan. 1, and the third nine cents will be paid starting Jan. 1, 1966.

The contracts also call for four weeks vacation after 20 years of service, an eighth paid holiday, and $2,000 insurance for retired workers.

Records Fall In Cold Wave

By United Press International

A massive flow of Arctic air spread over the eastern two-thirds of the nation Sunday, tumbling temperatures to record lows from the midwest to the Deep South.

Heavy snow belted the Great Lakes from Michigan to Pennsylvania. But the giant ice and snow storm that caused more than 30 deaths Friday and Saturday in the midwest blew itself out over the Atlantic.

Pennsylvania counted one weather attributed death Sunday and five persons died in two fires in Meridian, Miss. homes.

Readings were in the teens and 20s in much of the South. Record lows for a Nov. 22 included 18 at Memphis, Tenn., 21 at Birmingham, Ala., 15 at Nashville, Tenn., and 17 at Fort Smith, Ark.

Last Of Local Strikes Settled By Ford, UAW

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. and United Auto Workers cleared up the last of their local plant strikes Sunday, assuring the recall of 80,000 idled workers and a return to full production.

Another eight days are expected to elapse, however, before Ford can get back into its top production of 10,000 cars daily after a tieup since Nov. 6 over the local issues.

Nine local plant strikes, involving at-the-plant agreements supplementing the Sept. 18 Ford-UAW national agreement, had been accompanied by a progressive loss in production of passenger cars. All production ceased Friday night.

The last three strikes were disposed of Sunday. Workers at the vital Sterling Township (Mich.) parts plant ratified their earlier settlement. Two Wayne, Mich., assembly plant disputs also were settled. Workers will hold ratification meetings Monday.

The company expressed hope Saturday that half of its 80,000 strike-idled employes could return to work Monday. But a spokesman said full production would not be underway until Nov. 30. He added that a list of plants recalling workers would be announced Monday.

Production was to resume at the stamping plant in Chicago Heights, Ill., Sunday night. Ford recalled workers there after Friday's settlement at the key Sterling Township, Mich., parts plant. Sterling' 6,300 workers Sunday overwhelmingly ratified the new three-year pact with Ford.

Tear Gas, Bayonets Used To Disperse Saigon Marchers

Toughest Show Of Force Since Diem

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Crowds of antigovernment demonstrators marched into the streets Sunday in defiance of warnings from Premier Tran Van Huong. On Huong's orders, riot police and paratroopers using tear gas and showing bayonets broke them up in the toughest show of force here since the days of the Ngo Dinh Diem regime.

Riot police swung clubs and kicked with heavy boots as though unleashing a pent-up fury. A score of demonstrators were injured and about 40 were arrested, government sources said. Antigovernment Buddhists claimed four persons were killed.

Since the downfall of Diem last November, police have been restrained in dealing with demonstrations. But when Huong took over 2½ weeks ago, he warned he would tolerate no street disturbances and said he would use force if necessary to put them down. He stuck by his word and now there is concern that overzealous police action may lead to the same kind of Buddhist protests that led to Diem's downfall.

After the demonstration, armed soldiers took up posts at key places around Saigon.

This was the chain of events that led up to Huong's first brush with street violence: A brief Buddhist rite was held Sunday morning in honor of President John F. Kennedy. Next door to the Buddhist temple, a political rally was being formed. Police blocked the entrance to the rally building and a few scuffles occurred.

Then youths began coursing through the streets shouting for the ouster of Huong's government. There were a few scuffles and even some humorous scenes. A group of women seized a fire engine and turned the hoses on firemen called out to water down the youths.

Then, a crowd of about 200 Buddhists started marching toward the Gia Long Palace of Phan Khac Suu, South Viet Nam's ceremonial chief of state. They, too, began yelling for Huong's ouster on the grounds that his Cabinet had members who served the Diem regime.

Taylor Says Viet War "In Doubt"

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. Embassy released Monday an interview in which Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor said the war against Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam is "very much in doubt."

Taylor also declared that air strikes against Red supply routes and bases in North Viet Nam and Laos could contribute to victory over the Communists.

Riot police blocked approaches to the palace. Some of the demonstrators broke through the police line by seizing babies and holding them over their heads. Others grabbed old women and pushed them ahead through the police.

At about this time, Huong sent orders to the police and paratroops to clear the streets.

Policemen leaped barriers and waded into the demonstrators with clubs and kicking boots.One woman was knocked down and severely beaten.

Order was restored for awhile. Then, a crowd of more than 1,000 began gathering for another march on the palace. Paratroopers arrived on the scene in battle dress. They ordered the demonstrators nine times to disperse, then lobbed about two dozen tear gas grenades that sent up clouds of tear gas throughout downtown Saigon. Some were tossed back by the demonstrators.

The paratroopers drove the demonstrators off with threatening bayonets.

Section Of Birmingham Plagued By Sinkholes

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — More sink holes are popping up in the Inglenook section of Birmingham, and city officials say truck loads of concrete, kitchen sinks and debris aren't stemming the tide.

They've appealed to the federal government.

"The four truckloads just went woosh out of sight," said Inglenook resident Mrs. J. H. Kean, after watching the city dump truck pour loads into a gaping sink hole which has moved toward her house.

Next door, the hole already had swallowed the rear porch and forced the occupants, Nell Edwards and an elderly woman companion, to seek refuge elsewhere.

It was Mrs. Edwards plight some months ago that make Inglenook residents wonder if they were on shaky ground.

Since then other cave-ins have started around this residential are: one in an alley near a house; two holes on a main thoroughfare just west of the trouble area; one in a sidewalk, and another beside a store.

Elizabeth Romano says cracks have begun to appear in her backyard and those of two neighbors.

The city has poured a number — one estimate is 150 — truckloads of concrete into the sink holes. Workers haul the concrete and debris from porches and floors of a nearby subdivision which was condemned to make room for an airport runway extension.

The most popular theory is that the sink holes are caused by an underground stream.

Four Wounded In Gun Battle Fight For Life

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — Two Santa Clara policemen, an ex-convict and a motorist all hovered near death Sunday — the aftermath of an hour-long gun battle.

Police said ex-convict Roger McIntosh, 30, of San Francicso —who started the shooting spree when he turned on two officers — was in critical condition with a bullet in his head.

The two policemen, James McNamara, 31, paralyzed by a bullet that shattered his spine, and Lonnie Weger, 26, with a bullet near his heart, also were listed as critical.

The motorist, listed as serious with a gunshot wound in his stomach, was identified as Norman Rasmussen, 60, of Santa Clara. Another man, Darrell Rives, 38, of Campbell, was shot in the arm by McIntosh, police said.

Police said the shooting broke out late Saturday at a food market after a store employe noticed McIntosh and another man walking about the store and called police.

Officer McNamara found McIntosh leaning against a pillar He placed his hand on McIntosh's shoulder and the ex-convict pulled a gun and fired at point-blank range.

Three bullets ripped into McNamara, the father of five children.

McIntosh stopped Rives' car on the street and ordered Rives out. Leaping into the auto, McIntosh held Rives' son, Ronald, 16, and told him to drive away.

As the car moved, Rives grabbed for the door and McIntosh fired. The bullet struck Rives' arm.

Military Plane Crash Kills Six

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb. (AP) — Six men, all military personnel, died Sunday when a U6A plane crashed and burned in a rural area near here.

Joe Bodle of Nebraska City, who witnessed the crash, said, "It came down and hit a power pole and did a flip-flop, crashing into the ground. The plane exploded."

All six men were thrown clear of the burning wreckage.

The plane was from Lincoln, Neb., Air Force Base and operated between Atlas missile bases. One such base is near Nebraska City.

A Lincoln AFB spokesman said the single-engine, propeller-driven plane was on a routine support mission.

World Joins With Nation In Mourning

Tragedy Year Ago Relived In Churches, Public Ceremonies

By CHARLES WEST
Associated Press Writer

Citizens of the world shared with Americans on Sunday the sad remembrance of the assassination on President John F. Kennedy one year ago.

It was a day of solemn rededication, proclaimed by President Johnson.

The tragedy was relived in religious services, in public ceremonies, and within the hearts of men everywhere. From a thousand pulpits, his name was spoken in prayer.

Respectful crowds thronged to the places intimate to him. They filled the churches where he worshiped, stood in small groups in the cold at the spot where he was felled, and bowed their heads where he lay buried.

At Kennedy Airport in New York, 10,000 travelers and workers stood in silent prayer for one minute at noon. Automobiles and aircraft on the ground were stopped.

World Leaders Express Sorrow

World leaders issued renewed declarations of sorrow — French President Charles de Gaulle, Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos, West Berlin Mayor, Willy Brandt, and Spanish Gen. Francisco Franco among them.

Flowers, fragile and beautiful as life is fragile and beautiful, were offered to the memory of the nation's 35th president. They were placed on the assassination site in Dallas and on a bridge named for Kennedy over the Rhine River in Bonn.

German students sent red carnations to his widow in New York. Two teen-age girls in Tokyo, fulfilling a private committment as they have each month since his death, put carnations, lilies and chrysanthemums on a Kennedy memorial at Yokota Air Base.

Laying a bouquet at a plaque dedicated to Kennedy at the entrance to Independence Hall, Philadelphia Mayor James Tate said: "We pay him far greater honor now than we ever did in his lifetime. Perhaps that is his reward."

Widow In Seclusion

The president's widow, Jacqueline, sought seclusion at her weekend home on Long Island with their children, John Jr., who will be 4 Wednesday, and Caroline, who will be 7 two days later. A spokesman said the family privacy was being shared by her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, and Kennedy's sister, Mrs. Stephen Smith.

Shortly after dawn, Mrs. Kennedy's mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, went to the slope at Arlington National Cemetery and placed a spray of wild flowers from Hyannisport, Mass., on the president's grave. This was the widow's public offering.

Before the morning has passed, other members of his family laid floral tributes beside the spray — a single white rose from Sen.-elect Robert F. Kennedy, a bouquet of red roses from Mrs. Sargent Shriver.

The brother and sister came together to the grave from a memorial Mass at St. Matthew's Cathedral, the Roman Catholic church in Washington where Kennedy had worshiped and where his funeral was conducted.

There, the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, former president of Notre Dame, said in his sermon that the assassinated president

President, First Lady Join In JFK Tribute

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A somber President and first lady joined Sunday in a 40-minute tribute to the memory of President John F. Kennedy.

Among those with the President and Mrs. Johnson at memorial services in the University Methodist Church were Texas Gov. John Connally and Mrs. Connally.

The Connallys rode with Kennedy and his wife when he was assassinated in Dallas a year ago.

The Johnsons were riding in a following car when bullets from Lee Harvey Oswald's rifle fatally wounded Kennedy and severely wounded Connally.

Clergymen of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths participated in honoring the memory of the 35th president.

It Was Strange Week For Girl, 5

Events Of Year Ago Recalled By Youngster

By ROBERT HOLTON

NEW YORK (AP) — To a 5-year-old girl, Sunday makes it a year ago since the start of that strange week.

It began when she came in from playing and found her mother crying.

Her mother told her something had happened but that she shouldn't worry about it and sent her back outside to play.

That night her father came home from work and sat for a long time in the kitchen with her mother. They talked softly and neither of them smiled.

There were no cartoons on television and all the little girl saw were pictures of a big silver airplane landing and big crowds of people coming to meet it.

One man sounded like he was going to cry when he talked to the people.

All through dinner that night, her mother and father hardly spoke a word. They didn't eat much either.

After dinner she was told not to watch television before going to bed. So she played with her dolls instead.

The next day her mother acted funny. She didn't seem to mind that she went all the way up to the end of the block to play with some other girls, something her mother didn't usually let her do.

Again that night there were no cartoons on television and all she saw were a lot of pictures of people standing in front of a high iron fence or waiting outside of a big white house.

Early the next morning she went to church with her mother and father and the pastor asked them to pray hard for some man.

For the rest of the day she played outside while her mother and father drank coffee, read papers and watched television.

Once, right after dinner that night, she looked at the television and saw a lot of people walking past a flag in a big round room. She thought they all looked sad.

Monday was her father's day off and he and her mother invited her to stay in the house with them and watch television all day.

She saw a parade. But it moved real slow. There were pretty horses in the parade but one had nobody riding on it and a pair of shoes were hung on its side.

And there was a little boy who saluted like they do in the soldier shows. And there was a little girl there too. Then a pretty woman set fire to a thing in the ground and the picture ended.

The next day she saw a picture in the paper of where the lady had lit the light and it was still burning. Only now there was a little white fence around it.

It was indeed a strange week — for our family — and for many other families across the land.

DAY IS DONE — The last visitors of the day stand by the floodlighted grave of John F. Kennedy as darkness falls over Arlington National Cemetery last evening. Lights of Washington show in the background. It was the first anniversary of the assassination of the young President. (AP Photofax)

Trips Could Put Estes In Prison

DALLAS (UPI) Billie Sol Estes could be ordered to prison immediately Monday.

U. S. District Judge Sarah T. Hughes will hold a hearing on whether to revoke a $10,000 federal bond and send him to jail because of travels outside Texas.

Estes was released on bond on charges that he made false statements to a federal agency. The trial before Judge Hughes is scheduled early next year.

Three other cases against the former West Texas fertilizer king are on appeal, two to the U. S. Supreme Court and one to the federal appeals court in New Orleans.

Estes received an eight-year sentence on a state charge of swindling. He was sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment on a federal fraud conviction.

U. S. Dist. Atty. Harold Barefoot Sanders asked Judge Hughes to revoke Estes' bond.

The date for the hearing was set after an exchange of letters between Hughes and defense attorneys, who contend the trips by Estes were on business and to see friends "throughout the United States who believe in his innocence and who are contributing to the expenses of the litigation."

East German Seaman Asks Political Asylum

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (AP) — An East German seaman defected here Saturday night from the factory ship Weiskopf.

The East German vessel was towed into St. John's last week for repairs after losing a propeller on the Grand Banks. Reiner Hellerman, 22, walked into the St. John's police station Saturday night, requested political asylum and asked entry to West Berlin.

Heart Experts Suggest Office Exercise Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reorganization of work schedules in America's offices to allow regular, active exercise during the day was recommended Sunday to help prevent heart attacks.

A blue-ribbon panel of heart-disease experts recommended also that sponsors of all new housing in the United States plan to incorporate gymnasiums, swimming pools or "other facilities for active recreation" in their projects.

And the doctors said a proposal to establish special bicycle paths throughout the United States to encourage exercise "should be implemented as a major public service endeavor." This idea was first advanced some years ago by Dr. Paul Dudley White, chief consultant on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's heart attack.

These recommendations were made at the opening of the second national conference on cardiovascular diseases. This meeting of more than 600 specialists and educators in the field of heart disease is sponsored jointly by the American Heart Association, the National Heart Institute and the heart disease control program of the U.S. Public Health Service.

The group headed by Dr. Jeremiah Stamler of the Chicago Board of Health, did not specify details of the work-reorganization proposal, but the chairman told a reporter that, for one thing, American business and industrial concerns might well follow the example of firms in Asia and Europe "which have exercise breaks during the day for stretching, toning-up and light exercise."

church made no mention of the assassination. This is the church where Marina Oswald, widow of the assassin, had her two daughters baptized. The young Russian-born woman was in a hospital for the fifth day for an illness as yet undiagnosed. She suffered stomach pains.

In a sermon broadcast over radio stations, Rabbi Levi A. Olan of Temple Emanu-El recalled that the assassination drew a nation together.

"Yet in that moment of remarkable grandeur we also caught a glimpse of the most threatening danger to our existence. The poison of hate which had been coursing haphazardly in our national veins was clearly isolated and visibile." People discovered, he said, that Dallas had been "inhospitable to honorable debate. There was bitterness and hate which did not receive the reprimand which ugliness deserves."

Near the spot where Oswald fired upon the motorcade, dozens of floral displays, notes, pictures and other remembrances were left on a concrete walkway.

Unable to stop another car, McIntosh ran to the home of Blaise Rampone. He dragged Rampone into the yard—apparently planning to use him as a driver.

Officer Weger arrived, yelling for McIntosh to surrender.

Another officer, Herbert Rose, dropped McIntosh with a volley of shots.

Gen. Ryan Will Be Right At Home As SAC Chief

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Lt. Gen. John D. Ryan will be right at home as chief of the Strategic Air Command.

He has the reputation of being the kind of man equipped to command the mighty U.S. nuclear strike force — a high-powered, non-nonsense, 100 per cent professional.

"It will be very difficult, following Gen. Power. He's done a fine job as did Gen. Curtis LeMay before him. I've got two pairs of pretty big shoes to fill," Gen. Ryan said.

He also is at home in SAC headquarters in another sense. Gen. Ryan's hometown is Cherokee, Iowa, 120 miles northeast of here, and as a young man in the Civilian Military Training Corps, he did a tour of summer training at Ft. Crook. The old Army station now is the site of Offutt Air Force Base south of Omaha where SAC headquarters is located.

The son of an Illinois Central Railroadman, Ryan admits the chief lure of the civilian training corps was the $21 a month pay during summer camp.

But once in Air Force uniform, Ryan wasted no time in showing his military abilities. He was a general by the time he was 37. Now 48, he credits his quick rise to "being in the right spot at the right time."

Ryan is a 1938 West Point graduate. During World War II he commanded the 2nd Bombardment Group in Italy and was operations officer for the 5th Bombardment Wing of the 15th Air Force.

He came back to Offutt in 1956 as SAC director of materiel. He later served a tour as Air Force inspector general before being named SAC vice commander last August.

Ryan not only has worked closely with Gen. Thomas S. Power, whom he will succeed on Nov. 30, but he also knows well Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff and Power's predecessor as SAC commander.

Ryan is an active jet pilot who likes to get in the air whenever he can. Like LeMay and Power, he feels SAC is going to continue to need manned bombers along with missiles.

"There are certain jobs a missile can do better and there are certain jobs a bomber can do better," he says. "The missile and the bomber are not substitutes for each other.

showed by his life that "God's work is not something away from us, removed from us, but is at our hands."

Kennedy's parents, former Ambassador and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, spent the day at Hyannisport, at the Cape Cod residence where they heard the numbing news a year ago.

From as far away as Connecticut and New York, Americans came to Masses in St. Xavier church which the Kennedys attended when on Cape Cod.

The president's younger brother, Edward, senator from Massachusetts, was in a Boston hospital, still recuperating from the back injuries he suffered in a plane crash last June. The senator's wife, Joan, participated Saturday night with 2,000 West Germans in the opening of a Kennedy memorial exhibit in West Berlin.

Also in Boston was another sister of the president, Mrs. Peter Lawford. She attended a memorial Mass offered in English in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross by Richard Cardinal Cushing.

The cardinal, close friend of the Kennedy family and witness at many of the milestones of the president's life, described him as "among the greatest gifts God has bestowed on us in recent times."

"We thank God," he continued, "that we had him, even for less than three years, as the first Catholic president of the United States."

In New York, Francis Cardinal Spellman presided during a solemn high memorial Mass in St. Patrick's Cathedral. A woman sobbed as taps echoed in the stilled cathedral and tears of silent grief coursed down the cheeks of worshipers.

But it was not alone in the churches of Kennedy's faith that he was remembered.

In Moscow, the American diplomatic colony attended a Protestant memorial service in the home of the U.S. ambassador. In Rome, a memorial was conducted in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal church.

In Austin, Tex., President Johnson arranged to attend an interdenominational service.

And in New York, the leader of the Jewish Congregation B'nai Jeshurun, Charles H. Silver, eulogized Kennedy as a man "who had a way of talking that made the soul of America stand taller."

DeGaulle Urges Europe Without U. S. Influence

STRASBOURG, France (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle told West Germany on Sunday to join France in building a united Europe allied with the United States but free of its influence. It seemed almost a demand.

France, he said, had made great political and spiritual efforts to establish friendly relations with the Germans after years of enmity. Now, he said, it is time for the Germans to respond on a "proportionate scale."

He claimed that a West German decision to join with the United States in manning a fleet of nuclear missile ships under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization "would gravely wound the great hope" of French-German cooperation.

Instead, he proposed "the accomplishment in common with Germany of an ambition that is both very ancient and very modern: the construction of a European Europe, that is to say independent, powerful and influential at the heart of the world and of liberty."

In Bonn, a West German government spokesman said there would be no comment on De Gaulle's speech at least until Monday. But there was no indication that the West German government will show any readiness to yield to De Gaulle in German-French differences.

Dressed in his uniform of a brigadier general in the French army, De Gaulle spoke at the 20th anniversary of the liberation of Strasbourg from Nazi occupation. It also was his 74th birthday.

Plea To Congo Rebels Urged

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — Belgium, with full backing from the United States, asked all U. N. nations Sunday to appeal urgently to the Congolese rebels in Stanleyville to spare the lives of about 1,000 hostages, including scores of Americans.

The extraordinary Sunday appeal called for immediate release of the captives, whose safety has caused increasing concern as Congolese government troops continued to advance on the rebel-held capital of Stanleyville.

Belgian Ambassador to the U. N. Walter Loridan urged the action in a letter to this month's president of the Security Council, U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson. Stevenson said the U. S. government "fully associates itself with the Belgian appeal."

Loridan charged that "an undetermined number of civilians, Congolese and foreign, have already been murdered and the threat of execution of a hostage of foreign nationality has been postponed only until Monday, Nov. 23."

The Belgian ambassador referred to the threat of the Communist-backed Stanleyville regime to execute American missionary Dr. Paul Carlson Monday as an alleged American spy.

Time Turns Backward After Electrical Failure

ORCAS ISLAND, Wash. (AP) — A cable snaps and a dozen communities find themselves thrust backward in time.

An innkeeper apologizes to her guests because their sheets aren't ironed.

That's what happened when an underwater cable to the mainland broke Thursday night, cutting off electric power to nearly 6,000 customers in Washington's San Juan Islands. The break was located Saturday, but the Bonneville Power Administration says full power won't be restored for at least two weeks.

Meantime, with sharply curtailed heat and light the islanders must remap their daily lives: what they'll eat, how they will keep warm, what they will do at the office, and after hours.

Auxiliary diesel generators are turning out some electricity. But the output is only little more than one-third the normal requirements.

The power is switched alternately from island to island among the half dozen larger ones served by the Orcas Power & Light Co., and each one gets only a few hours of power each day. The word that electricity is coming spreads quickly.

Everyone with an electrical water pump turns it on, then stores the water in bottles, buckets and bowls.

The people are making do with what they've got. The cook at one restaurant stokes up an old wood stove. Another switches to propane gas.

Many residents are eating out. The diet: hamburgers and coffee.

Lloyd Meeks pumps gas at his service station by hand.

Oscar Elf lights his tavern with kerosene lamps. He has no heat but still his customers come.

Winter in the Strait of Juan de Fuca drops temperatures near freezing.

One islander says there is "wonderful cooperation," with everyone using only essential appliances and lights when the electricity is on.

Don Lohman, an Orcas Island deputy sheriff, sums up the situation this way: "I haven't heard anyone kicking much. We can take it. We're kind of independent."

Volcano Forces Team Off Island

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Volcanic activity and earthquakes have forced abandonment of Raoul Island, also known as Sunday Island, 600 miles northeast of here.

Reports from the tiny island Sunday said an ornithological party of 12 studying petrels, gannets and terns had to be taken off by the New Zealand navy survey ship Lachlan. Later, after government volcanologist J. Healy went ashore and made a study, the nine-man staff of the permanent weather station on the island also was taken off.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —When Sen. Barry M. Goldwater becomes a private citizen in January, he will resume writing a syndicated newspaper column which will provide "responsible opposition" on political questions, it was announced Sunday night.

Bishops Head Home As Lively Council Ends

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Ecumenical Council bishops headed home Sunday after a lively, sometimes bitter but fruitful third session in which they proclaimed themselves the partners of the Pope in running the universal church.

Pope Paul VI closed the 10-week session of 2,000 cardinals, archbishops and bishops in St. Peter's Basilica Saturday by solemnly promulgating three documents approved by the gathering. These included the tract "De Ecclesia" (on the church), which lays down the doctrine of "collegiality" or partnership of the bishops with the pontiff.

Also promulgated were a charter for promoting Christian unity, which in many ways ends four centuries of Catholic efforts to combat the Protestant Reformation, and a third, minor document on Eastern Catholic churches.

Several other documents whipped into near-final shape in this year's session were left over for a fourth session, which Pope Paul said would be the final one. He set no date for the meeting, which according to speculation may come as early as next May or as late as three or four years from now. The first three sessions were about one year apart.

With the session over, hundreds of bishops left Rome Saturday night and Sunday for their home dioceses. Many more planned to fly directly from here to Bombay for the International Eucharistic Congress which starts Saturday.

Saturday's colorful public closing ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica marked the end of a session which saw conservative and liberal wings fight each other bitterly and Pope Paul balance carefully between the two.

Missing Man's Body Is Found

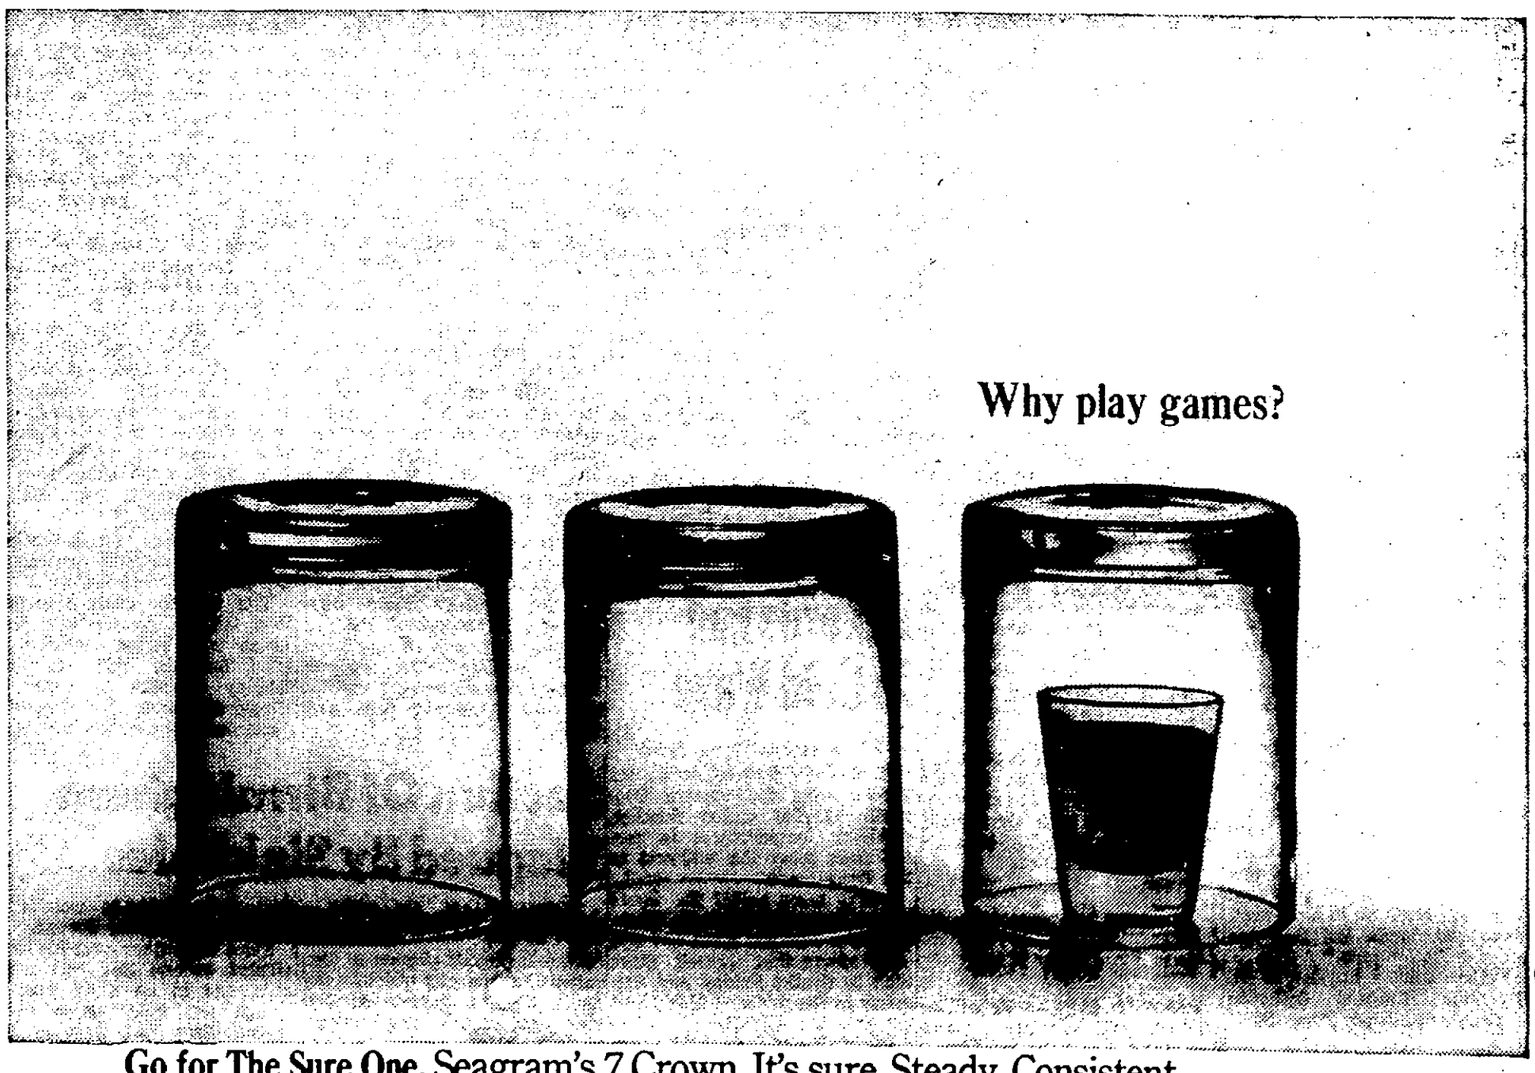

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — The body of Granville S. LeCompte, 47, prominent Cambridge businessman missing 12 days, was found Sunday in the Choptank River.

Authorities had been searching for the body since Nov. 10 when LeCompte's boat drifted ashore at Great Marsh, its motor still running. He had left early that morning to go fishing.

Friends, who had joined LeCompte's son, Anthony in the search Sunday, discovered the body floating near the Talbot County shore, about one mile across river from where his boat was found.

Dr. John Mace, Dorchester County medical examiner, identified the body and said an autopsy would be performed.

LeCompte, who owned a local funeral establishment, is survived by his widow, two sons, Anthony and Robert, a sister and his mother.

Maryland Tax Receipts Show 18% Increase

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — There's good news on most of Maryland's major tax fronts.

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says receipts from the major levies during the July-October period totaled more than $153.5 million. That's an increase of $23.4 million or 18 per cent over the same four months of last year.

Sales tax revenues increased 10.9 per cent, bringing in $36.1 million.

The largest percentage increase was in property taxes, which rose 57.9 per cent to 11 million. But Goldstein said this was due primarily to a change in the fiscal year by a number of counties.

Receipts from the corporation income tax rose 19.1 per cent to $3.8 million while revenues from the cigarette tax dropped about 1 per cent of $7.6 million.

The gasoline and titling taxes, increased by the General Assembly last March, totaled $27 million and $7.3 million respectively. Both are running ahead of estimates.

Individual income tax collections reached $47.7 million, some 21 per cent ahead of last year, but Goldstein said this resulted in part by an earlier processing of taxes withheld by employers and paid to the state.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP) — Secretary by day and Bunny by night—that's Mary Ellen Terziu.

The willowy platinum blonde is the secretary of Maryland's senator-elect Joseph D. Tydings, but at night she changes from her conventional garb to the scanty costume that made the Playboy Clubs famous. With her cottontail and silk ears firmly affixed, Mary Ellen snaps pictures and serves drinks at Baltimore's Playboy Club.

"I don't intend to work part-time in the Washington Playboy Club," she says. "I'm going to work for Mr. Tydings."

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP) — Luci Baines Johnson, the 17-year-old daughter of the President, spent an hour and a half at Harford Memorial Hospital Saturday night visiting a White House cook injured in an automobile accident Oct. 25.

The cook, Raymond Jackson, 21, had both legs amputated just below the knees as the result of the accident that happened on U.S. 40.

With Miss Johnson was an unidentified escort and two Secret Service men.

STEVENSVILLE, Md. (AP)—Army demolition experts have disarmed a hand grenade dating from the Spanish-American War that was found on the shelf of an antique shop near here.

A spokesman for the team, from Ft. McNair in Washington, D.C., said the grenade was still full of powder and could have exploded at any time. It had a date of 1898 imprinted on it.

Officials theorize the grenade was dredged from the Potomac River by an oyster tonger and somehow ended up in the antique shop. Army demolition experts have been called upon to disarm seven grenades and shells during the past several weeks that oyster tongers have brought up from the bottom of the Potomac. Some had been kept as souvenirs for years.

The flurry of anxiety began when an elementary school pupil brought a live 37 millimeter shell to class. His father had dredged it up from the bottom of the Potomac while tonging for oysters. Others in the community quickly took stock of similar items and called Army officials.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A job Corps camp, one of the first under President Johnson's anti-poverty program, will open Jan. 1 in Catoctin National Park in Frederick County.

Located at an old Civilian Conservation Corps camp, the project will accommodate about 100 youths from 16 to 22 who have been recruited from the Baltimore area.

Much like the CCC, whose refurbished 1930 barracks the camp occupies, the project teaches such skills as horticulture, surveying and construction. The youths will build tourist facilities, small dams, timber stands, roads and trails.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — This week has been proclaimed "Kennedy Library Week" in Maryland by Gov. Tawes.

A proclamation will be issued Monday by Tawes in ceremonies attended by Mrs. Eunice Kennedy Shriver, a sister of the late president.

The proclamation urges all Marylanders to join in observing library week and notes that John F. Kennedy Library to be established in Boston "is wholly dependent upon the voluntary contributions of the public."

Montgomery Medical Center Plan Developed

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — A medical center is being planned for Montgomery County.

Eventually it may include a hospital, medical building and perhaps a medical school.

Dr. Leonard Kogan, chairman of the community affairs committee of the Montgomery County Medical Society, said selection of a site is the major factor delaying the project. This group has been studying the center proposal since February.

Developers of the plan are looking over an area between Rockville and Gaithersburg to find about 100 acres for the project.

Kogan said the first component of the center will be a hospital but with expansion he hopes a teaching and training program can be introduced and possibly a full-scale medical school.

Two Persons Killed On Maryland Roads

By The Associated Press

Two persons died in separate traffic accidents late Saturday night, raising Maryland's highway death toll to 506, compared with 514 a year ago.

Anne Mae Newman, 59, of Hyattsville, was killed in a two-car accident on Maryland 29 in Silver Spring.

A pedestrian, Carl Poland, 35, of Baltimore was fatally injured when he was struck by a hit-and-run driver while trying to cross at the intersection of Pulaski Highway and Erdman Ave. in Baltimore.

Cancer-Detection-By-Mail Project On Statewide Basis Wins Approval

BALTIMORE (AP) — Approval of a statewide cancer-detection-by-mail technique has been granted by the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

The permission came after extensive trial of the simple and inexpensive do-it-yourself kits developed for detection of cancer of the cervix. Trials had been run in Washington, Kent, Frederick, Carroll and Anne Arundel counties.

Maryland would be the first state to adopt the technique, which would cost about $140,000 a year.

Under the test, developed by Dr. Hugh J. Davis of the Johns Hopkins Medical School, women could take samples at home and mail them to centers where they would be analyzed and the results given the woman's physician.

The tests would replace what is now known as the "Pap Test." This test relies on a smear taken of the cervix.

Although cancer of the cervix is virtually 100 per cent curable if caught in its early stages, only 10 to 15 per cent of American women seek the annual smear.

Rockefeller Foundation Announces $3 Million In Grants During Third Quarter Of This Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rockefeller Foundation announced Friday it made grants totaling $3,018,249 during the third quarter of 1964.

Among the major awards was $265,900 to the University of California to help create a dry lands research institute on the school's riverside campus.

The institute will work on problems of drought and aridity. It will do research on water resources, calling on specialists from the agricultural, biological and social sciences. Plans call for it to work on projects overseas as well as in this country and to provide graduate training for foreign students.

Dr. J. George Harrar, president of the foundation, said the five principal areas of interest are the conquest of hunger, problems of population, the strengthening of selected universities in developing nations, and within the United States and the achievement of equality of opportunity and cultural development.

The foundation granted $500,000 toward strengthening the staff of the Council on Foreign Relations, Inc., New York and $100,000 to the Population Reference Bureau, Inc., Washington, D.C., for an expanded Latin American program.

Several travel awards were made to scientists from the United States and other countries to investigate bilharziasis (schistosomiasis), the parasitic disease carried by snails.

The disease, which causes slow but massive degeneration of body tissue, is found throughout Africa and in much of the Far East, Latin America, the Caribbean and Puerto Rico.

No effective control has yet been found for the disease. The foundation said that it is the greatest unconquered parasitic scourge in the world today with more than 200 million cases now believed in existence.

Pierre Salinger Recalls Agonizing 42 Minutes Over Pacific Awaiting Report On Kennedy's Assassination

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Pierre Salinger recalls an agonizing 42 minutes in an airplane over the Pacific in which he learned of President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

He also recalled, in an interview during a brief visit to Washington this week, that Kennedy had told him only three days before the fatal trip to Dallas, last Nov. 22, that "I wish I wasn't going to Texas."

Salinger, now a Democratic senator from California, was a member of the inner circle and a spokesman for the president as White House press secretary.

He is serving out the remainder of a short-term appointment to the Senate. He lost a bid in the Nov. 3 election to keep the seat.

It was on Nov. 19, 1963, Salinger said, that Kennedy told him of the reluctance with which he contemplated the forthcoming trip to Dallas.

"It was not said in any sense of premonition," Salinger said, "but more in the sense of weariness. He had just finished a speaking tour of Western states and was tired. He wanted more time at home.

"I said 'Don't worry, it's going to be a great trip' — and when I walked out of his White House office at 8 p.m. it was the last time I saw him."

Salinger, six Cabinet members and various aides were aloft over the Pacific he recalled, when he received a summons to the cabin of Secretary of State Dean Rusk. They were en route to economic meetings in Japan.

"There were secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall with Rusk in the cabin.

"Rusk held in his hand a sheet of yellow paper I recognized as coming from the radio-teletype with which we had contact with Washington.

"I glanced over Rusk's shoulder and read the message on the yellow paper:

"'President John F. Kennedy was shot by an assassin in Dallas, Texas, today. He is believed dead.'"

Rusk read the message aloud to the group, who listened in a stunned silence.

Salinger said he suggested immediately they should order the plane back to Honolulu and Washington, and continued:

"Rusk said, 'That's right, but we have to verify this some way.'

"I went forward to the communicator and in less than a minute had a radio connection to the situation room in the White House which is the nerve center for its round the clock operations.

"I said 'Situation room, this is Wayside' My code name. 'What is the word on the president?'

"They answered, 'We are still verifying. The president has been shot. We believe in the head. Our information is he is still alive.'"

Salinger recalled the tense minutes that followed during which Freeman, a wounded veteran of Guadalcanal in World War II, mused aloud at one point:

"I was shot in the head and survived. He'll make it."

Then, after another inconclusive radio report, came the official message from the White House, 42 minutes after the first flash:

"The president is dead."

BONN (UPI)—South Korean President Park Chung Hee is scheduled to visit West Germany next month. He will tour West Germany's industrial Ruhr region and visit West Berlin and Munich.

West Germany Tracking Down Refugee Nazis

BONN (UPI)—West Germany appealed to the world Friday to help track down any refugee Nazis before the statute of limitations on war crimes expires next year.

The appeal was issued through embassies abroad to all governments, organizations and individuals who may have informaton on Nazi murderers, government spokesman Karl Guenther von Hase said.

Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's government was convinced it cannot extend the 20-year statute of limitations on wartime murders for constitutional reasons, according to Von Hase.

The statute treats Nazi murders as if they were committed at the close of World War II. It expires between May and July, 1965, in the former British, American and French occupation zones of Germany.

The government position is that to extend the statute would violate the constitution of a German "nation of laws."

The German appeal for help was aimed at assembling evidence so prosecutors can launch investigations. The statute does not apply to those under investigation.

Kremlin Steps Up Peace Offensive

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Communist party Chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev stepped up the Kremlin's peace offensive last week by proclaiming the principle of friendship and a desire to improve the international climate.

It was the second time in a little more than 20 hours that a top Soviet leader has spoken of peace. Premier Alexei Kosygin told almost 100 visiting American businessmen Thursday that peace is the Soviet Union's "immutable policy."

Brezhnev spoke in a ceremonial address in the Soviet Asian city of Tashkent.

"In our relations with capitalist countries we consistently advocate the principle of peaceful co-existence," he said. "Soviet foreign policy has no more important task than ensuring peaceful conditions for the construction of communism.

Diplomatic observers said the Russians appeared to be going out of their way to assure the West that any possible rapprochment with China will not affect its peaceful attitude toward the United States and Western Europe.

Fluorescent Battery Power Seen Possible

By JACK WOLISTON
United Press International

A newly developed transistorized electronic device may revolutionize electric lighting on pleasure craft by making practical for the first time the operation of fluorescent lamps on battery power.

The new device is an inverter ballat, weighing only four ounces, which changes direct current from the battery into high-frequency alternating current.

In the past, there have been numerous complaints from boat owners and their crews—especially those members on the distaff side—that electric lighting aboard was inadequate, except when shore power was available.

The reason, of course, if obvious: lighting is powered by the same batteries employed to start the boat's engine, making it imperative to keep battery drain at a minimum.

Fluorescent lighting from battery power has been possible in the past, but it has been impractical in most applications because of the cost, size and weight of auxiliary equipment, plus the excessive battery drain.

New Circuit

The new transistorized circuit, developed by General Electric Co., gives good promise of overcoming these problems.

The prototype installation of the device was made aboard a 38-foot cabin cruiser.

It included six fluorescent lamps—a 15-watt reading light over each berth in the forward cabin; an 8-inch, 22-watt circline lamp in the galley; a 40-watt reading lamp over the sofa-bed in the main cabin, and a 20-watt reading light over each twin bed in the aft cabin. They were powered by the boat's 12-volt battery.

Tests showed the six fluorescent lamps produced a total of approximately 7,200 lumens, or units of light. Their combined drain on the battery was about 11 amperes. Eight 50-watt, 12-volt incandescent buls would would emit 6, 8—lumens, yet create a battery drain of 33 amperes.

In addition to the fluorescent lighting system, the test cruiser had incandescent lamps in each space. These were set up, however, to be operated only by 120-volt shore power when the boat was in dock.

Ashore and Afloat

Company engineers pointed out that a more practical installation would be only one wiring system, instead of two. When away from shore, the lighting system would be operated by battery power. When in dock, it still would be operated off battery power, but simultaneously the battery would be on charge by 120-folt shore power.

A number of manufacturers whose output has been limited strictly to powered pleasure boats are hopeing to cash in on the increasing interest in sailing.

The latest to recognize the trend is Molded Fiber Glass Body Co., which produces MFG and Crestliner outboard and inboard-outboard powered pleasure craft. It has announced that it will soon begin manufacturing a line of fiberglass sailboats ranging in size from 11 to 20 feet at Union City, Pa., headquarters of the MFG Boat Division.

Tony Randall Sees Best Hope For The American Theatre In Repertory

By DOUG ANDERSON
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tony Randall, an actor who made a name for himself on the stage before going into television and movies, thinks the best hope of the American theater lies in repertory.

"I believe we're heading in that direction," he said here recently. "We already have Tyrone Guthrie in Minneapolis, and I think the Lincoln Center company (in New York) will find its feet.

"That got off to a rather strange start (last year), apparently because Elia Kazan concentrated on casting one of his plays and let the other two pretty well take care of themselves."

Randall is on his way to England, where he will play Hercule Pirot in the first film based on the exploits of Agatha Christie's fictional Belgian detective.

He recently finished work in Hollywood on Universal pictures' "Send Me No Flowers," a comedy which reunites him with Rock Hudson and Doris Day.

"Send Me No Flowers" opens at the Radio City Music Hall next month.

Randall appears in the film as Hudson's comic confidant, the sort of role with which his name is most often associated.

For all his success in comedy, Randall would rather be regarded as an actor as well as a comedian. He cites his appearances with Jane Cowl in "Candida," with Ethel Barrymore in "The Corn Is Green," with Katharine Cornell in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" and, more recently, his seven-shot tour de force in "The Seven Faces of Dr. Lao" as proof of his versatility.

He has a warm spot in his heart for comedy none the less, whether on stage or on screen.

"What about a repertory company specializing in the famous comedies — Moliere, Shaw, 'Twelfth Night...' he asked. "Wouldn't that be great?"

Randall is careful to distinguish between repertory companies, which work up three to six plays a season and repeat them at fairly frequent intervals, and the stock companies with which most Americans are more familiar.

"When you go to see a repertory company — for example, Jean-Louis Barrault's French company, which I think is the greatest — you expect every actor to be good," he said. "They aren't always, but they ought to be.

"When you go to see a stock company, you expect every actor to be bad, and they usually are."

Marriage Rate Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marriages in the United States will total from 1.7 million to 1.8 million this year, reversing a downtrend that has prevailed since 1946, the Institute of Life Insurance said Friday.

The marriage rate dropped from a peak of 118 for every 1,000 unmarried females over 15 in 1946 to 72 in 1958. The rate remained fairly level, then, until this year.

Dentist Fined

HOVE, England (UPI)—Golfing dentist Dr. Colin Carrington was fined $67 for swinging his club at a noisy picnicker near the 13th tee.

The judge rejected Carrington's explanation:

"When I approached, he squatted and asked, 'What are you going to do now?' I felt extremely provoked. I tapped him with a club across the backside. There was no force."

Case Supports LBJ On 'Great Society'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said Sunday he would support proposals which President Johnson needs to create the "great society."

Case, a liberal who opposed Sen. Barry Goldwater's entry into the Republican presidential race, said he would support Johnson's proposals for increased aid to education, increased cooperation between the states and federal government, planning for highways and mass transit systems.

In reply to a question on his participation during a television interview, Case said "of course I will support this sort of thing, and I have in the past, as a matter of fact. These aren't new. These are things that have, in part, been authorized and are partly already federal programs and partly new."

Court Approves Check-Cashing Photo Evidence

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Court of Appeals ruled last week that a picture taken by a machine which photographs a check and the person cashing the check can be admitted as evidence if it is properly authenticated.

The court made the ruling in upholding the conviction of James F. Sisk, who was sentenced to four years in prison for cashing a bad check in the amount of $112.42 at a Baltimore store.

A photograph taken as Sisk was cashing the check was the main evidence against him, and he contended that it should not have been admitted as evidence in Baltimore Criminal Court.

The court said the procedures used in taking and processing the photographs made "the possibility of error in the photograph almost nil . . ."

Polish Circus Will Tour U.S.

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A Polish circus including lions, a tiger, horses and trained bears sailed from Gdynia in midweek aboard the motorship Sniadecki for the United States to tour under the Ringling-Barnum & Bailey banner.

Constructs Schools

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)—A Himalayan expedition led by Sir Edmund Hillary has reported it had constructed three schools, two bridges and an airstrip on the slopes of Mt. Everest.

Hillary, the first man to conquer Everest, led an expedition which recently reached the top of previously unclimbed 21,709-foot Mt. Tamasarku in the Everest range.

American, Sentenced To Die Before Mexican Firing Squad Is Reprieved

MONTERREY, Mex. (UPI)— An American, sentenced to be executed by a Mexican firing squad in a triple murder, says he would rather die as testimony to his innocence than accept a reprieve and 30-year prison sentence.

The Mexican Supreme Court upheld the death penalty given to Dykes Askew Simmons, 36, a Fort Worth crane operator, on a charge of murdering Juan Emanuel Perez Villa Gomez, 14, and his sisters — Hilda, 19, and Martha, 17 — on Oct. 12, 1959.

Almost immediately Nuevo Leon state Gov. Eduardo Livas Villarreal said he would commute the death penalty to 30 years in prison. Simmons was the first American to be sentenced to the firing squad by a Mexican court in this century.

"I didn't ask for it (commutation) . . . and I don't plan to accept it," Simmons said Thursday in an interview (with Fort Worth radio station KFJZ).

"I'm completely innocent and I deserve no punishment whatsoever. I'm ready to die for that statement."

There is a death penalty on Mexican law books but it has not been used in 70 years. The law goes back for centuries and if it were followed exactly, the law itself probably would save Simmons from execution.

The old law provides that an execution must be carried out on a holiday by the mayor in the city square in the presence of all the city's residence.

Monterrey now has a total of about 800,000 residents and it would be hard to get them all together at once, not to mention getting them all in the city square.

So there has always been some doubt that Simmons would ever be put to death, though his case became famous on both sides of the border.

He was convicted of murdering the three members of the Gomez family after finding them in a stalled automobile. Simmons said he was not even in the area; he had crossed the border for a few days' vacation and the police arrested him.

Associated Press Develops New Wirephoto Reception System

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Development of a a new Wirephoto recorder, called AutoPhoto, was announced Friday by The Associated Press.

General Manager Wes Gallagher called it the greatest single improvement in Wirephoto reception since the AP inaugurated the first Wirephoto network in 1935.

Gallagher told the convention of the Associated Press Managing Editors that AuvoPhoto is completely automatic, and delivers a dry, glossy photographic print within 20 seconds after the picture is transmitted over the network.

Work on the machine began five years ago in the AP electronics laboratory. It is being manufactured by Muirhead & Co. of London.

AutoPhoto print size is 8x10 inches plus the caption The pictures are produced in positive form on glossy photographic paper, and dropped automatically in a basket in front of the machine.

Here's how the new machine works:

A 500-foot roll of a special photographic paper with built-in developing chemicals is contained in a light tight cartridge.

Automatically, the machine feeds out the proper amount of paper, slices it off the roll, wraps it around a drum and prepares for reception of a picture.

The drum revolves during reception and a light and optical system exposes the paper in much the same manner as on conventional Wirephoto recorders.

When the transmission is complete, the paper is removed from the drum automatically and fed into a photographic processor.

The developing process then is started as the paper passes through the processor and enters a chemical solution called an "activators."

The paper moves on through another solution, called a "stabilizer," which stops the developing process. The developed print then passes through rollers to remove the moisture.

The print, almost completely dry, is ejected into a receptable on the front of the machine, and is ready for immediate use.

Opens Session

TOKYO (UPI)—Emperor Hirohito opened a session of the Japanese Parliament Friday, the first under the government of new Premier Eisaku Sato. Sato is expected to make his first policy speech Monday.

Three Faces Of War

THE ADVISOR — An American advisor, M/Sgt. Fred R. Williamson of Pontiac, Mich., stares intently in the jungle of Viet Nam, prior to a Vietnamese government attack on a rebel village near Saigon. American advisors frequently accompany regular troops on such actions.

THE SOLDIER — A Vietnamese soldier carries a wounded comrade back to safety minutes after a successful government attack on a small Viet Cong village near Saigon. The attack caught the Communist rebels off guard and drove them from the village.

THE PEASANT — An elderly Vietnamese peasant clasps his hands as he joins government troops in a Viet Cong village near Saigon. The village, overun by government regulars in a surprise attack, freed the peasants from control by the Red rebel forces. The government is now in control. This series of photos was taken by U. S. Army photographer M/Sgt. Al Chang and released to the Associated Press and transmitted by AP Photofax.

Trunk Switch Charged

ROME (UPI)—The Egyptian ambassador has accused Italian authorities of substituting the celebrated kidnap trunk containing Mordecai Luk for one holding legitimate diplomatic documents, informed sources said Sunday.

The Italian government reacted angrily to the insinuation. Customs police at Fiumicini Airport had prevented Egyptian diplomats from sending Luk as "air freight" to Cairo in a trunk marked "diplomatic mail."

The foreign ministry summoned Ahmed Naguib Hashin, the United Arab Republic ambassador to Italy, to "protest vigorously" allegations reportedly made by the Egyptian envoy Saturday in a note to the ministry.

The U.A.R. ambassador protested the expulsion from Italy of two first secretaries from the U.A.R. Embassy. Although the contents of his note were not divulged, informed sources said he accused police of switching the trunks.

Italy's protocol chief, Angelo Corrias, rejected categorically the Egyptian ambassador's version of the cloak and dagger affair and said the Italian government was justified in expelling the two diplomats for their role in the case.

Spanish Envoy Saves Child From Drowning

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Spanish Ambassador Jose Perez del Arco saved a small boy from drowning Saturday while on a picnic at a nearby lake.

The ambassador, other diplomats and Nicaraguan military men were celebrating the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Nicaraguan military academy when he heard the child scream. He jumped into the water fully clothed and pulled the child to safety. The boy was from a farm family that lived near the lake.

Quints Condition Good

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (UPI)—The nine-day-old Mutuanga quintuplets were reported in continuing good health in hospital incubators here Sunday although a spokesman said they were gaining weight only slowly. The quints —four girls and a boy — were born to Mrs. Clara Mutangua, 32, in a village 300 miles from here.

Dachau Cloister Is Dedicated

DACHAU, Germany (AP) — A Roman Catholic "cloister of atonement" was dedicated here Sunday on the site of the former Nazi concentration camp.

Julius Cardinal Doepfner, addressing an audience of religious and civic dignitaries, recalled that thousands of inmates had been murdered at Dachau. The cloister, he said, is to be a shrine of repentance and atonement for Nazi crimes against humanity.

The convent will house 21 Carmelite nuns. Its portal is the camp's former watchtower. The convent's church, refectory, cells and hall are arranged in the form of a crucifix. The nuns will live in complete seclusion.

Teetotaler

LONDON (UPI)—The British Medical Journal reported that a man recovered from a heart attack suffered after drinking 36 pints of beer in one day.

The report said the man, who drank for 31 years, now is a healthy teetotaler.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — "He gives me a pain in the neck," you say.

You say it maybe many times a week. Samples of incidents making you say that—the electrician's supposed to come at 10 a.m. to fix the washer but comes much later; the butcher needs to be told three times how to cut the steaks for your dinner party; the postman arrives late and makes you miss your bus.

You say it and you don't really refer to a pain. It's just an expression. But, then, on occasion, you actually get a pain in the neck.

The question in such cases: Is there really a pain, or do you just imagine it? And if there is a pain, did the mental trauma cause it?

To such circumstances, Dr. Allan Waters, head of the psychiatric service of Toronto General Hospital, applied himself recently.

The subject to which he addressed himself: The psychogenic regional pain syndrome—called PRP for short.

Reporting at an International Symposium on Pain, the associate professor of psychiatry and medicine at the University of Toronto noted that reactions to unfortunate situations in everyday life can cause regional pain and tenderness.

Hence, there's now medical backing for such off-hand expressions as—pain in the neck, takes my breath away, makes me sick at my stomach.

Dr. Walters, reporting at the symposium sponsored by Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, Mich., explained that the term — psychogenic regional pain—denotes pain for which doctors cannot find physical lesions.

A report on his studies, in the current issue of "Medical Tribune," a publication for doctors, indicates that "PRP" is a pain signal remotely localized in a field of sensory perception.

The trouble goes on in the field of mental perception — in the mind's eye, where thoughts and feelings go through life's switchboard.

Dr. Walters found that in 25 years' experience, the "PRP" syndrome formed a large part of the intractable pains that were drifting into medical and surgical streams.

He described the pain as hallucinatory pain in that there is no peripheral stimulation.

In order to have such pain—"PRP½"—the patient has to be in a frame of mind wherein emotional life can be expressed in physical and hallucinatory terms.

"Most patients with these pains," Dr. Walters said, "have declined from a more effective and steadier level of behavior."

In other words—they are letting their worries get them down to the point of pain that is felt!

Richard Crenna Has Amassed Large Fortune

Parlays Earnings From Television

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Richard Crenna, star of the new "Slattery's People" series, has parlayed his television earnings into a booming personal fortune.

In video's swaddling days Crenna played the dimwitted high school kid Walter Denton in "Our Miss Brooks." He was only slightly more bright as Luke McCoy in "The Real McCoys." But his image as a sophisticated, polished politician in the new show is very much like the real Crenna.

The actor has invested his television gains in real estate, a dry cleaning establishment, a laundry, a television production company and various prosperous corporations.

An unactorish fellow with a serious outlook, Crenna and his wife Penny are the sort of people you'd like to have for neighbors.

They've been married seven years and have two youngsters, a daughter, Seana (pronounced Shawna) and a son, Richard.

Their home is situated on an acre and a quarter in the plush Royal Oaks section of Encino in the San Fernando Valley. Their neighbors are Shirley MacLaine, Dennis Weaver, Gale Storm, Roger Williams and Julie London.

Rambling Ranch

The house is a low, rambling ranch style modern which Penny has converted into a French farm house. She is responsible for the decor which is principally French antique and Italian provincial.

Her kitchen is done over in farm kitchen style with plenty of room for family gatherings around the table. There's an indoor barbecue pit where Penny does much of the cooking, and the kitchen table is where the Crennas thrash out the problems of the day when he returns from the studio.

The family moved into the house five months ago. They had lived only three doors away, but felt the need for more space. And space is what they have.

There are five bedrooms, a maid's room and seven baths. There is also a spacious patio, a swimming pool, an office-den, a workshop and a three-car garage. Dick's particular hangout, however, is a huge playroom with soda fountain for the youngsters.

"When they grow up and leave the nest I'm going to convert it into a tavern room," Crenna says.

To complete the picture of gracious living there is a badminton court and a driving rang (with net) on the grounds. Crew members of Crenna's new CBS-TV show provided the golf paraphernalia.

One of the stalls in the garage is empty. The other two are filled by a station wagon (Penny's) and a limousine.

Long Day

Crenna arises at 6 a.m. and arrives at the studio by 7:45. He likes to get up early to eat a big breakfast and read the newspaper. After a full day before the cameras he's home by 8:30 for a leisurely dinner, after which he studies his lines until 11 or 11:30 before he retires.

Pets and Servant

Sharing family life with the Crennas are Missy, a soft-eyed collie, and Flower, a three-year old cat of dubious parentage.

A fulltime housekeeper lives in, too. She has been with the family three years.

Both Dick and Penny are diet watchers, but they entertain often. They restrict their dinner parties to 12 guests to keep the gathering intimate, but they also throw bashes in the patio for throngs of friends and acquaintances.

When they dine out the Crennas usually go to what Dick calls "club hangouts" — La Scala, Dominick's and Chasen's.

At home Crenna, who is of Italian extraction, loafs around in denims, loafers and a sweatshirt. He is a somewhat inept do-it-yourselfer, but enjoys tinkering around with plumbing, electrical outlets and the like.

He joined Bel Air Country Club intending to become a hotshot golfer, but has played only four rounds in the past year or so. Both he and Penny pride themselves in a modest collection of abstract and traditional paintings by young artists.

Dick Crenna's popularity on evision is an extension of his popularity off-screen — both of which are well earned.

3 Red Soldiers Flee To West

BERLIN (UPI)—Three Communist East German soldiers fled to the West Friday in two separate escapes.

Police here reported that one soldier crossed through barbed wire to the American zone of West Berlin unnoticed by Communist guards.

Customs officials at Northeim said two other East German soldiers escaped across mine fields in full uniform.

Late Crusading Editor Roy Howard Saluted

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roy Wilson Howard, the crusading editor and publisher who died Friday night at the age of 81, was saluted Sunday as "one of the four outstanding names" in modern American journalism.

Howard, who served as president of United Press while still in his 20's and later presided over the nation's 17 Scripps-Howard newspapers, was stricken with a heart attack in the lobby of the Pan Am Building where his office was located. He died a few hours later in Doctors Hospital of a massive coronary failure.

Private funeral services, attended only by members of the family, were held Saturday afternoon. Howard's body was creatmed.

Statesmen and fellow journalists the world over joined in paying tribute to Howard this weekend, and one of the most glowing accolades came from Dr. Carlos P. Romulo, former president of the United Nations General Assembly and now president of the university of the Philippines.

Praising Howard as one of the four supreme giants of modern journalism in America, Romulo — a close personal friend of the late publishers— said that Howard will take his place in history alongside such other luminaries of the profession as William Randolph Hearst, Joseph Pulitzer and Arthur Hays Sulzberger.

Howard is survived by his widow, the former Margaret Rohe, whom he married in 1909; his son, Jack R. Howard, president and general editorial manager of the E. W. Scripps Co.; a daughter, Jane Perkins of Rome, Italy, and five grandchildren.

Operation Set

CAIRO (UPI) — Iraq President Abdul Salam Aref has entered a hospital for a tonsil operation, Baghdad Radio reported Sunday.

Puerto Ricans Want U.S. Ties, Leader Says

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Gov. Luis Munoz Marin said Sunday that Puerto Ricans do not want independence from the United States and discussion of this subject by the United Nations would be "inconceivable."

"Such a discussion," the governor said, "would place a responsible international body in the untenable position of advocating a political status for a people who have categorically rejected it in numerous free elections."

The United Nation's Special Committee on Colonialism reopened the Puerto Rican case Friday. Over U.S. objections, it called for a study.

Barton Personals

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

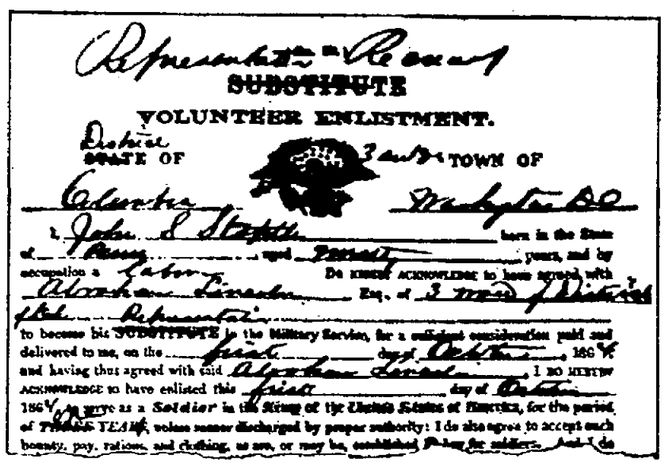

No. 468 Part of the inscription on a gravestone in Stroudsburg, Pa., is: John Summerfield Staples. "A private of Co. C, 156 Reg. P. I. Also a member of the 2 Reg. D. C. Vol's, as a Substitute for Abraham Lincoln."

He wasn't a substitute for Lincoln in the usual Civil War sense. Earlier, a peculiar law made it easy for wealthy men to escape military service which poorer men could not evade legally for lack of funds. Countless individuals of military age and in fit condition paid others to take their places in the Army or handed over $300 to the government for exemption. One who did so was Grover Cleveland, the future president.

Lincoln was exempted by his position from the draft. But in 1864, he joined other individuals in inducing men who had already served in the Army to rejoin. Staples was a civilian guard at a government building when he happened to be offered the opportunity to serve in Lincoln's name. His acceptance won him a meeting with Lincoln at the White House and a payment by Lincoln of about $650.

Staples, who entered the Pennsylvania Infantry in 1862 at 16, had been discharged in 1863 for medical reasons. Years after the war, in broken health, he applied for a Civil War pension, and it was denied him!

TV Documentary To Discuss Drivers

The controversy over whether Maryland's legal driving age should be raised from the present age of 16 will be explored on "Right Of The Road," which will be carried locally by the Potomac Valley Television Company on Cable Channel 6 from 8 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

This program is being presented by WMAR-TV, a Baltimore station. Partly as a result of parental agitation and petitions calling for the minimum age to be raised from 16 to 18, Maryland's legislators are planning to introduce several bills in the 1965 session of the General Assembly.

Appearing on the program will be Judge George B. Rasin of Kent County; Department of Motor Vehicles Commissioner John B. Jewell; Delegate Edgar Silver of Baltimore, a member of the Legislative Council; representatives of parent groups, law enforcement agencies and teenagers themselves.

John N. Garner Marks 96th Birthday

UVALDE, Tex. (UPI)—John Nance (Cactus Jack) Garner celebrated his 96th birthday with a party Sunday and said his ambition was at least four more. President Johnson sent a telegram expressing his "warmest affection" for the Roosevelt-era vice president.

The birthday party was held in the front yard of Garner's frame home. The temperatures were in the middle 30s.

Garner told a crowd estimated at between 400-500 that "I'm going for four more years, but I reserve the right to change my mind further when I'm a hundred."

He joked and smiled and thumbed through a thick stack of telegrams. His birthday cake had a giant candle on it.

Garner opened the telegram from Johnson. It read:

"I very much regret that it is not possible for me to join with the citizens of Uvalde today in honoring my good friend and great American, John Garner.

"I know all his countrymen share our happiness on this anniversary. Few men in our history have had such opportunity to influence our nation's leaders as our colleague and friend John Garner and few used their opportunity so wisely as he.

"My warmest affection goes out to him as Mrs. Johnson and I join you in spirit to participate in his happy observance."

Johnson attended memorial services for President Kennedy and could not attend the birthday party. Last year, one of the first things Kennedy did on the last day of his life was telephone Garner and wish him happy birthday.

Garner served as vice president during the first two terms of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

14 Million Disabled

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approximately 14 million Americans are disabled in some degree by various forms of heart disease which in 1963 claimed 980,000 lives, the second National Conference on Cardiovascular Diseases was told Sunday.

Newspapers Struck

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The American Newspaper Guild struck the two daily newspapers in this capital city of 129,000 Sunday, but craft unions crossed the picket lines, and the morning Times-Union published a single edition.

COOK'S TOUR

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Calvin Coolidge was so thrifty a president that he limited the quantity of ice water and the number of paper cups in which to serve it at official White House receptions.

"Silent Cal" told an aide he took this step so guests would not stand around all evening drinking instead of going home.

Coolidge was by no means the only penurious president, according to Janet Halliday Erlin's "The White House Cookbook" (Follett). James K. Polk's first lady, Sarah, served no refreshments at all at twice-weekly White House receptions, but set a good table at home in Tennessee.

A Christmas dinner menu for the Polk menage there consisted of oyster soup, celery, turkey, homemade wafers, ham, spiced round salsify (a root vegetable), caramel sweet potatoes, pickles, rice, cranberry sauce, blazing plum pudding, wine jelly, charlotte russe, grapefruit salad, fruit cake, nuts, raisins, wine and coffee.

Old But Good

Many of the menus, recipes, and health, household and beauty hints in the new book are in the original, published in 1887. The authors were White House steward Hugo Ziemann and Mrs. Fanny Gillette, a domestic science expert.

Some of the health and etiquette advice would give nightmares to modern physicians and psychiatrists. On the etiquette question, they wrote:

"Absolute suppression of emotion, whether of anger, laughter, mortification, or disappointment, is one of the most certain marks of good breeding."

On avoiding wrinkles:

"The best advice is to go on a diet of milk, beer, and cake in order to grow fat and thus extend the skin to its full tightness."

Presumably, the same end could be accomplished if one received invitations to Martin Van Buren's "small, beautifully appointed and snobbish dinners" prepared by the chef he's brought from London. Even this didn't satisfy some guests.

One winter, guests were said to have complained about the monotony of the menus and entertainment.

Official entertaining reached what the author calls "a new high" during the Buchanan administration. The menu at the inaugural ball: 400 gallons of oysters, 60 saddles of mutton, 4 saddles of venison, 125 beef tongues, 75 hams 500 quarts each of chicken salad and jellies 1,200 quarts of ice cream, a four-foot cake and $3,000 worth of wine.

The Ulysses S. Grants also lived well. Among three menus included from Grant's administration was one for a brithday dinner for the president. It began with clams, continued to crab soup, assorted appetizers, fish, beef filet, chicken, veal sweetbreads and squab, each with appropriate vegetables or fruit; several desserts, coffee and four different wines with the first four courses.

The Grant family's interest in food didn't stop with their White House days. After the Russian Revolution, the president's granddaughter and her husband, a former Russian count opened a restaurant in London.

Fit for a President

Chicken a la Russe, a favorite recipe of Princess Cantacuzene, granddaughter of President Grant, is not for weight-watchers.

"Take two to four spring chickens well trussed and cleaned. Rub them over with flour and salt and fill them with the following stuffing: 24 tea rusks, well crushed; 2 or 3 tablespoonfuls of butter, 1 or 2 egg yolks and 6 tablespoonfuls of parsley. All these ingredients well mixed together. Then roast the stuffed chickens in a half pound of butter. When ready, serve them with melted butter in which a good quantity of tea rusk crumbs have been mixed. This butter is poured over as a sauce. Serves six persons."

1 teaspoon Cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Nutmeg
¼ teaspoon Ginger
1 cup golden raisins
¾ cup milk
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon hot water

In a bowl, beat the potatoes with sugar. Sift together flour, baking powder, cinnamon, salt, nutmeg, and ginger. Combine with potato mixture. Stir in raisins; add milk. Beat well. Pour into greased 8-½x4-½x2-½-inch loaf pan (5 cups). Bake in a 325° oven 60 to 75 minutes or until loaf tests done. Cool. To glaze the top, mix tablespoons sugar with the hot water; spread over the cooled cake. Loaf tastes better on second day.

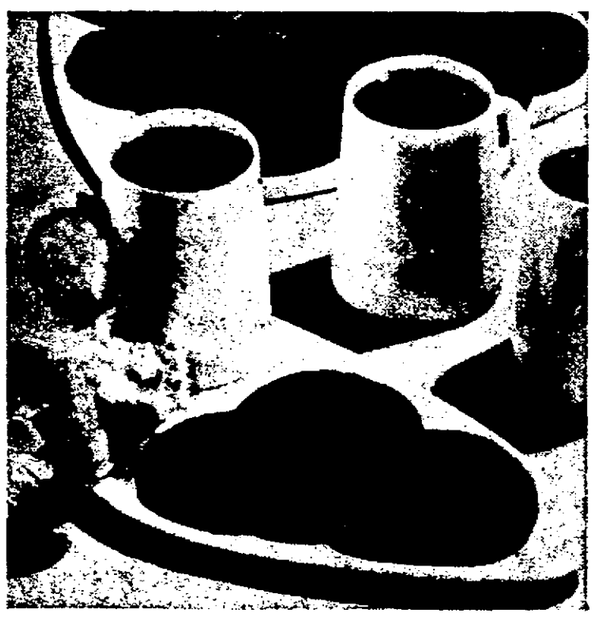

Note: To minimize crack in top of loaf, just place a piece of brown paper or aluminum foil across top of pan the first 20 minutes of baking.

Chippy Peanut Loaf

1 lb. ground smoked ham
3 cup potato chips, crushed
1 cup beef broth
1 tbsp. raisins
1 lb. lean chopped beef
2 beaten eggs
1 tsp. salt
4 tbsp. peanut butter
2 cups hot spiced crab apples

Thoroughly mix together all ingredients except crab apples and pack into a greased 9 x 5 x 3 inch loaf pan. Bake 1½ hours in a 350° oven. Then unmold and serve hot or cold, garnished with hot spiced crabapples.

Whole Bran Cookies And Cocoa Ideal Snack-Mates

Molasses whole bran cookies and hot cocoa make simple, vigorous refreshment. The snap and delicate "bite" of the spiced cookies taste especially good between warming sips of the beverage. The combination is ideal to serve after outdoor play or as a before bedtime snack these cool days and evenings.

Cereal cookies such as these are truly wholesome refreshment. Not only does whole bran cereal make the cookies taste better but it improves their nutritive value by the addition of protein, important B vitamins, essential minerals, and food energy. The cookies will keep crisp and fresh for several days in a cooky jar.

Molasses Whole Bran Cookies

3½ cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons cinnamon
2 teaspoons ginger
2 teaspoons soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup seedless raisins
1½ cups shortening
1½ cups brown sugar, packed
2 eggs
½ cup molasses
1 cup whole bran cereal

Combine flour, spices, soda, and salt; sift. Add raisins; mix. Combine shortening, brown sugar, and eggs; beat until smooth and creamy. Stir in molasses and cereal. Add dry ingredients and raisins; mix until dry ingredients are blended in. Shape into balls, using 1 tablespoonful of dough for each ball. Place 2 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Flatten slightly. Bake in moderate oven (350°F) until done, about 10 minutes. Remove from baking sheet with pancake turner, cool on rack. Yield: About 3½ dozen cookies.

Italian Meat Balls And Spaghetti

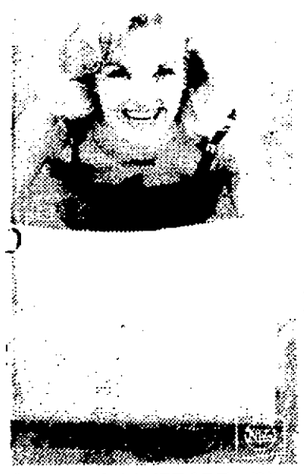

2 cups (1 pound) hamburger
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 cup dry bread crumbs
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon minced onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ cup margarine
1 No. 2½ can tomatoes
1 tablespoon butter
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
½ cup chopped mushrooms
1 teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
½ pound (8-ounces) spaghetti
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Combine hamburger, salt, pepper, dry bread crumbs, milk, onion and parsley. Shape into 12 1½-inch balls. Melt margarine in a skillet, then brown meat balls in the hot margarine. Combine tomatoes, butter, tomato sauce, green pepper, mushrooms, garlic salt, pepper and salt; cook slowly in a large skillet for one hour. Add browned meat balls and cook for an additional thirty minutes. Cook spaghetti, drain. Arrange cooked spaghetti on platter. Pour sauce and meat balls over spaghetti. Top with grated cheese.

Yield: 6 large servings, allowing 2 meat balls per serving.

Say goodbye to mealtime worries. With the warm days upon us, now's the time to stock up on products that help make meals easy and quick — and also extra delicious. For example, a good buy is apple sauce — for desserts, for cake and fruit toppings, to serve with meat, over cereals, and such.

A roll of soft cheddar cheese makes grand pumpkins! Roll small pieces of the cheese into balls and insert whole cloves for stem ends. Mark the cheese with lines, using a toothpick, a la a real pumpkin.

MEANS OF SUPPORT—Elke Hellman is making a practical test of a new aircraft seat cushion. The cushion is said to combine comfort in the plane and lifesaving potential in the water. Developers at B. F. Goodrich say it supports an adult for an unlimited period of time.

Use Bitters To Brighten Food's Taste

AROMATIC SAUCE enlivens broiled chicken and rice.

We have made a delicious discovery. Aromatic bitters, the kind often used in making drinks, add really brighter taste to many familiar recipes for meats, poultry and vegetables. You'll be happily surprised.

Chicken Barbeque Sauce
(1 quart)

½ cup salad oil
⅔ cup cider vinegar
1 cup chili sauce
1 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons aromatic bitters
2 teaspoons onion powder
½ teaspoon crumbled oregano
1 teaspoon Tabasco

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan and simmer for 5 minutes. Brush sauce over chicken several times while barbecueing or broiling. Serve with additional sauce.

Beans And Rice
(6 to 8 servings)

4 strips bacon, diced
1 small onion, diced
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 small green pepper, diced
2 cans (1 pound each) black or kidney beans
4 teaspoons tomato paste
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup cooked rice

In saucepan, fry bacon until crisp. Remove from pan and saute onions in drippings until soft. Add garlic and green pepper and saute lightly. Stir in beans with their liquid, tomato paste, aromatic bitters and bacon bits. Simmer slowly for 30 minutes. Check during cooking and if sauce becomes too thick add small amount of water. Season with salt and pepper. To serve, stir in hot cooked rice, or serve beans over rice.

Tropical Parfait

A different parfait for entertaining—may be made ahead of time and kept in freezer.

1 cup chopped California Dried Figs
¼ cup light corn syrup
1 cup orange juice
4 macaroon cookies, crushed
Vanilla ice cream
Whipped cream

Combine California Dried Figs, corn syrup and orange juice in saucepan. Bring to boil; simmer 5 minutes. Stir in macaroons, cool. Arrange alternate layers with ice cream in parfait glasses. Top with cream.

December Plentiful Foods

Good food, good cheer — an overflowing cornucopia — awaits us come December. The plentiful foods list issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Marketing Service is full and varied, welcome indeed for the many festive needs of this joyful holiday month.

Top plentifuls for the month will be turkeys and peanuts and peanut products, versatile foods for a month with many eating needs.

A fine roast turkey, golden brown and beautiful, will make a holiday meal supreme, and serve well also for quick and easy encore dishes in days thereafter. Northeast markets will have plenty of the big birds on hand, especially the heavier weight birds that are the outstanding mark of this year's huge turkey crop. The 98.7 million birds raised this year —6 percent more than last year— will be coming to market in heavy volume in the weeks ahead, with attractive prices in prospect.

Peanuts and peanut products, economical as well as nutritious, will be other good choices for the shopping list. This year's 2.1-billion pound peanut crop is nearly a fourth above average. Use peanuts and peanut products for the daily and holiday nutbowl, for delicious cookies, cakes and pastries, for sandwich and salad mixtures, for stuffings and sauces, and for other dishes and delicacies you may devise.

For holiday and everyday main dish features, December will offer an excellent variety of high-protein foods — beef and broiler-fryers remain abundant. Beef still holds its place on the plentifuls list — for the 13th month in a row. Production continues well above last year's levels. Supplies of lower grade beef — suitable, especially, for casseroles, stews, pot roasts, and other longer cooking savory dishes — will be considerably greater than last year, while high quality fed beef will about match the liberal offerings of 1963.

Marketings of broiler-fryer chickens are forecast as much as 5 percent above the high of a year ago, with prices to catch the eye of every thrifty homemaker.

For the fruitbowl, the whole month long, by all means take advantage of this year's remarkable apple crop. Although somewhat smaller than originally estimated —138 million bushels — the nation's apple orchards boast the largest crop since 1937. McIntosh, Red and Gold Delicious, Spy, Rome Beauties, Cortlands, Jonathans, and a host of other popular varieties for eating, cooking and baking will be readily available at best buy prices.

An excellent cranberry crop — 1,283,700 bushels — will bring plenty of cranberry products to market — juice, jellied sauce and wholeberry sauce, but in December the boxes of fresh cranberries may show signs of dwindling. Be sure to stock up the freezer with fresh berries for the months to come, but take full advantage, too, of the exceptionally tasty processed products that remain for our year-round pleasure.

Baking a cherry pie? Cherry tarts? Cherry cakes and pastries? Canned red tart cherries will be readily available for all your needs. Because of last summer's record-large red tart cherry crop, the nation's storage houses now hold the largest pack of canned cherries since 1952.

California olive growers this summer harvested a large ripe olive crop, too. Last year, supplies of these mellow-tasting black beauties were record large, but now they're larger still. As of September 1, 1964, stocks of canned ripe olives amounted to some 1.5 million cases, or 13 percent above that date in 1963. Use ripe olives both in holiday and other meals — in the relish tray, in the salad bowl, in stuffing for meats and poultry, in casserole fare, and in other dishes their distinctive flavor will enhance.

Baked Stuffed Spareribs

A different way to serve ribs. The spicy fruit filling provides an interesting flavor contrast.

4 to 5 pounds spareribs cut into 2 pieces
Salt
Pepper
2 cups diced tart apples
1 cup diced California Dried Figs
¼ cup diced onions
¼ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup chicken broth or bouillon

Sprinkle ribs with salt and pepper. Lay 1 strip of ribs in baking pan. Combine apples, California Dried Figs, onions, sugar and cinnamon. Spread over ribs. Pour broth over; top with remaining ribs. (If necessary, hold together with skewers.) Cover with lid or foil. Bake 1½ hours at 350° F. or until ribs are done. Makes 6 servings.

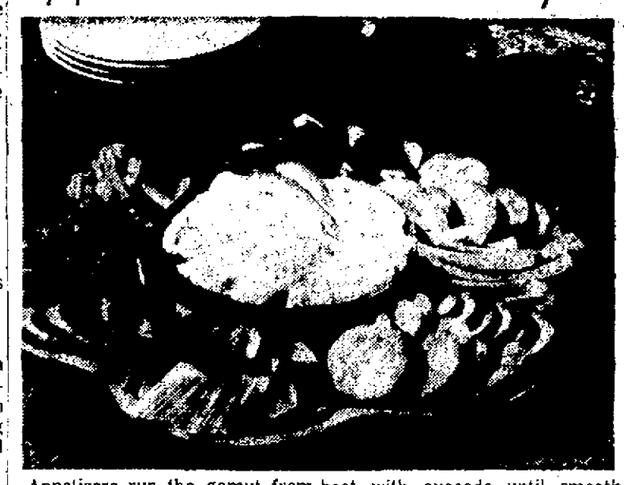

Roast Stuffed Duckling

1 (4 to 5 pound duckling
Salt
1 package herb-seasoning stuffing
1½ cups finely chopped celery
⅔ cup diced orange sections
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
Orange slices

Clean and thoroughly dry duckling. Then rub with salt inside and out.

Prepare stuffing according to package directions. Add celery, orange sections, and rind to prepared stuffing mixture. Toss together lightly. Then stuff duck and secure opening with skewers. Prick bird well with a sharp fork. Place, breast side up, on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Roast in moderate oven (325°F.) 2 to 2½ hours. Garnish with orange slices. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Appetizers—Plain Or Fancy

Appetizers run the gamut from simple dips and spreads to fancy hors d'oeuvres and canapes. Of course, the easiest for the busy hostess to prepare are dips and spreads.

Many of the simple appetizers that are popular today have a dairy product—cream cheese, cottage cheese or sour cream—as the base. Easy-to-make summer cocktail dip combines two dairy products—cottage cheese and sour cream — with hard-cooked eggs, avocado and seasonings.

This dip is good when served with crisp crackers. But, in the summertime, don't forget crisp vegetables are excellent "dunkers". Cucumber slices, carrot sticks, radish roses, green pepper rings and celery pieces are good vegetable choices. These are also good foods to keep on hand in the refrigerator for low-calorie, nutritious between-meal snacks.

For the debut of your patio this summer, remember summer cocktail dip. It will get your first outdoor meal or party off to a flying start.

SUMMER COCKTAIL DIP

1 cup creamed cottage cheese (½ pint)
1 small avocado, diced
1 teaspoon minced onion
2 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped
½ cup dairy sour cream
Salt, to taste
Dash of pepper sauce
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Drain cheese, if too moist, and beat with avocado until smooth and creamy. Add onion and eggs and blend. Fold in sour cream and seasonings and serve with crisp vegetable relishes or small, crisp crackers. Makes 2½ cups.

To prevent the toilet tank from "sweating" and dripping, connect the hot water line to the cold water line supplying the toilet tank. The mixture of water is lukewarm and keeps the outside of the toilet tank completely dry. A shut-off valve on the hot water supply line makes it easy to use this water combination only during hot weather.

Coconut Pear Pie Is Gala Dessert

GLAZED PEAR and coconut pie make fine dessert.

Easy to make, even easier to eat, this pear coconut pie is something to be thankful for when the clan gathers for the great American harvest feast.

COCONUT PEAR PIE GLACE

1 package (6 ounces) vanilla pudding and pie filling
1 can (1 pound 13 ounces) pear halves
1 package lemon-lime, orange, or cherry gelatin
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon almond extract
1½ cups (about) flaked coconut, toasted
1 baked 12-inch pie shell or 2 baked 8-inch pie shells
½ cup heavy cream

Prepare pie filling as directed on package. Remove from heat. place wax paper directly on surface and chill.

Meanwhile, drain pears, reserving ¾ cup syrup. Slice pears and set aside. Combine gelatin and sugar and prepare as directed on package, using ¾ cup reserved pear syrup and lemon juice instead of cold water. Chill until slightly thickened.

Blend chilled pie filling with almond extract. Reserve 2 tablespoons coconut. Fold remaining coconut into filling. Pour into pie shell. Arrange pear slices on top. Spoon gelatin over pears. Chill until firm. Whip cream. Garnish pie with cream and coconut.

Hot Herring Vichysoisse Soup Course For Company

The list of soups is endless, but we find this a big favorite: thick, creamy potato soup. From the delicious peasant version, made in small cottages the world over, to the elegant Vichysoisse created by Louis Diat, the legendary chef of the old Ritz Carlton Hotel in New York, here is a soup with a richly varied heritage.

As with other popular dishes, there are innumerable recipes for potato soup extant. One that is unusual and truly delicious is this one from The Herring Council. It combines the splendor of Vichysoisse with the hearty goodness of plain potato soup. The unique flavor in this soup comes from the addition of a jar of herring fillets in cream sauce. The recipe is remarkably easy since you blend the herring, cooked potatoes, and chicken stock in a blender until it is reduced to a thick liquid. This is then put in a pot with the remaining chicken stock and heavy cream to be heated.

The end result is a rich creamy soup with a delightfully subtle flavor. When company comes, serve it piping hot with a sprinkling of dill and thin slices of pumpernickel.

Herring Vichysoisse

4 potatoes, peeled and cubed
4 cups chicken stock
1 cup jarred herring fillets in sour cream
1 cup heavy cream
Chopped fresh dill

In a saucepan, combine potatoes and chicken stock. Simmer covered until potatoes are tender. Put herring with some of the onions in the jar and potatoes into a blender, adding enough of the chicken stock to fill container ¾ full. Whil at high speed for 30 seconds. Pour mixture into a large saucepan and add remaining stock and heavy cream. Reheat but do not boil. Serve hot sprinkled with fresh dill and a small piece of herring. Serve with crisp crackers or thin slices of pumpernickel. Makes 6 servings.

Note to new cooks: keep white as well as black pepper on hand. Use the white pepper in a light-colored dish when you don't want grains of black pepper to show.

Anise Coffee With Chicory

A quick continental dessert with accompanying coffee with chicory brews at Cafe Orleans and Anise Coffee with Chicory can be served in the living room, allowing guests a chance to move about and change conversation partners.

Coffee with chicory
½ teaspoon anise seed
8 stemmed red maraschino cherries
8 green maraschino cherries
16 pineappe chunks
1 cup sweetened whipped cream or whipped topping, optional

Brew 8 cups coffee with chicory, adding anise seed to coffee grinds. Arrange cherries and pineappe chunks on 8 skewers (this can be done in advance). Place in coffee cups. Fill with coffee and top with whipped cream.

Weekday Lunch

Frosted cookies yield double chocolate flavor.

Creamed Eggs on Toast with Broiled Bacon and Tomatoes
Chocolate Rocks Beverage

CHOCOLATE ROCKS

¾ cup cake flour
¼ teaspoon baking soda
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
⅓ cup sour cream
1 square (1 ounce) unsweetened chocolate, melted.

On waxed paper, stir together the flour, soda and salt. In a small mixing bowl, stir together the sugar and sour cream. Add flour mixture; stir to blend. Add melted chocolate; stir to blend; mixture will be sticky. Drop by level tablespoonsfuls, about 1 inch apart, on a buttered cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven about 18 minutes. Cover with chocolate frosting and serve fresh. Makes about 1½ dozen. Good recipe to use when there's a little leftover commercially soured cream.

Bacon 'N Egg Pie

Pie Shell:
1½ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
Filling:
16 slices bacon, cooked, drained and crumbled
1 cup diced Swiss cheese
1 cup peas
5 eggs
½ cup shortening
4 to 5 tablespoons cold water
2½ cups light cream
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

To prepare pie shell, combine flour and salt; cut in shortening with fork or pastry blender until pieces are size of small peas. Sprinkle water, a tablespoon at a time, over part of mixture. Gently mix with fork until all is moistened. Form into a ball. Roll out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth to ⅛-inch thickness. Place in 9-inch pie plate; trim and flute edges.

Sprinkle bacon, cheese and peas into unbaked shell. Beat eggs, cream, salt, and pepper together; pour into pie shell. Bake in a 425° F. (hot) oven for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 300°F. and continue baking for 35 to 40 minutes, or until knife inserted in center of pie comes out clean. Makes 5 servings.

Pantry Shelf Performs Magic

Let a carefully stocked pantry be your "helping hand" during this busy fall season. Canned condensed cream of mushroom soup sauces canned luncheon meat, peas, and cooked noodles for a tasty Meat and Noodle Supper to serve with green salad.

This fall ushers in a busier season than ever.

Let your pantry shelf be your "helping hand." Whether you're planning the fall rummage sale at the church . . . or launching your club's current agenda . . . convenience foods on the pantry shelf can offer tasty meals in a matter of minutes. To illustrate: This Meat and Noodle Supper is the happy blend of canned condensed cream of mushroom soup, canned luncheon meat, and canned peas mixed with noodles. Colorful, saucey, and prepared in 15 minutes, it'll be one of your standbys. (Serve it with a crisp salad of mixed greens and a dessert of ice cream).

Meat And Noodle Supper

1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat, cut in 2-inch long strips (½-inch thick)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup water
2 cups cooked noodles
1 can (8 ounces) peas, drained
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
Generous dash thyme

In saucepan, brown meat in butter. Add remaining ingredients. Heat, stirring now and then. Makes 4 servings.

Stunning Fruited Souffle Salad

Fruited souffle salad is a pretty spectacular mealtime feature, and lightness makes it an excellent accompaniment for hearty, cool weather meals. This stunning salad is a molded creation of canned sliced peaches and pineapple chunks in fluffy whipped lime gelatin, with bits of maraschino cherries and chopped nuts added for rich contrast. A dollop of rosy whipped dressing makes a very appealing garnish . . . for the delicate pink color blend some cherry juice with mayonnaise and whipped cream. You'll enjoy fruited souffle salad at company dinners and for daily meals, too.

Fruited Souffle Salad

1 can (1 lb.) sliced peaches
1 can (13½ oz.) pineapple chunks
Water
2 pkgs. (3 oz. each) lime flavored gelatin
½ cup chopped maraschino cherries
½ cup chopped nuts
Crisp salad greens

Combine syrups from fruits with water to make 1½ cups liquid; heat. Dissolve gelatin in hot liquid; stir in 2 cups cold water. Chill until very thick; beat mixture until it is fluffy and double in volume. Stir in drained peaches and drained pineapple, cherries and nuts. Spoon into a mold and chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens; pass rosy whipped dressing.

ROSY WHIPPED DRESSING: Blend together ½ cup mayonnaise with 2 teaspoons juice from cherries; fold in ½ cup of heavy cream, whipped. Makes approximately 1½ cups dressing.

Company Lunch

A new and interesting dressing for green salad.

Curried Chicken Steamed Rice
Green Salad India Dressing
Chess Tarts Beverage

India Dressing

- 1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
- 1 small onion, minced
- 3 tablespoons minced green pepper
- ⅔ cup salad oil
- ¼ cup cider vinegar
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon curry powder
- Tabasco sauce to taste

Mix together the undiluted orange concentrate, onion and green pepper; let stand about 1 hour. Strain mixture and discard onion and pepper. Into the seasoned orange concentrate, beat the remaining ingredients until blended. Shake well before using. Store in refrigerator. Makes 1½ cups.

Polynesian Meat Balls

- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup milk
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1 pound ground beef
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1½ tablespoons cornstarch
- ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 cup pineapple juice
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 8-ounce can water chestnuts, drained and cut into ¼-inch slivers
- 2 1-pound cans bean sprouts
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1 cup coarsely chopped green pepper

Combine soft bread crumbs, salt, pepper, onion, milk, 2 teaspoons soy sauce and ground beef. Shape into 16 balls, using about 2 tablespoons of mixture for each ball. Place in a shallow baking pan and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) until browned, about thirty minutes. Combine sugar, cornstarch and ginger. Add pineapple juice, vinegar, remaining teaspoon soy sauce and butter. Cook over low heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Add water chestnuts and re-heat. Combine bean sprouts, onion and green pepper. Simmer until onion is tender. Drain off liquid. Spoon bean sprout mixture onto plates, top with meat balls and pour sauce over all.

Yield: 5 servings.

Make Sunday Brunch Sparkle

PEACHY OATMEAL pancakes are fine for a Sunday brunch.

Sunday brunch has gone big time. It is now a popular way of entertaining on a work-free, rush-free day.

It should be compounded of leisure, unhurried hospitality and good food not usually in the traditional breakfast pattern. Try this glamorized version of rolled oats and pancake mix.

Oatmeal Pancakes With Peach Sauce
(12-16 pancakes)

Peach Sauce

- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 packages (12 ounces each) frozen sliced peaches, defrosted
- 2 tablespoons grated orange rind
- ¼ cup Cointreau, optional

Pancakes

- 1 cup prepared pancake mix
- ½ cup rolled oats, quick or regular, uncooked
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 3 eggs
- 2 cups milk
- 1 pint dairy sour cream
- ¼ cup melted shortening, or cooking oil
- Confectioners' sugar

Make sauce. Combine sugar and cornstarch; mix. Stir in peaches and orange rind. Cook over low heat, stirring carefully, until clear and thickened. Keep warm. Just before serving, stir in Cointreau, if desired.

Make pancakes. Combine pancake mix, rolled oats, sugar and nutmeg; mix well. Add eggs, milk, ¼ cup sour cream (save remaining cream for filling pancakes) and shortening or oil; mix until dry ingredients are moistened. Pour ¼ cup batter onto heated griddle. Bake until brown on under side, edges dry and top covered with bubbles. Turn, cook second side. Spread hot pancakes with sour cream; roll and sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Serve with peach sauce.

When a recipe calls for "well beaten" egg yolks, beat the yolks with a rotary beater (hand or electric) until thick and lemon colored.

Saturday Supper

A Chinese-type marinade yields great flavor to chicken.

Baked Chicken Teriyaki Rice
Green Peas Salad
Fruit Sherbet Beverage

BAKED CHICKEN TERIYAKI

- 1 broiler-fryer, cut up
- ¼ cup each soy sauce and lemon juice
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger

Wash and dry chicken. Stir together the remaining ingredients until sugar is dissolved; pour over chicken in a shallow container; allow to stand at room temperature for about ½ hour, turning often. Remove chicken from marinade and place in a shallow foil-lined baking pan into which pieces just fit in one layer. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until tender — about 45 to 60 minutes — turning as necessary and basting with the marinade. Makes 4 servings.

Brownies

- ⅔ cup shortening
- 4 squares (4 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
- 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 3 eggs
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1¼ cups flour
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- ½ tsp. salt
- ½ cup chopped nuts

Melt shortening and chocolate together in large saucepan over medium heat. Remove from heat. Cool slightly. Add remaining ingredients to chocolate mixture in order listed. Mix thoroughly. Spread evenly in well-greased 9 x 13-inch oblong pan. Bake at 350° for 30 minutes. Cool in pan. Frost with chocolate butter cream frosting when cool, if desired. Cut into bars. Yield 4 dozen cookies.

Browned Kraut And Sausage

When a busy day of shopping cuts down on meal preparation time, you can rely on this recipe for browned kraut and sausages . . . it can be whipped up in a jiffy. Brown canned pork sausages in their liquid; turning frequently. Add canned drained sauerkraut and a dash of caraway seed for seasoning. Cook uncovered until the sauerkraut is lightly browned.

A New Dessert For A New Season

Busy homemakers will be concerned with many activities, in addition to the regular routine of household chores, now that monthly club meetings, afternoon shopping sprees and after school parties are bursting into full swing. But, midst the hurry and scurry of the fall season one thing is certain; daily meals cannot be neglected. In fact, now's the time to give them, and the family, a hale, hearty lift. The perfect way to stimulate new interest in mealtime is to spring a few surprises for dessert.

One of the best ideas we can offer is a recipe for Homey Apple Crisp. The chief ingredients are canned apple sauce and sliced apples—an economical and convenient advantage. A few dashes of cinnamon and nutmeg, with raisins sprinkled throughout, add a very pleasing flavor. Too, you'll like the crisp, crinkly top. As the name implies, Homey Apple Crisp is ideal for family meals, but don't hesitate to offer it to guests.

HOMEY APPLE CRISP

- 1 can (1 lb. 4 oz.) sliced apples
- 1 can or jar (1 lb.) apple sauce
- ½ cup raisins
- ½ cup granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- ¾ cup rolled oats
- ¾ cup flour
- ½ cup butter, or margarine

Mix sliced apples, apple sauce, raisins, granulated sugar, spices and salt in a shallow baking dish. Combine brown sugar, rolled oats and flour. Cut in butter until crumbly and thoroughly blended; sprinkle over apples. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) about 35 minutes.

College Costs Continue Upward

Columbia University has taken the lead in the Ivy League tuition race by raising its undergraduate rate $200, effective next fall, and bringing the annual charge to $1,960. This is $100 above the prevailing rate at Brown, Cornell, Dartmouth and Yale, which now share the top spot. Harvard, Princeton and Pennsylvania are not far behind.

Columbia's new tuition level represents a rise of more than 70 per cent in six years. While this is startling, it is peculiar neither to Columbia nor to the Ivy. Statistics show that half of all private institutions of higher learning, and a fourth of all public ones, have kept pace.

In common with other colleges that have raised tuition recently, Columbia says the additional revenue is needed for faculty salary increases. Higher tuition is thus presented as the alternative to a decline in the quality of instruction.

But the danger of rocketing college fees is that they will increase the number of able high school graduates who do not continue their education because they cannot afford to. This figure is already too large, as indicated by a nationwide survey which found that from 80,000 to 100,000 students in the upper third of the Class of '60 failed to enter college for financial reasons.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

The Old Taft Man Speaks

The old Taft Republican was holding his own inquest on the Republican Party.

"The 'rule or ruin' policy," he said, "has come to characterize the Republican Party. It points up the awesome condition that the party gives secondary importance to its ideologies and primary importance to control of party machinery.

'Since the electorate will not long support a political party which considers their welfare secondary, the question now to be asked is whether or not the Republican Party has demonstrated to the electorate that it has been unable to weld the lines of its hybrid birth: Federalist, Whig, Free-Soiler, Abolitionist, ect.: that it cannot create, develop and adhere to a positive, better, national program that will take precedence over and survive intra-party struggles; that it was born with congenital weaknesses, and that as a consequence, it is incapable of acting as an agency for fulfilling the needs of the people and should be relegated to the graveyard of its forebears.

"One does not overlook the glaring deficiencies in Barry Goldwater as a campaigner. He failed to speak convincingly and doubtless was on the defensive because he had to keep one eye on the Republican hatchetmen. If he had their moral support he would have been able to exude the confidence in his TV appearances that characterized Ronald Reagan's presentation of the same subject matter."

The old Taft man paused to skip through the 1960 election statistics in the World Almanac. He ticked off California, Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, Texas, and Pennsylvania.

"Nixon," he said, "lost every one of these six states except California, which he managed to win by 35,000 in a total vote of 6,485,000. As for the bleeding hearts in rock-ribbed New England, let them first explain how Vermont and New Hampshire went Democratic in their last gubernatorial elections, and why in Maine the Democrat Senator Muskie is about to serve his second six-year term. Let also the bleeding hearts explain in Connecticut what John Lodge was doing on the Republican ticket for U. S. Senator when, in 1954, he lost his bid for re-election as Governor to Abe Ribicoff and in 1958 Ribicoff got himself re-elected by 247,000, yes, 247,000 votes.

"As the Ike Republicans lopped off the Taft Republicans in 1952 with complete finality, so the Romney-Scranton-Rockefeller Republicans now suffer a similar fate. Taft did not lose the 1952 nomination to Ike because the latter was a 'liberal.' He lost it because he was given the 'shaft' (to use a Nixonism) by opposing power-grabbers.

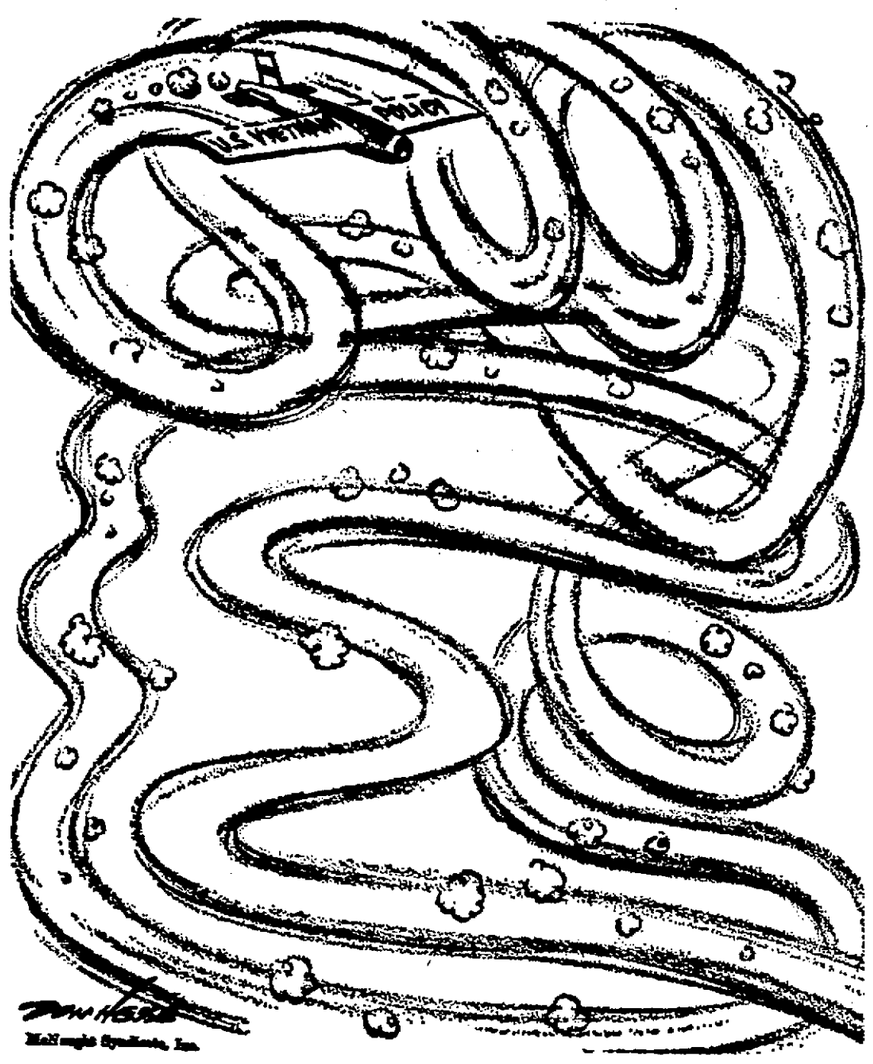

They wanted to prevent a shift of party control from the east to the west. Nothing could, thereafter, assuage the fiery anger of the Taft supporters and, come hell or high water, they will oppose anyone presented now by the shafters, be he 'liberal' or 'conservative.' And, of course, the shafters will react similarly to anyone endorsed by the other group. No one in their right mind can hope that Rocky, Nixon, Cabot Lodge or Barry Goldwater can make the party into an effective machine if my view is correct. If mention of the death of the Republican Party sounds overly sepulchral, premature and unwarranted, let me again refer to its multi-sired birth and attendant congenital weakness as evidence that prediction of death may be a realistic appraisal.

"Is there absolutely no hope then? Yes, there is a spark. With respect to the next Presidential convention, will all the Republican leaders and architects of the 1964 campaign be willing to disavow immediately any intention to seek the Presidential nomination and abjure any intention to grab the party machinery? Instead of waiting for convention time, would they at the end of two-and-one-half years settle on a completely neutral, qualified man to whom they would pledge solid, unified support at the convention? Instead of a plenipotential National Committee chairman, would they be willing to create an executive committee of ten, each one representing a geographical unit where Republican thinking is more or less the same? If so, this might be a start."

The old Taft man lapsed into silence. It was clear that he feared what he called "a savage, relentless struggle within the party to grab control of the mechanism for the sick joy of power itself."

Anomalies In The Cost Effectiveness Program

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — A brand-new trend in American politics and government always deserves notice. And the U. S. government's increased attention to what is called "cost effectiveness" is certainly such a trend.

As "cost effectiveness" is a typical anti-English phrase of modern bureaucratese, it is best to begin by citing a specific example. Consider, then, the rancid swamp which is the American substitute for a farm policy.

In President John Kennedy's last year in office, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman tried to reduce the vast maintenance cost of the swamp by offering the wheat and feed-grain farmers a clear choice between price-supports-plus-controls or no controls and no price supports. The farmers were then told they could not have their cake and eat it, too.

By their own vote, the wheat farmers then rejected controls-plus - price - supports. Whereupon President Kennedy decided that the farmers must after all be allowed to have their cake and eat it, too. Since President Lyndon Johnson has taken the same line, this year's bill for farm price supports without controls will reach the staggering total of $4 billion.

This figure, in itself, raises a cost effectiveness question. Is it better to spend $4 billion supporting prices for only 3.5 million U. S. farmers? Or is it better to spend the same sum on our dilapidated educational system or for some other urgent need?

But that is not the end of this grisly story. The 3.5 million U. S. farmers are sharply divided into two very different groups. A million of them are successful farmers, with annual incomes averaging close to $10,000 a year and with capital assets—land, buildings, stock and machinery—that probably average close to $100,000 per farmer.

The other 2.5 million farmers are unsuccessful, with trifling capital assets, and incomes close to and often far below the poverty level. But who gets what share of the $4 billion we spend to prop farm prices? The answer is that the poverty-stricken 2.5 million U. S. farmers get only about 20% of the $4 billion, while the successful million farmers get all the rest, or about $3.2 billion.

We are not, of course, paying an average of $3200 per annum to each of these successful farmers. A considerable share of the $4 billion cost of price supports goes for such incidentals as storage costs. But the fact remains that the taxpayers are now laying out $3200 per head per annum to insure the income of one of the most prosperous, even wealthy, single groups in the entire U. S. population.

This fairly startling example was cited in a recent speech by the budget director, Kermit Gordon, to a meeting of the Committee for Economic Development. Beginning in the time of David Bell, cost effectiveness has been increasingly studied at the Budget Bureau.

The deputy director, Charles Schultze, has made himself something of a specialist in the subject. Director Gordon is also considering setting up a permanent cost effectiveness study group of three or four high staff members. They will not only be charged with making cost-effectiveness studies of existing government programs, but will also work out yardsticks that can be applied to new programs.

One such study has already been made of the cost effectiveness of the federal government's past and planned investment in irrigation—which amounts in all to $5.1 billion. At current prices, irrigation spending provides a free subsidy of $600 to $2000 per acre to the owner of the irrigated land, over and above water charges.

In California, the luckier irrigation farmers are currently paying less than $2.50 per acre foot of water, whereas the city of Los Angeles will shortly be paying no less than $63 per acre foot. Yet the Los Angeles water, by permitting industrial growth, will generate increased federal tax revenues. And the irrigated land, of course, produces crops which generate additional price support payments.

Agriculture is not the only area where cost - effectiveness studies quickly dredge up such lurid results. The veterans programs, the Merchant Marine program and many others are full of comparable anomalies.

To avoid such anomalies, Sargent Shriver is recruiting a top economist to make cost - effectiveness studies of the different programs included in his anti-poverty effort. At the Defense Department, of course, Comptroller Charles Hitch, whose book on defense economics started the whole thing, has long required cost-effectiveness tests of all defense appropriations.

The trend is real, in short. But results must still be awaited in many areas.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

MORALITY, MONEY ISSUES — There is one area in which the GOP wing in Congress will not pull their punches in the months ahead. Despite the current post-election lull, there is a real resentment among Republicans on Capitol Hill concerning the Bobby Baker "cover-up," and the morality issues that jolted the White House in the closing days of the presidential campaign.

In the weeks and months ahead — particularly after the new Congress has assembled—Republicans plan to maintain a drumfire attack on matters symbolized by Baker and Walter Jenkins, the former Johnson aide dismissed on morality grounds.

They also plan to continue their attack on the sources and size of the Johnson family's personal fortune. In this latter area, some Democrats who have been silent because of the political season can be expected to join in the condemnation of the apparent use of personal influence in government as the basis for a multi-million dollar fortune on the part of an elected official of the government.

Johnson is universally respected because of his expertise in congressional matters. His former Hill colleagues of both parties concede his effectiveness in the legislative arena. But his attitude toward the events above enumerated has cost him dearly in the kind of loyalty and devotion that such men as President Roosevelt, Truman and Kennedy enjoyed.

If Johnson cannot succeed in changing his "image" among the men who know him best — the legislators — it could have an adverse effect on his overall accomplishments in the years immediately ahead.

This, and the political benefits to be reaped, are what is at the root of the GOP determination to keep criticism of the president alive and in the public eye.

Gratifying Results In Parkinsonism Surgery

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The brain operation for parkinsonism (shaking palsy) has been improved considerably in the last decade. A tribute ought to be paid to the skill and ingenuity of neurosurgeons who have devoted much of their life to making the technic effective and safe.

Tremor and muscle rigidity are relieved in 80 per cent of selected cases and the mortality is less than 2 per cent. In addition, the procedure does not lead to loss of intellectual ability or damage to the personality. The results are most gratifying when symptoms are confined mainly to one side and the individual is otherwise healthy.

The operation does not cure or restore the involved muscles. It is not advised when the disease is progressing rapidly or the physical condition is poor. The decision should not be put off until the patient has passed the stage in which he can be helped.

The purpose of the operation is to destroy the small nerve center in the brain where tremor originates. This center lies deep in the brain and is slightly more than a quarter inch in diameter. Several methods are used. Some surgeons inject a chemical agent; others employ electrocoagulation, local freezing or high frequency sound waves.

Many drugs are available to block or reduce the activity of the brain cells that produce symptoms. Some medications work better on one person than on others so that treatment must be individualized.

The patient should be urged to adjust his life to his disability by avoiding stress, anxiety, and fatigue. Physical therapy lessens stiffness. Parkinsonism is not hopeless. When the morale of the victim and his family is low, an all-out attack is needed to avoid the secondary changes that come from neglect and inactivity.

TOMORROW: Rh Incompatibility.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Two time-honored rivals in Western Texas were fighting it out for a nomination to Congress, and agreed to a debate in a town hall that brought fun-loving citizens from every corner of the county. After the debate had gotten properly warmed up, one candidate thundered, "What about the powerful and corrupt interests that control you?" The other candidate shouted back, "You leave my wife out of this!"

Ben Whitehall tells about a little girl who became lost in a New Jersey discount emporium while her mother was hunting for bargains. The manager asked her testily, "Why didn't you hold on to your mother's skirt?" Explained the little girl, "I couldn't REACH it."

"When I was born," recalls

Woody Allen, "my family was so poor my mother couldn't afford to use baby talcum on me. So she used to douse me with kitchen baking soda. The result was most unfortunate. About once every month I'd break out in a severe case of cookies."

HOSPITAL PROCEDURE

A. T. writes: Can tonsils be removed in a doctor's office?

REPLY

Yes, but it is not advisable because most offices have neither the help nor the equipment needed should complications arise. Many years ago tonsils were removed piece-meal with a cautery as an office procedure.

HAIR DARKENING

A. B. writes: What causes blond hair to darken? Can it be caused by the use of pills containing iron?

REPLY

Blond hair usually darkens with age. The color of hair is determined by the pigment cells at the roots and has nothing to do with the iron pigment in the blood.

BONE TB TESTS

D. B. writes: Can tuberculosis of the bones be diagnosed by the tuberculin skin test?

REPLY

No, even though the test is likely to be positive. X-rays and laboratory tests of the discharge are the best ways to make this diagnosis.

FIND AND AVOID CAUSE

M. G. writes: Is there any cure for allergies in general?

REPLY

Yes, if the causative agent can be found and avoided. This is not easy. Most allergic persons should attempt desensitization and use medicines to control symptoms.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Lady Bird Johnson Recorded Details Of Last Year's Tragedy In Dallas

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Millions of words have been written about the terrible and tragic events in Dallas a year ago. But probably none are more moving than those spoken into a scratchy tape recorder by Mrs. Lady Bird Johnson less than 24 hours after the murder of President Kennedy.

The historic transcript was turned over to the Warren Commission, which will publish it in a few days. Mrs. Johnson's account, which this column is now able to reveal for the first time, not only is a contribution to history but gives probably the clearest insight into the agony and anger of the woman she succeeded as First Lady, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

Although Mrs. Johnson's heart was aching for the young widow she had tried to comfort, although she herself was in a daze, she felt an obligation to record her impressions of what had taken place. Her account begins quite simply:

"It all began so beautifully. After a drizzle in the morning, the sun came out bright and beautiful. We were going into Dallas . . . . The streets were lined with people, lots and lots of people, the children all smiling, placards, confetti, people waving from windows. One last happy moment I had was looking up and seeing Mary Griffith (a friend leaning out of a window waving at me . . . ."

Then came the shots that shook the world, and a hair-raising drive to the Dallas Hospital. Rufus Youngblood, the Vice President's personal Secret Service bodyguard, vaulted over the front seat and flung himself on Lyndon Johnson, forcing him to the floor of the limousine, crying, "Get down!"

Mrs. Johnson and Sen. Ralph Yarborough crouched beside them. Over the car's radio, she heard the Secret Service order, "Let's get out of here!"

Still nobody knew what had happened. Mrs. Johnson's account continues: "We pulled up to a building. I looked up and saw it said hospital. . . Sen. Yarborough kept on saying in an excited voice, 'Have they shot the President?' I said something like 'No, it can't be!'. . . .

"Secret Service men began to pull, lead, guide and hustle us out. I cast a last look over my shoulder and saw a bundle of pink just like a drift of blossoms lying on the back seat (of the President's car). I think it was Mrs. Kennedy lying over the President's body (She was wearing a pink suit.)"

Inside the hospital, Mrs. Johnson asked to be taken to Mrs. Kennedy: "Suddenly I found myself face to face with Jackie in a small hall. I think it was outside the operating room. You always think of her as being insulated, protected—she was quite alone. I don't think I ever saw anyone so much alone in my life.

Lady Bird Comforts Jackie

"I went up to her, put my arms around her and said something to her. I'm sure it was something like 'God, help us all,' because my feelings for her were too tumultuous to put into words.

"Then I went in to see Nellie (wife of Texas Gov. John Connally). There it was different, because Nellie and I have gone through so many things together since 1938. I hugged her tight, and we both cried and I said, "Nellie, it's going to be all right."

Not until she returned to her husband did Mrs. Johnson learn that President Kennedy was dead and for the first time hear Lyndon Johnson addressed as "Mr. President." On the return flight to Washington, the new First Lady had a dramatic encounter with the former First Lady.

"Although it was a very hard thing to do, she made it as easy as possible," continues Mrs. Johnson. "She said things like, 'Oh, Lady Bird, it's good that we've always liked you two so much.' She said, 'Oh, what if I had not been there! I'm so glad I was there!

Blood-Splattered Glove

"I looked at her. Mrs. Kennedy's dress was stained with blood. One leg was almost entirely covered with it, and her right glove was caked—that immaculate woman—it was caked with blood, her husband's blood. She always wore gloves like she was used to them. I never could. Somehow that was one of the most poignant sights—exquisitely dressed and caked in blood.

"I asked her if I could get someone in to help her change, and she said, 'Oh, no, perhaps I'll ask Mary Gallagher. But not right now.'

"And then with something—if you can say a person that gentle, that dignified, you can say had an element of fierceness—she said, 'I want them to see what they have done to Jack.'

"I wanted to help her, but there was nothing I could do to help her."

With those words from the heart, Lady Bird Johnson has preserved a stirring moment of history.

Brezhnev's Heart

This column has solved the mystery of the top-secret cable from Moscow, reporting that Communist Party boss Leonid Brezhnev may have suffered a heart attack.

The day after this column reported receipt of the startling cable, Brezhnev appeared in public looking as healthy as ever.

It turns out that American intelligence was not misinformed but had misinterpreted a report that heart trouble had forced Brezhnev suddenly to cancel all appointments and appearances.

Apparently, it was an old heart ailment, not a new seizure, that caused the cancellations. Twice in the past, Brezhnev reportedly has had heart attacks.

On doctors' orders, he seldom smokes or drinks and abruptly halts his work if he starts feeling tired. This is what happened on the day he cancelled his schedule.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Age, of course, depends on which side of the eyeballs you are on. From behind them, the War Birds are a youthful group of World War I pilots. From in front, the men are old and puckered. Some are paunchy. Some are slender and vaguely handsome. A few cup their hands behind their ears.

They sat around a U-shaped table, joshing time and pausing now and then to solemnly toast the President of the United States, the Queen, and their departed comrades. It was a stag dinner and someone asked if anyone present had downed an enemy plane in the old days. Harry Copland, a lean gray pipe-smoker, raised a finger.

"One confirmed," he said. The conversation went on to other topics. Copland is 68. He sat staring into the ruby liquid in the wine glass, and he turned the stem so that the liquid shimmered. Yes, he thought, one confirmed. He wasn't proud of it.

The date was October 5th, 1918. The airfield was three miles in from the beach at Dunkirk, France. It was a meadow, rather than a field. The Royal Air Force had 15 Bristol fighters in three flights. It was a good two-seater craft with machine guns. Certainly it was better than the early planes, when enemy pilots passed each other firing pistols.

First Lieutenant Copland, an American from Detroit, was in charge of "C" flight of Number 3 Squadron. He had the Dawn Patrol this morning. He was 22, an old-timer who had been flying since 1911. The younger pilots had faith in the old man. He told them that the mission would be to fly at 7,000 feet over the German lines, looking for enemy planes.

There were no radios. Copland got in the front seat; his observer, Second Lieutenant Packenham-Walsh, manned two Lewis machine guns in the rear cockpit. Leather helmets were pulled down, and the 250 horsepower Rolls-Royce engines spat blue flame in the first flush of dawn.

The five planes staggered down the meadow until they reached 60 m.p.h. Then they lifted off over the trees and into the pink and gold sky. It was brisk, but clear. The four Bristols behind Copland pulled up in V formation and climbed eastward.

World War I was almost over. In 37 days, the final shot on the Western Front would be fired. Copland had flown 275 missions—usually two each day—at a time when flying was more hazardous than fighting. The Bristol was fast: 110 miles per hour cruising; 120 m.p.h. wide open.

When the red tongue of the sun edged over the green hills, Copland looked down and saw a slow German Halberstat. It was at 3,000 feet spotting artillery fire for the infantry. Copland pointed, then pointed upward. All the young pilots scanned the skies. Sometimes the Germans kept a slow plane low as a decoy.

Copland saw no pursuit planes above, so he waved his arms for his flight to keep station at 7,000 feet. Then he motioned to Packenham-Walsh that he was going to dive on the German plane. The observer nodded. The ship tilted, then turned straight down. The wires screamed at 140 m.p.h. Copland got to 3,500 feet and leveled off. He was coming in at the side of the Halberstat.

The young lieutenant could see the German pilot and his observer through the shining disc of his propeller. At the last moment, the German yanked his leather helmet from his head. The hair was yellow, the face frightened. Copland opened his Vickers guns. He watched the slugs go through the enemy plane.

He pulled up over it, passed it, and made a long turn to come around for another run. He watched his slow adversary move straight ahead, then tilt down a little, then a little more, and crash straight down into a farm. There was no explosion. No fire. No movement. No life.

Young Yellow Hair and his observer were gone. Copland was scared. The plane had flown sedately a moment ago. Now it was crumpled cardboard. He swallowed, and climbed back up to his boys. When they got back to the air field out of Dunkirk, he brought his Bristol in with a flourish, and so did his youngsters. When the engines had been cut, everyone climbed on his wing to congratulate the old man on having a confirmed kill.

The old man was 22. He squeezed his eyes shut and tried to forget the yellow hair and the hypnotized fright on the face. In the mess, officers drank toasts. Copland went to his tent and sat. He was still scared, and didn't know how to say it. He could not sleep for a long time after that.

"Come on, Harry," someone said at the War Birds dinner. He looked up from the glass of wine. At the age of 68, the grin is swift and sure. He raised the drink.

"Okay," he said. "Here's to those we remember." . . .

Juana Castro Visits Grave Of Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- A lone Cuban woman stood Sunday at the grave of President John F. Kennedy with hands clasped in silent prayer.

She was dressed in black, and a black mantilla covered her auburn hair.

Although she had never met the late President, she used the private path to his grave and stood where only members of the Kennedy family and government dignitaries are allowed.

She was one of the few graveside mourners Sunday whose identity puzzled the thousands of other mourners waiting in line to pay their respects.

The Cuban woman was Juana Castro, sister of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Miss Castro came to the grave to pay personal respects to the late President and to lay a wreath in the name of the Cuban people.

The first anniversary of Kennedy's death marked her first visit to Washington since she defected from her Communist homeland and denounced her brother last June. She has been living in Mexico City.

She declined to speak with anyone, but issued a statement, explaining the purpose of her graveside tribute.

"All the countries of this sphere, with the only exception of Cuba, have expressed their tribute to the memory of the great president of the United States, John F. Kennedy," she said.

"He is and will be forever in the heart of the free people of Cuba. In the name of the Cuban people, we lay this wreath with the colors of our national flag at the grave of this martyr of the human freedom."

Baltimore GOP Hits Extremism

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore City Republican Committee has adopted a resolution repudiating "those elements of racism and extremism that became connected" with the party in the recent election.

Chairman Walter E. Black Jr. announced the resolution was adopted by a 35-2 vote.

He said the committee did not wish to "read anyone out of the party but added there is no room in the party "for certain political doctrines" which clash with its "fundamental justification for existence."

The resolution, described by Black as the first of its kind to be adopted by a major Republican group, said "something can and must be done to re-establish the general appeal of the Republican party, the temporary loss of which contributed so decisively to its defeat."

The party leadership in Baltimore had expressed a preference for Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton in the Republican nominating convention at San Francisco last summer and many Scranton supporters refused to make the nomination of Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater unanimous.

British Defense Policy Is Reviewed

LONDON (UPI) — The new Labor government Sunday ended a weekend review of British defense policy that could produce plans for a radical realignment of the Western alliance.

Sources said this realignment would involve Britain's abandonment of its independent nuclear deterrent and its integration in a full-blown "Atlantic nuclear force" that would replace the American-proposed multilateral nuclear force (MLF).

Prime Minister Harold Wilson was expected to give the first broad outlines of the results of the weekend talks in a defense debate in the House of Commons Monday.

But defense chiefs will be ironing out final details almost until the moment Wilson goes to Washington Dec. 7-8 to present the plan to President Johnson. The rest of Britain's partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) will get a look at the plan at a NATO council meeting in Paris later next month.

The plans were reported to be taking this shape:

Britain would continue to oppose the MLF, which envisages a fleet of some 25 Polaris-armed, mixed-manned surface ships. The British feel the MLF is too expensive, is militarily unworkable and would reduce the British voice in Western defense to little more than a whisper.

Instead, the Wilson-planned Atlantic Nuclear Force (ANF) would expand the MLF concept to a force embracing the West's strategic nuclear capability.

Britain would donate its three projected nuclear Polaris submarines, plus its V-bomber force and TS42 supersonic fighter planes. It might agree to a scaled-down MLF, with a maximum of about 10 surface ships.

This would mean the end of an independent British nuclear force—especially since the government would forego any escape clause enabling it to pull out its contribution for national use in case of an emergency.

This clause was written into the "Nassau Pact" under which the Conservative government agreed to buy American Polaris missiles. Erasure of this clause was expected to cause violent Conservative opposition.

In return for foregoing this clause, Britain would insist either on a British veto or a European veto as a hold over the use of the ANF.

Court House Employes To Get Long Holiday

Employes at the Allegany County Court House will get a long Thanksgiving weekend holiday extending from 4 p. m. Wednesday until the following Monday morning.

Because the Court House will be closed on Friday, the county commissioners will meet on Tuesday and Wednesday next week.

Equity Suits Filed

Three equity suits were filed Friday at Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Chester G. Erichsen vs Wanda M. Erichsen, Mary F. Paige vs. Joseph R. Paige, and Catherine Eunice McKenzie vs. Walter Murle McKenzie.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠KQ1032 ♡86 ◇K92 ♣AQ10
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Double	Redouble	2 ♡
Pass	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. There is no occasion for further dalliance. When spades are raised, your hand becomes worth 16 points (14 in high cards, one for the doubleton and one for the fifth trump). Partner's redouble shows that he has a minimum of 10. The combined assets are therefore 26 or better, enough to attempt a game.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠AQJ1074 ♡AQJ10 ♣643
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Seven spades, and you should be able to spread the hand after the lead. North could hardly have combined a two no trump rebid with a jump preference on any lesser holding than both major suit kings and either ace, king, queen of clubs, or ace, king of clubs, ace of diamonds.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠K10642 ♡7 ◇K852 ♣543
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ♠	Double	?

What is your response?

A.—Three spades. Prospects for an adverse heart game are not at all remote and an immediate jump raise is best calculated to inhibit the opponents. Partner should not expect more than this, for with a good hand you would have chosen to redouble.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠J10543 ♡8762 ◇1074 ♣J
Your partner opens with one no trump. What is your response?

A.—Pass. You are virtually broke and despite the singleton no thought should be given to a rescue bid unless partner should get doubled.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠Q4 ♡82 ◇AJ64 ♣KQJ83
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Six clubs. Partner has shown that he has, at most, a single diamond, for he has described five hearts, four spades and at least three clubs. In view of partner's strong bidding you may expect that he will have no more than one loser in the major suits.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠KJ106 ♡K82 ◇Q85 ♣J75
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—One try for game is indicated on this hand and the suggested call is two no trump. Your values are well distributed and if your partner has a maximum raise there may be a chance for a game.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠K62 ♡AK9743 ◇5 ♣QJ8
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	2 ◇	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two no trump. This is preferable to another rebid of hearts. Partner has shown a rather good hand and the key to the best final contract may be your club stopper.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠76 ♡AJ982 ◇83 ♣K1064
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♠	1 NT	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. At no trump this hand is worth eight points. At hearts its value is 10 points. The hand is slightly unbalanced and an effort should be made to place it at hearts. Partner should have 16 points for his one no trump over-call. If he rebids three no trump then pass.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Where but in print can you get so close to the advertising messages that interest you? Where else can a woman clip the coupons and recipes that intrigue her? Or tear out tips to try on leftovers? Or mark, for future marketing, any of the colorful food ideas which strike her fancy?

And where else can she circle and compare the colors and styles of clothing and furnishings that appeal to her?

Where else, in fact, can any message be re-run at will by an interested audience?

So make sure a good part of your advertising message gets into print. Let somebody's eyes linger over it as long as they like. Let somebody's scissors clip it free of competition. And then watch someone's pocket or purse carry it to the place of purchase. Print makes sense because print makes sales.

Bloodmobile To Visit In Westernport

Tri-Towns Lions Backing Program

WESTERNPORT — The Tri-Towns Lions Club is sponsoring a blood donor recruitment drive for the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit of Johnstown Tuesday, December 1 from 12 to 6 p. m. at Victory Post 155, American Legion Home, Westernport.

A recruiting station was set up at the Devon Club, Luke, last week, manned by Red Cross recruit co-chairmen, Mrs. Bernadine Apple and Mrs. Mary Peterson to contact mill employes as they came to cash their checks. Donors pledged totaled 200, of which 150 were new recruits.

Mrs. Paul Cueva, chairman of the Red Cross Bloodmobile program, said improved facilities for the December 1 visit will include individual plastic containers with the needle attached, which may be used one time only. This will avoid the possibility of the use of a dull needle.

Her staff comprises Dr. James H. Wolverton Jr., who will be in charge of securing other doctors; Mrs. Freda Elliott, Gray Ladies; Mrs. Owen Rhodes, canteen, assisted by Mrs. Appel and Mrs. Peterson. Mrs. Carlton Bell is co-chairman.

Mrs. Cueva said the Tri-Towns area has previously been below its quota, failing to supply the amount of blood used in area and out of region hospitals. She feels confident the 90 pint quota will be reached with the assistance of the sponsoring organization.

Robert Keller, president, at a Lions dinner meeting Thursday evening, named a committee to provide transportation for donors and to stand by all during the hours of the bloodmobile visit. They are Ross Sively, Leo Cave, Joseph Diaz, Norman Baughman and Ernest Hitt. Those desiring transportation may contact Mr. Cave, Mr. Sively or Mrs. Cueva.

Appointment cards will be mailed to each pledged donor who will be contacted to keep his appointment.

Mt. Savage Boosters Meeting Tonight

MT. SAVAGE — The Athletic Boosters Club of Mt. Savage School will meet this evening at 7:30 in the school library, said George Shaffer, president.

The final report on the recent spaghetti supper will be given and future projects discussed. Parents of boys who participate in sports in the school are particularly asked to attend although anyone interested in the school's sports program is invited to attend.

Short Session Set By W. Va. Legislature

By THOMAS P. FAZIO

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — What is expected to be the shortest Legislative session in West Virginia history will take place this Friday afternoon in Charleston.

Legislators convene in special session at 2 p.m. to revise the state's income tax law in compliance with recent revisions of the federal statute.

And the Senate will have an extra duty to perform, although it was not included in Gov. W. W. Barron's original proclamation.

The action is expected to take about three hours.

The names of 110 persons nominated by Barron to various state offices and commissions must be submitted to the upper chamber for confirmation.

Regardless of a regular or special session, state law provides that all gubernatorial appointments requiring Senate confirmation be taken up by that body at its next meeting.

The Senate convenes in its regular chamber while the 100 Delegates will gather in an improvised setting in the large lobby outside the House where new carpeting is being installed and other renovations made.

The governor's nominees submitted to the Senate include those to various state boards and commissions, including 10 to the new Commission on Aging, 9 to the new Commission on higher education, 15 to the Commission on Manpower Technology and Training, 15 to the Advisory Committee to the Commission on Mental Retardation, and 5 to the Water Resources Board.

Little Choice

Barron's call of the Legislature into session was practically mandatory.

According to State Tax Commissioner G. Thomas Battle, mass confusion short of chaos would have resulted among West Virginia taxpayers, who would have filed returns next April based in part on federal statutes no longer existing.

The governor could not wait to let the 1965 Legislature, which meets Jan. 13, to handle the chore because the 163-word amendment had to be passed before the start of the new tax year Jan. 1.

The newly - elected Legislators officially take office Dec. 1 and had Barron waited until after that time, considerable organizational work would have been involved so he apparently felt this could be eliminated if the old lawmakers did it.

Battle said while the proposed change would not affect the rates under the state tax law and no substantial change in revenue would result, it would grant many residents new deductions and benefits not incorporated in the federal tax.

Brief Address

Before the lawmakers gather in separate meetings Friday, Barron will address them in a joint session.

The governor has said he will set an example of brevity for the Legislators in getting their job done quickly by making only a two-minute speech.

House Clerk C. A. Blankenship said the 100 House seats are now being installed in the House lobby.

While Delegates will not have individual microphones, members offering an oratory on the amendment will have to use four stationary mikes in a small center aisle between their lined-up desks.

A large loudspeaker will be placed above the chamber door where House Speaker Julius Singleton of Morgantown will preside.

Although the session is expected to be brief, Blankenship has worked out details for the lawmakers to stay longer, if necessary.

Two Teenagers Die In Accidents

By United Press International

Two teenagers lost their lives in separate accidents in West Virginia over the weekend, boosting the state's traffic toll to 411—42 more than a year ago.

Billy Lee Trogdon, 19, of Man, was alone when his car smashed into a wall on W. Va. 10 near Logan Saturday.

Lloyd L. Starn, 19, of East Grafton, died of injuries suffered late Friday when the car in which he was riding collided with another auto on W. Va. 73 near Fairmont.

A McDowell County man suffered a fatal heart attack Saturday near War and his car plunged down a mountainside off W. Va. 16.

State Police said the death of Sewell Stacy, 62, of Berwind, probably would not be counted in the highway toll.

News From Inside The Statehouse

By ROBERT D. JOHNSON

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — There's a lot of easy breathing in the Democratic-controlled Statehouse now that the general election is history and the sighs of relief are coming from employes who were on edge wondering if they would be around another four years.

Most played a wait-and-see game, holding off on purchases of new cars and other family items, until they were relatively certain they would still be holding jobs.

Now that it's over, a few are beginning to relax and recount, with less than professional political appraisal, the gubernatorial campaign.

Not everyone has forgotten about Cecil Underwood at the Statehouse, and at the risk of making this sound like a political eulogy, the memories of one man are worth noting.

He who was certainly not an Underwood well-wisher during the campaign but had a few sympathetic, parting remarks for the ex-governor who failed in his attempt to win re-election.

"I still can't figure Underwood out," he said. "Always trying to deflate his opponent's balloon instead of blowing up one of his own.

"I'm sure a lot of people would be surprised to learn that he actually had some good ideas, but they were always shoved into the background.

"In my opinion, his campaign wasn't handled very well. His backers would stick a machete in his hand and he'd just start swinging away.

"What did the voters miss about Underwood? Well, how many people knew, for instance, that he wanted to set up a public kindergarten system in the state?

"He was going to strengthen the emergency employment program too, but all his plans got mired down in that muck he was stirring up," the man said.

About 75,000 West Virginia hunters dusted off their firearms and returned to the woods over the weekend after a 10-day layoff.

The state forest closure for 10 days which was lifted Friday chipped off a sizeable chunk of the small game season and has all but eliminated the season on bear.

The bear season was just gaining momentum when the woods were declared off-limits to hunters. It had opened Nov. 2 and was scheduled to close Nov. 22, giving hunters only two more days to shop for a bear rug.

The State Natural Resources Department has been flooded with requests to extend the season, but as yet no decision has been made on the matter.

Record-Breaking Low Temperatures Hit West Virginia

By United Press International

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Charleston predicted more record - breaking lows Sunday night in the wake of the current cold spell over the weekend in West Virginia.

Two records were shattered in Huntington and Charleston.

Huntington recorded a low of 8 degrees early Sunday, breaking the old mark of 15 degrees above for that day in 1898.

And in Charleston, the mercury dipped to 11 degrees, breaking the low of 19 above set in the capitol city in 1937.

A large high pressure cell moving slowly southward from the Great Lakes was responsible for the biting cold over much of the East.

The mercury was expected to plummet to five degrees above zero in the higher elevations Sunday night to 15 in the balleys in the Mountain State with sunny and warmer expected Monday.

While skies were forecast to be clear Monday, the sunshine is not expected to take much bite out of the frigid weather, with highs predicted in the 30s and 40s.

Fair and slightly warmer is forecast Tuesday.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've heard of young brides going to pieces on their wedding night but I've never heard of this happening to a groom—until my daughter came home from her honeymoon after 24 hours of "married life."

Beverly went with Phillip for two years. They met in college. Beverly knew Phillip and his mother (a widow) were devoted to one another but she didn't know they were crazy.

We gave the couple a beautiful wedding which was almost ruined by Phillip's mother. She cried so loudly during the ceremony you would have thought it was a funeral. Then she had to leave the receiving line and go lie down because she didn't feel well.

The wedding was on a Saturday. Sunday night Beverly was home. She said Phillip was up all Saturday night talking to his mother on the phone. He called her once and she called him twice. Then Beverly and Phillip got into an argument over his mother and Phillip said he had a headache and went to sleep. Beverly packed her suitcase and came home the next day.

Almost two weeks have passed and Phillip has not even called Beverly. What should be done? —DISTRESSED

DEAR DISTRESSED: There is no hope for Phillip unless he leaves his mother's side long enough to go see a head doctor. And Beverly should see a lawyer about an annulment.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I have been married 13 years. Our 11-year-old daughter is retarded. We have a fine 7-year-old son who understands his sister's problem and treats her beautifully.

The doctors have told us that our daughter is teachable and has urged us to put her in an institution where she will be among children on her own mental level and can be trained to do many things for herself. We could visit her any time we choose and talk to her on the telephone.

It is heartbreaking to give up this dependent child but we know we must do it now while she is young enough to be taught.

The problem is our relatives. They say we are heartless and selfish—that we are getting rid of the girl because she is a burden. We feel this is best for the girl but it is going to cost us the love and respect of several members of the family.

Will you say something in your column to let people know how difficult it is to give up a retarded child and that we need understanding and moral support at such a time—not criticism and hurtful remarks. — BRENDA'S FATHER

DEAR FATHER: The viciousness and cruelty of your relatives is exceeded only by their ignorance.

Don't waste time or energy to justify your actions. Your decision is the wise one, based on the recommendation of your physician. Parents must always act in the best interests of their children. And this is precisely what you are doing.

Judge Signs Show Cause Order

Associate Judge Harold E. Naughton on Friday signed a show cause order giving the defendants 30 days to file an answer in the equity suit brought by a group of Allegany County citizens, who seek an injunction to prevent county officials from enforcing the new county zoning ordinance.

The bill of complaint against the county commissioners and other county officials was filed Thursday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Man Jailed, Fined

James D. Shaffer, 51, of Railroad Street was fined $15 and committed to Allegany County Jail for 30 days Friday after he was found guilty by Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt of taking money from an elderly man he was caring for who was confined to his bed.

Five Inducted By Honor Unit

Five new members were inducted into the National Honor Society at Ursuline Academy in a ceremony conducted recently in the SS. Peter and Paul Parish Hall.

They were Miss Patricia Coyle, a senior, and Linda Sue Castle, Patricia Graham, JoEllen Lancaster, and Mary Beth Wildes, all members of the junior class.

They were formally received into the society by Sr. Berenice, principal of Ursuline Academy.

The speaker was Rev. Daniel Conway OFM, Cap., assistant pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church.

Parents of the inductees, members of the Ursuline Chapter of the NHS, members of the LaSalle Honor Society and honor students at the academy attended.

Miss Patricia Smith, president of the Ursuline Chapter, nominated six sophomores as probationary members.

They are Mary Frances Schweninger, Mary Ann Coleman, Mary Louise McElwee, Shawn Geatz, Pamela Lindsay and Peggy Coleman.

Requirements for membership include the maintaining of a 90 per cent yearly scholastic average and recommendations by the faculty for qualities of leadership, service and scholarship.

Old Bible Being Sold $10 A Page

POWERS LAKE, N.D. (AP) — Like to buy a Bible? Only $10 a page.

The Rev. Frederic J. Nelson, headmaster of Notre Dame Academy in this northwestern North Dakota town, is selling pages from a Bible printed in 1618. He plans to use the money or an addition to the school library.

Father Nelson received the Bible from relatives. He said it was printed in Stockholm in 1618 and has been in the family for centuries, used mostly by Lutheran ministers. The headmaster is the first Roman Catholic in his family since the Reformation.

He will sell a page from a specific book of the Bible on request, but he can't guarantee a certain chapter or verse.

Half of the book will be kept for display in the school museum, said the priest.

Full-Scale Philippine Aid Begins

MANILA (AP) — Full-scale relief action started Friday in the central Philippines for victims of Typhoon Louise. Officials estimated that 100 to 200 Filipinos were killed.

Poor communications prevented a full report of the death toll and damage. At least 100 persons died in Surigao del Norte Province, on northeastern Mindanao Island.

Personnel and emergency supplies were being ferried from Manila and other cities. Reports from Philippine constabulary command posts indicated extensive damage to crops and public works.

Earlier, a report said all buildings in Surigao Town were destroyed by the typhoon which was described as the worst ever to hit the area. Winds hit 156 miles an hour.

Charm accomplishes more than a mere lecture or cold logic.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Courage Includes Charm

Courage Includes Char

A genuinely charming woman doesn't have to be afraid of stepping into controversy—or onto toes. Charm is part of courage—moral courage; the kind of bravery that meets reality with the grace and determination to add to its store of beauty, truth and goodness.

The trick in having it is to employ it without putting it on exhibition. That's where charm comes in.

There is the soft answer that turns away wrath. There is the gentle reminder about charity implicit in simply changing the subject whenever conversation turns to cruel gossip or untrue ridicule, a tactic equally effective in turning the trend of talk away from "dirty" jokes and obscene remarks.

There are ways for the charming woman to both react and act against injustice, prejudice and snobbery that can win her friends without losing any old friends. By her choice of words, her tone of voice and the expression on her face, she can encourage good attitudes without directly causing embarrassment or resentment.

Even when she summons her spiritual stamina to admit her own mistakes or to ask another's pardon, the risks to her "image" are negligible if she puts charm ahead of pride.

Rather than seem "holier than thou," it may seem easier to hide or to deny one's private convictions, beliefs and tastes . . . to let wrongs go uncorrected . . . especially when the immediate reward for moral courage may be disapproval or loss of friendship, popularity or status.

The woman of charm, on the other hand, has enough understanding, compassion and tact to disagree without being disagreeable, to object without seeming objectionable, to enhance the dignity of those around her by never losing her own. She doesn't use an offense as an excuse to offend.

But she'll never let offensiveness persist . . . or permit someone in need of help to flounder . . . for lack of moral courage on her part.

'MONA'S' MOAN WAS MADDENING' is just one of the verbal exercises toward voice development found in the booklet, "Your Most Attractive Voice." A copy's yours for 10c when you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to John Robert Powers in care of this newspaper.

Red Cross Begins Rabies Immune Globulin Project

The Johnstown Regional Blood Center of the American National Red Cross is seeking persons who have had previous Pasteur treatment (rabies shots), according to Dr. Richard Voytko, medical director.

The plasma obtained from these donors is to be used in a Rabies Immune Globulin project recently undertaken by the National Red Cross blood program in cooperation with the United States Health Service.

Any person who has had such treatment and meets the other medical requirements of the Red Cross blood program should contact the Allegany County Chapter office, PA 2-1760 for further information.

Woman Reports Missing Purse

A local woman reported to city police that her purse containing a wallet with a sum of money, a bank book, Amcelle badge and cards was taken from a counter in the basement of a local store.

Agnes A. Barbe of 406 Franklin Street, told police that on Thursday afternoon she was shopping in the store and had purchased several items. She had placed her purse on a counter and gathered up the items thinking she had picked up her purse. While walking up the steps she missed her purse and when she returned to the counter, the purse was not there.

Anderson Reports On Gas Rate Hearing

County Attorney Fred H. Anderson reported Friday on Wednesday's hearing by the State Public Service Commission in Baltimore on the Columbia Gas Company's application for a rate increase.

Mr. Anderson and City Attorney Hugh A. McMullen both were at Wednesday's PSC hearing to assist in the fight against the increase, the first requested by the gas company since March 1960.

Columbia Gas of Maryland serves about 21,500 customers in Allegany and Garrett counties.

The county commissioners on Friday also were informed that the annual meeting of the Maryland County Commissioners Association will be held January 13 at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore.

Nine Area Men Enlist In Army

Nine young men from the Cumberland area enlisted in the Army recently under the "Choice not Chance" program, according to Sfc Ralph L. Hartman, local recruiter.

Ronald L. Richards, Frostburg, a graduate of Beall High School in 1962 enlisted for welding school at Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

George E. Hilliker and Thomas L. Bishop, 1964 graduates of Allegany High School enlisted for aircraft mechanics school at Fort Rucker, Ala.

Franklin Stowell, Franklin and Paul G. Clark, Barton, both graduates of Bruce High School this year enlisted for automotive repair school at Aberdeen.

Glenn D. Fazenbaker and Daniel A. Daris of Barton enlisted for on-the-job training in automotive repair. Both men attended Valley High School. Dale E. Broadwater, RD 1 Swanton also enlisted for the automotive repair on-the-job training.

John E. Lippold, RD 1 Ridgeley, who attended Allegany High School, enlisted for airborne unassigned and will undergo airborne training at Fort Benning, Ga.

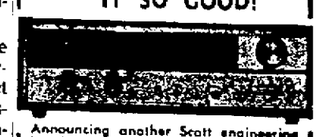

All of these young men will complete eight weeks basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., before proceeding to assigned stations for schooling or on-the-job training.

Sgt Hartman said there is a need for prior service personnel in the Army at this time. Interested persons may contact him at 722-6600 or at room 312, Post Office Building.

Finnigan's Hollywood

BY JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Chuck Connors is starring in a new television series, playing an Army officer unjustly court martialed for cowardice and ousted from the service.

In the new NBC-TV series "Branded," Connors plays "Capt. Jason McCord" who wanders across the developing west of the 1800s.

"He's a full human being who's been hammered with the whips and scorns of his time," said Connors. "He will be accused of being cowardly. That's the brand he'll wear around the West."

Capt. McCord's alleged cowardice sprang from the ignorance of his commanding general, says Connors.

"The general gives an order, a stupid order in the face of the odds against him, and to protect the general's name, Capt. McCord accepts the blame," Chuck explained. "He can never open his mouth or he destroys this man's reputation."

The show's audience will see the victimized captain as the hero that he is, a situation which can create a bond of sympathy between the character and "Branded's" viewers.

Creating an image of the character is one of Chuck's main concerns. The show is set for its debut Jan. 24 in the popular 8:30 p.m. Sunday night time slot over NBC. It replaces Bill Dana.

Connors, familiar to western fans who watched him for years on the "Rifleman" series, said Capt. McCord will "seek out a living for himself from what he was in the military.

"He may be a map-maker looking for a mine, or wagon trails," he continued. "This country had to be mapped as the West was invaded by the pioneers. It's been infrequent that this has been exploited.

"It's kind of interesting because it can be factual and entertaining."

Connors analyzes his show as if it were several parts of this and several parts of that, reaching the conclusion that "Branded" has the ingredients necessary for a hit.

Camera Angles: Will Hutchins, star of the old "Sugarfoot" western, is set for a half-hour comedy series, "The Lawyer" . . . Ken Murray, usually ween as a cigar-puffing comedian, will do a dramatic role in a segment of "The Man From U.N.C.L.E". . . Paul Anka has been signed to sing the title tune of the "Sylvia" movie.

Johnson Press Meet Handling Under Attack

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, Sunday criticized President Johnson's handling of news conferences and charged the Defense Department with "centralizing information activities."

A report submitted by the organization's Freedom of information Committee said that although President Johnson has held "very frequent" news conferences, a "vague uneasiness has begún to be felt among some Washington correspondents.

"Few of the press conferences have been announced more than a few minutes in advance, if at all," the report said. "This tends to keep away specialists in such fields as foreign affairs, defense and politics, and others not regularly stationed at the White House."

The report said although the atmosphere is "cozy . . . a question—still open—begins to suggest itself as to whether the present system best lends itself to the penetrating and challenging questions."

Regarding the information policies of the Defense Department, the committee said there were hard-to-understand delays in getting newsmen to Guantanamo and the Gul of Tonkin during trouble periods.

"Secretary Robert S. McNamara and assistant Secretary Arthur Sylvester continued a trend toward centralizing information activities in Sylvester's office," the report said.

The committee charged that Sylvester last May 18 "reinstated and reinforced" regulations requiring all department members to report the names of reporters with whom they had interviews and the subjects covered.

Michigan Wins Trip To Rose Bowl, But Opponent Still Undecided

Trojans Would Get Host Role By Beating Irish

Syracuse To Play LSU In Sugar Bowl Despite Upset

By FRED MCMANE
UPI Sports Writer

The New Year's Day Bowl lineups are virtually complete Monday with the last vacant space dependent upon whether Southern California can spring the upset of the season next Saturday by ending Notre Dame's bid for a perfect season.

Michigan, LSU and Syracuse became the latest to be awarded bowl bids over the weekend and now the one vacancy remaining is the Wolverines Rose Bowl opponent — either Oregon State or Southern Cal.

The Beavers ended their season Saturday with a 7-6 victory over Oregon and are tied with the Trojans for first place in the Pacific Athletic Coference, but a victory by Southern Cal over the No. 1 ranked Irish would certainly get the Trojans a bid to the Rose Bowl.

Here's a look at how the top bowls shape up so far:

Rose Bowl — Michigan (8-1) vs Oregon State (8-2) or USC (6-3).

Cotton Bowl—Arkansas (10-0) vs. Nebraska (9-1).

Orange Bowl—Alabama (9-0) vs. Texas (8-1).

Sugar Bowl—Louisiana State (7-1-1) vs. Syracuse (7-3).

Michigan's bowl bid came right after the Wolverines beat Ohio State, 10-0, for the Big Ten title. The Buckeyes entered the game in first place in the conference, but the Wolverines capitalized on a fumbled punt recovery and two intercepted passes to score a touchdown and a field goal, while their rugged defensive unit buckled down in the clutch to turn back Ohio State's drives. It was the Wolves first Big Ten title since 1951.

LSU was given a bid to the Sugar Bowl following the Tiger's 13-3 win over arch-rival Tulane. The Tigers ran into a mild scare and weren't able to move the ball freely until the fourth period. A three-yard touchdown run by halfback Joe Labruzzo, however, climaxed a 48-yard drive to wrap it up for the Tigers. LSU (7-1-1) has one game remaining.

Orange Dumped

LSU's Sugar Bowl opponent, Syracuse, suffered an embarrassing 28-27 loss to West Virginia, but the Orangemen were invited to play in the classic before the defeat.

WVU's quarterback Allen McCune and end Bob Dunlevy combined on a 50-yard touchdown pass with six minutes remaining to sink the Orangemen. Syracuse's touchdown duo of Jim Nance and Floyd Little had a fine game against the Mountaineers, but McCune was a little too much to handle as he completed 13 of 17 passes for 254 yards.

Probable Orange Bowl rivals, Alabama adn Texas, were idle over the weekend, but Arkansas and Nebraska, which will meet in the Cotton Bowl, completed their seasons.

Razorbacks Undefeated

The Razorbacks, ranked No. 3, closed out their first undefeated season in 55 years and clinched the Southwest Conference title by downing Texas Tech, 17-0. Held to a scoreless tie for the first 30 minutes, Arkansas scored two touchdowns in the third quarter and added a field goal in the final period to break the game open to end their season with a 10-0 record.

Nebraska wasn't as fortunate. The Cornhuskers entered their contest with Oklahoma with a 9-0 record, but the Sooners unleashed a relentless second-half ground attack to score two touchdowns and gained a 17-7 victory. The Sooners trailed 7-3 until the final period when halfbacks John Kennedy and Larry Brown sparked an 88-yard TD drive to put Oklahome ahead. Then an intercepted pass by Allen Bumgardner was turned into a 48-yard TD run by Brown moments later.

Despite the loss Nebraska won its second straight Big Eight championship when Missouri upended Kansas, 34-14.

The Gator Bowl, which is played on Jan. 2, also picked the first of its teams by naming Florida State. The Semi-noles climaxed their campaign by beating rival Florida, 16-7, and finishing with an 8-1-1 record. Tulsa and Mississippi have been given bids to the Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston Dec. 19, but neither team can accept until it completes its season.

Biting 15-degree weather stopped Notre Dame's passing attack but Iowa learned that's only part of the job in trying to stop the Irish, who cruised to an easy 28-0 victory. Bill Wolski plunged for two touchdowns after long marches and John Huarte and Jack Snow collaborated in a 66-yard touchdown play to produce three of the Notre Dame scores.

The Irish will go into their final game with the eyes of the nation upon them — and the Rose Bowl hopes of Southern Cal hanging in the balance.

TRA Secretaries Select Kelso

NEW YORK (AP) — The decisive victory Kelso hung on Gun Bow in the International at Laurel Nov. 11 earned Mrs. Richard C. duPont's 7-year-old gelding Horse of the Year honors for an unprecedented fifth straight year.

While the vote of the 31 racing secretaries of Thoroughbred Racing Associations tracks announced Sunday was not unanimous it was overwhelming for the son of Your Host-Maid of Flight. Scattered votes also were cast for Gun Bow, Northern Dancer, Bold Lad and Tosmah.

Frank Urbas' Beagles Sweep Point Trials

Lead ABC Hounds In Both Classes; Winners Stake Scheduled Sunday

Hounds owned by Frank J. Urbas, of Eckhart, copped top honors in both the 13 and 15 inch classes in the seven point trials held this year by the Allegany Beagle Club.

Maggie Lee III had a total of 45 1/10 points to win in the 13 inch division and Pole Hollow Jumbo amassed a total of 25½ points to lead the 15 inch division.

Bob-A-Lou Deacon, owned by Robert McKenzie, Salisbury, Pa., was runner-up in the 13 inch division with 30 1/10 points and Winter's Rex, owned by Elmer R. Winter, Cresaptown, was second in the 15 inch division with 23 4/5 points.

The twenty-six hounds that scored points in the trials are eligible for the club's annual winners stake to be held at the ABC grounds on the Hinkle Road, Sunday, November 29. The 13 inch class will be drawn at 8 a. m., and the 15 inch class at 1 p. m. Judges will be Galen Ritchey, Roaring Spring, Pa., and David Winter, Cresaptown.

Meals will be served at the clubhouse by the Ladies Auxiliary and the public is invited to attend the events.

Four Major Teams Unbeaten, Untied

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The defeat of Nebraska by Oklahoma left four major college football teams — Notre Dame, Alabama, Arkansas and Princeton — unbeaten and untied.

Of these, Arkansas and Princeton have completed their regular seasons while Notre Dame and Alabama have games this week.

The unbeaten and untied list, including both teams on the major and small college category, numbers 15.

WVU Followers Want Liberty

Mountaineers Among Candidates

By ROBERT M. GORNALL

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — All the people who "count" around here indicated Sunday they'd accept a Liberty Bowl invitation, with some reservations, if and when it comes.

Liberty Bowl officials met in Philadelphia at 2 p.m. Sunday to hash over opponents for the game which will be played in Atlantic City's Convention Hall Dec. 19.

"We are very much interested in West Virginia, said Liberty Bowl Charities President A. F. (Bud) Dudley in a telephone interview with United Press International at the start of Sunday's meeting.

"If the meeting goes well we will have an announcement at noon Monday," Dudley said.

On the campus here, the air was filled with bowl fever.

Some, however, had not revived from the 28-27 upset of Syracuse, tagged now as the greatest football game ever played on Mountaineer Field.

Once In A Lifetime

"I couldn't be considered a football expert, but in the tradition of American football one can spend a lifetime and never see another one like that," said WVU President Paul A. Miller.

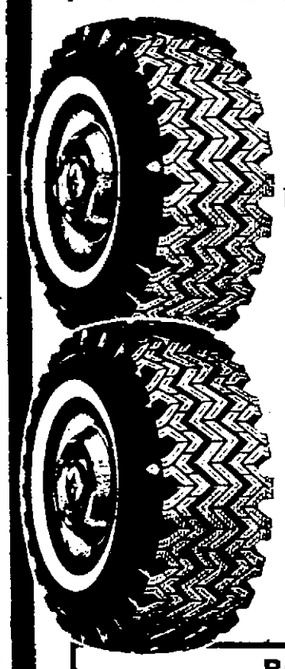

"I would have to say I can't remember a more thrilling football game or a more satisfying one," said WVU Athletic Director Robert N. (Red) Brown.

And Coach Gene Corum, who finished his second best season at West Virginia, said, "I'm speechless. I can't single anyone out, they spoke for themselves yesterday."

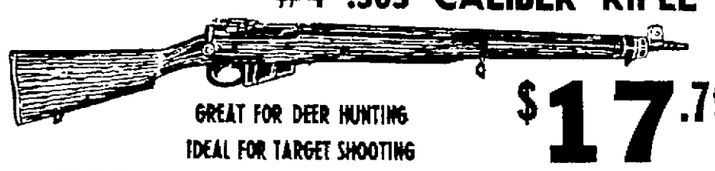

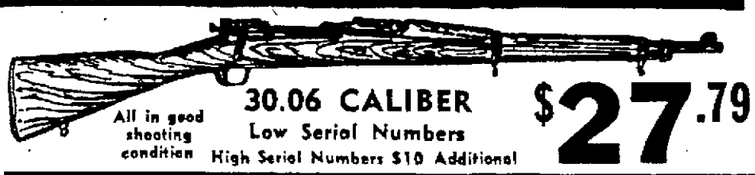

"Any bowl decision is entirely up to the boys," Corum said.

Dudley said the board is considering West Virginia, Penn State, Boston College and Villanova for the home berth. On the shortened list of possible opponents were Oklahoma, Missouri, Utah, Auburn and Texas Tech.

President Miller confirmed that he and Brown talked over the bowl possibility last week.

Mickey Wright Captures 11th Tournament Of Year

Wins Mills Event, Ten-Year Earnings Soar To $176,994

By ANDREW J. REESE JR.
United Press International

BILOXI, Miss. (UPI)— Veteran Mickey Wright fired a sizzling one-under-par 70 Sunday to win the $17,000 Mary Mills Invitational golf tournament and become the all-time top money winner among the Nation's lady pros.

The tall Dallas blonde, overcoming hand-numbing cold, finished with a 54-hole total of 215, six strokes ahead of runner-up Marlene Hagge.

Miss Hagge, 30, of Pensacola, Fla., had a 75 for a three-day score of 221.

Shirley Englehorn of Los Angeles and Ruth Jesson of Bonsell, Calif., were tied for third place at 222. Miss Englehorn, a 23-year-old brunette, was tied with Mickey going into the final round but soared to a 77. Miss Jesson shot a 74 to go with her 73 and 75 on the first two rounds.

The triumph, 11th of the year for Miss Wright, gave her $176,994 in official earnings during her 10-year career as a professional golfer. Her first place win Sunday was worth $2,500.

The 30 pros who competed in the second annual tourney were hampered by brisk 14 mile-an-hour winds and temperatures in the 40s. Miss Wright was the only contender to crack par 71 on the 6,100-yard Broadwater Beach golf course.

Teen-ager Laura Macivor, Florida's state champion, was low amateur with a 81-82-78—241.

Coaches Name County All-Stars

Six Fort Hill Gridders Selected

Football coaches of Western Maryland Interscholastic League high schools recently selected the first WMI All-Star Football Team in the history of the county.

Five coaches made up the selection board for the mythical squad: head coaches Ed Schwarz of Allegany, Jerry Calhoun of Beall, Pete Ladygo of Bruce, and Tom Harman of Valley, and assistant coach Paul Flick of Fort Hill.

Twenty-two gridders were selected, with Fort Hill placing six boys on the team despite its "off" season. Allegany and Beall each had five players mentioned for the honors, while Valley and Bruce each landed three gridders.

The five ends selected were Dick Goldsworthy, Beall, senior; Gary Beckward, Fort Hill, senior; Eddie Harris, Allegany, junior; Randy Wiley, Allegany, senior; and Ray Kiddy, Valley, senior.

Four tackles were named: Gary Inskeep, Bruce, senior; Joe Rowley, Fort Hill, senior; Ron Horn, Fort Hill, senior; and Paul Biggs, Beall, senior.

Four men picked at guard spots were Fred Timbrook, Fort Hill, senior; Gary Sloan, Valley, senior; Joe McGreevy, Beall, senior; and Terry Clark, Bruce, junior.

At center were Rick Merrill, Allegany, senior; and Paul Flick, Fort Hill, senior.

To the backfield were named Jim Chaney, Beall, junior; Allen Foley, Allegany, senior; Larry Suder, Valley, senior; Danny Darr, Allegany, senior; Bruce Peck, Fort Hill, senior; Morris Pampepinto, Bruce, junior; and Bill Linn, Beall, senior.

Maphis' 19 Points Lead WVU To Win

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia's varsity basketball team scored a runaway 95-73 victory over the freshmen here Saturday night, but only after frosh sensation Ron Williams fouled out.

Williams led the freshmen with 19 points and fouled out late in the third quarter with the varsity leading 66-58.

Forward Bill Maphis tallied 19 points to lead the varsity scorers while guard Buddy Quertinmont added 17.

With Williams, the Weirton standout for three years, leading the attack, the freshmen were able to tie the score three times before the varsity pulled away shortly after he fouled out.

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)— John Valput rushed for 137 yards and scored two touchdowns here Sunday to lead Wheeling Central Catholic to its second straight state Catholic football title, upending Charleston 28-20.

Pittsburgh Annihilates New York Giants, 44-17

Ed Brown's Passing Sparks Attack

NEW YORK (AP) — Underdog Pittsburgh rode over the New York Giants 44-17 Sunday on the running of John Henry Johnson, the passing of Ed Brown and a series of Giant errors.

Brown threw two touchdown passes, one a wild play in which the ball bounced off the hands of two Giants' defenders, Erich Barnes and Dick Lynch, before it was caught by Clendon Thomas in the end zone. The veteran Brown completed 10 of 13 passes for 184 yards.

Johnson scored twice, once without a Giant touching him, and Dick Hoak scored once. Mike Clark added three field goals of 10, 28 and 23 yards.

The Giants didn't get on the scoreboard until the 14:48 mark of the second period when Don Chandler kicked a 41-yard field goal. Rookie Gary Wood scored their first touchdown on an eight-yard keeper play in the final period.

The Giants got a gift touchdown in the final minutes when a bad pass from center to punter Ed Holler was fumbled, and Barnes recovered in the end zone.

After a flurry of punches in the first period Rosey Brown of the Giants and Ben McGee of the Steelers were ejected from the game.

Teams Chosen For Bluebonnet

Ole Miss Will Meet Tulsa

HOUSTON (UPI)— The Bluebonnet Bowl Selection Committee announced Sunday it has chosen Tulsa, with the country's top passing combination, and Mississippi, a magic bowl name despite an off year, for the Dec. 19 game.

Neither team can be invited officially until it completes its season — for Tulsa Nov. 26 against Wichita, and for Ole Miss Dec. 5 against Mississippi State in a nationally televised contest.

Both teams have shown preference for the Bluebonnet Bowl, which is in its sixth year. Neither team has played in the bowl previously.

Tulsa whipped Toledo 39-16 Saturday to runiits season record to 7-2 and Mississippi stands 5-3-1.

Mississippi, always a glamorous name in post-season schedules, should make a strong match for the Tulsans.

The Bluebonnet Bowl Committee, headed by Lou Hassell, considered five other teams before deciding on Tulsa and Ole Miss. They were Georgia Tech, Florida, Oklahoma, Florida State and Texas Tech.

Tulsa is still being considered as a possible choice by the Gator Bowl as well.

Martinsburg Belts Judges

Bulldogs Win, 47-0, Finish With 8-1-1

Coach Richard "Dick" Harmison's Martinsburg High School Bulldogs, champions of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League, posted its best football record since 1954 when it routed Handley High School's Judges Saturday by the score of 47-0 and wound up the campaign with an 8-1-1 record.

The Judges, coached by Eddie Siebert, lost their eighth game in a row and closed with an overall record of 1-9.

It was the 43rd game of the series in which the Judges have won 23 games, Martinsburg 15 and five contests ended in ties.

Coach Harmison is a son-in-law of Melvin M. Heiskell, principal of Ridgeley High School, and this was his fifth year as the helm in Martinsburg. His Bulldog eleven have won 27, lost 20 and played three tie games.

Martinsburg scored wins over Keyser, Allegany, Fort Hill, North Hagerstown, Boonsboro, Westminster and Frederick, lost to South Hagerstown's Rebels and played a 7-7 tie with Waynesboro (Pa.) High School.

Chiefs Outlast Houston, 28-19

Len Dawson Stars, Gets Broken Nose

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Len Dawson passed for three touchdowns and engineered another before he suffered a broken nose Sunday as the Kansas City Chiefs outlasted the Houston Oilers 28-19 in an American Football League game.

Dawson, the AFL's leading passer, was injured midway in the third quarter on a touchdown pass play to Chris Burford.

The Chiefs scored in the first three periods, but the Oilers could manage touchdown drives only in the second and final quarters and had to settle for field goals in the first and second periods.

A fumble and a pass interception set up two touchdowns and a third came on an eight-play, 73-yard drive to give the Chiefs a 21-10 halftime margin.

Halfback Abner Haynes had his best day since the Chiefs moved out of Dallas. He streaked 156 yards on 25 carries.

Dawson passed for 92 yards and the three touchdowns, hitting on nine of 13 attempts.

Charlie Hennigan scored both of the Oiler touchdowns, one on a pass from veteran quarterback George Blanda and the other from rookie quarterback Don Trull.

Colts Clinch Western Division Title, 24-7

Tenth Straight Victory Comes Over LA Rams

Unitas, Marchetti Star; Moore, Hill, Lorick Score TDs

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Baltimore racked up its 10th straight victory and moved into the Western Division title of the National Football League Sunday with a 24-7 triumph over the Los Angeles Rams.

Led by Johnny Unitas, the Colts took the title for the first time since 1959 before 72,137, the largest professional game attendance here since 1960.

The Colt quarterback set up the first Baltimore touchdown on a 62-yard pass play to John Mackey, and on the next play Lenny Moore went through the line in 18 yards for the score.

A stubborn Ram defense held Baltimore then until midway in the third quarter when Jerry Hill went 17 yards down the middle for a touchdown.

Rams Pushed Back

The Baltimore defense led by Gino Marchetti had backed the Rams to the Los Angeles one and on the punt out needed only 31 yards to score.

The Rams got their lone touchdown in the fourth period. Rookie Bill Munson came off the bench as the second half began. Late in the third he carried the Rams 75 yards on five pass completions out of six, with the scoring strike for 21 going to rookie Bucky Pope.

With the score 14-7, the Colts promptly paraded 73 yards, climaxed by Lou Michaels' 23-yard field goal.

Baltimore required 10 plays to go 44 for the final touchdown. Tony Lorick smashed over from the one.

Rough Afternoon

It was a rough afternoon for the Rams' starting quarterback, Roman Gabriel, and Munson. They were spilled 11 times for a loss of 102 yards. Gabriel lost the most, five for 56 yards.

Unitas' aerial game netted 142 yards, although he completed only six of 18 throws. He was tossed for 23 yards lost in the five times the Rams got to him.

The defeat dropped the Rams from second place in the division to a fourth-place deadlock with Minnesota, following Green Bay's win over Cleveland and the tie game between Detroit and Minnesota.

Baltimore cinched the title with a 10-1 record. The Colts' lone loss was in the opening game of the season with Minnesota.

GOING OVER — Halfback Lester Josephson of the Los Angeles Rams gets over one tackler but is about to be grabbed by another Baltimore Colt as he moved for five yards at Los Angeles Sunday. At the left is the Colts' Steve Stonebraker, a linebacker. On the turf is Jerry Logan, a defensive halfback. Play went to the Rams' 21 in the first quarter. The Colts scored their tenth consecutive victory, 24-7, and clinched the Western Division title. (AP Photofax)

Chicago Shades San Francisco

LeClerc's Toe Brings 23-21 Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Roger Leclerc's third straight field goal of the day, a 20-yard boot with 1:11 to play, gave the Chicago Bears a 23-21 victory over San Francisco Sunday in a National Football League game.

Chicago grabbed an early 14-0 lead with Rudy Bukich firing touchdown passes of 12 yards to Rick Casares and 10 yards to Jon Arnett. After that the Bears had to settle for Leclerc's three field goals, two from 20 yards and the other from 37.

George Mira started at quarterback for the 49ers but fumbled and injured his right shoulder on the third play from scrimmage.

With John Brodie at the San Francisco helm, the 49ers made it 14-7 before the quarter ended. Abe Woodson returned a kickoff 70 yards. A 12-yard pass from Brodie to Dave Parks and three runs by rookie Dave Kopay set up Mike Lind's one-yard scoring plunge.

With the score 17-7 against them, the 49ers then drove 94 yards for their second touchdown capped by a 10-yard pass from Brodie to Parks.

San Francisco went ahead in the fourth quarter 21-20 on a 76-yard march which ended when Bernie Casey made a leaping catch of Brodie's seven-yard scoring pass.

The Bears then drove from their own seven into range for LeClerc's winning field goal.

Brawl Marks Hockey Game

Maple Leafs Beat Boston Bruins, 3-1

BOSTON (UPI)— The Toronto Maple Leafs chipped one point off Detroit's National Hockey League lead Sunday night with a 3-1 victory over the last-place Boston Bruins.

Bob Pulford, Ron Stewart and Eddie Shack tallied the Leaf goals in a Boston Garden game that erupted into a major brawl in the second period. A total of 38 minutes in penalties were handed out for the battle.

A near-capacity crowd of 13,080 saw Boston's Reg Fleming ruin Toronto goalie Terry Sawchuk's bid for his second shutout in as many nights when he tallied his fourth goal of the season off the Bruin power play in the third period.

Bruins Ted Green and Wayne Rivers and Leafs Allan Stanley, Tim Horton and Dave Keon were the principal battlers in the slugfest.

Green picked up 17 minutes in penalties for his part in the battle in which he gave Horton a fairly thorough pounding.

SLUGFEST

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — During the Los Angeles Dodgers' defeat of the New York Yankees in four straight in 1963, they accumulated 10 hits in the second game; the only contest where a team was able to hit in double figures.

Early Kicks Booted Pack To ACC Crown

Maryland In Tie For Third Place

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer

Back on Sept. 19 sophomore Harold Deters kicked two points after touchdown for North Carolina State. Aside from bringing an important 14-13 victory over favored North Carolina and much joy to followers of the N.C. State Wolfpack, no lasting significance was attached to the points at the time.

But those two points have come back to haunt North Carolina and boot N.C. State into the Atlantic Coast Conference football championship it shared with North Carolina last year.

Deters tried only one more such kick the rest of the year — and missed it. After that he concentrated on field goals and Gus Andrews handled the placement chores.

Of course, N.C. State needed help in the form of a 21-15 North Carolina victory over Duke Saturday to sew up the title after all but blowing the honors in a 27-13 loss to Wake Forest Friday night.

N.C. State finished the season with a 5-2 record, the first time in 12 years of ACC play that the champion had lost more than one league game. Pre-season favorite Duke, without a victory since mid-season, lost its fourth in a row, for the first time in 20 years, and wound up second on a 3-2-1 record. A victory over North Carolina would have given Duke the championship.

Hurricane Make-Up

Duke still has a game at Tulane Saturday night, the contest having been postponed by an October hurricane. All other league teams are through for the year.

And a turbulent year it was. Six of the eight teams lost five games, five of them finishing 5-5. Clemson's 7-3 loss to South Carolina Saturday made the Tigers the year's biggest loser at 3-7, the first time since 1926 that a Clemson team has been beaten that often.

Maryland blanked Virginia 10-0 to muscle into a three-way tie for third place at 4-3 with Wake Forest and North Carolina.

Wake Forest, winning only once in the two previous years, had the distinction of knocking off the one-two teams, N.C. State and Duke, handily.

Even tailender Virginia had to be reckoned with. The Cavaliers had their moments, among them a victory over North Carolina that cost the Tar Heels a chance to tie N.C. State a second year in a row for the championship. It was Virginia's only victory in six conference games.

Cards Clip Eagles, 38-13

St. Louis Hopes Still Flickering

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — St. Louis recovered four fumbles and intercepted two passes Sunday in defeating the Philadelphia Eagles 38-13 and holding on to its mathematical chance of winning the National Football League's Eastern Division title.

Two field goals by Sam Baker gave Philadelphia a 6-3 lead in the second period, before the first Eagles' fumble on their own 14 set up St. Louis' first touchdown.

Bill (Thunder) Thornton carried twice to the one from where John Crow scored.

The Cards made it 17 6 before halftime after Philadelphia's Ollie Matson fumbled at the St. Louis 27. Quarterback Charley Johnson passed 35 yards to Billy Gambrell and then 33 more to Bobby Joe Conrad for the TD. Jim Bakken, who earlier booted a 29-yard field goal, kicked the second of five conversions.

Philadelphia closed the gap to 17-13 in the third period, when a Johnson screen pass to Thornton in the Cardinals' end zone was fumbled and linebacker Mike Morgan fell on it for a TD.

Johnson later threw 52 yards to Conrad for six more points. Then Larry Wilson picked off a pass by Philadelphia's King Hill and romped 42 yards for a touchdown. Thornton broke through a gaping hole and raced 31 yards for the last St. Louis TD.

Jubilant Shula Gets Shower After NFL Victory

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Baltimore coach Don Shula, grinning and dripping wet, said Sunday, "we've had a helluva year" after his team beat the Los Angeles Rams 24-7 to cinch the National Football League's Western Conference title.

Shula was wet because some of his jubilant players shoved him into a shower as soon as the Colts got to their dressing room following the victory.

"I'll probably catch my death of cold," said Shula, "but I don't care. We've had a helluva year. There's no other way to say it. Since training camp this has been a happy club."

Before the Colt dressing room was unlocked for newsmen, the players could be heard whooping it up and cheering.

When the door was opened even aging veterans like 37-year-old Gino Marchetti wore broad grins. Marchetti vowed that he will retire at the end of this year. He announced his retirement last season but then was lured back by Colt President Carroll Rosenbloom.

In discussing the Colt win, Marchetti said, "We had the momentum . . . the desire. We didn't want to lose it."

Kean's Misfits Cop Touch Loop Playoff Crown

Defeat Redmen, 18-6 For 7th Win In Row

Norman "Pat" Wilson scored two touchdowns and Jim Bowman accounted for the other six-pointer Sunday as Kean's Misfits defeated the Redmen by the score of 18-6 at Post Field and romped off with the playoff title in the Cumberland Adult Touch Football League.

The win was seventh in a row for Manager Clarence Kean's gridders and enabled them to close the season with a 7-2 record. The Redmen, 1963 playoff winner, wound up the season with a 5-4 mark.

Wilson caught 15-yard passes from Ronnie Manges for two six-pointers and Bowman gathered in Manges' aerial for a 45-yard touchdown play. Gary Shook passed to Kenny Johnson for the Redmen's only score in the third period.

Chuck Weisenmiller and Gary Garlitz were outstanding on the line for the victors.

Score by periods:

Red Wings Tie New York, 3-3

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lowell MacDonald scored on a breakaway with 3:07 remaining Sunday night to match a third-period breakaway score by New York's Bob Nevin and earn the first-place Detroit Red Wings a 3-3 tie with the Rangers.

MacDonald's unassisted tally, coming after he stole the puck at center ice, was the sixth clean breakaway in the loosely-played game. The Rangers had four of them, including the one by Nevin which came in the first minute of the third period while Detroit had a man advantage.

Detroit, playing its fifth game in eight nights, had numerous defensive lapses but the Rangers could not take advantage of them. Nevin's breakaway was the Rangers' third in the final period and came while New York's Larry Cahan had 36 seconds of a holding penalty remaining. Defenseman Harry Howell teamed with Nevin to steal the puck from Alex Delvecchio at the Detroit blue line and the Ranger forward skated in from the right side, faked goalie Roger Crozier, and jammed the puck into the right corner of the net.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

BROOKS ROBINSON has just accomplished something a bit unusual. He's won the American League "Most Valuable Player" award—and he's a third baseman.

The simple fact is that third basemen seldom win the award—only once before in the American League in the last 33 years and only once in the National League in the same time span.

And, adding to the unusual year, if you will, is the probability that Ken Boyer, the Cards' third sacker, has a pretty good chance of winning the National League's MVP honor.

The only previous third basemen to nab baseball's top prize were Al Rosen, the Indians' thumping hot corner guardian in the 1953 season, and Bob Elliott, who accomplished it for the old Boston Braves in 1947.

Robinson's win, too, ended a Yankee dynasty, for the Yanks have won it the last four years and in the last 10 have turned in eight MVPs.

In the junior circuit, the Yanks have had 16 Most Valuables in 33 years. Three of their players, Joe DiMaggio, Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle, have won it three times. Only other A. L. three-time winner was Jimmy Foxx.

In the senior circuit, the Dodgers and Cards have won the most honors, each club having had eight MVPs since the 1931 selecting. Stan Musial and Roy Campanella are the only three time winners.

• • •

ROBINSON'S win in the American League represented a tremendous comeback year for the flashy fielding—good hitting Bird infielder. Last year, Brooks didn't even get a vote in the balloting as Elston Howard of the Yanks proved to be the winner.

The star of the Orioles' cast, who almost led the team to a pennant, has been a member of the Birds for part or all of the last 10 seasons. He was signed as a free agent on June 1, 1955, and after playing 95 games with the York team in a B loop he got in six games with the Orioles.

He played most of the 1956 season with San Antonio, part of the 1957 season with the same club and part of the 1959 campaign with Vancouver. Excepting for this he's been with the Orioles and its regular third sacker for the last five years.

For four straight years he has won the Rawlings "Gold Glove" award as the best defensive third baseman in the league and twice was chosen "Most Valuable" Oriole.

Jim Brown Carries For 2,000th Time In 28-21 Loss

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Green Bay Packers rallied behind a bruising defense and belted Cleveland 28-21 with three second half touchdowns Sunday, slowing the Browns' bid for the National Football League's Eastern Division title.

With Jimmy Brown setting the tempo with jarring runs and becoming the first player in NFL history to surpass the 2,000 mark in times a player has carried the ball, the Browns struck for two touchdowns in the opening quarter. Brown pounded one over, the other came on Frank Ryan's 48-yard pass to Paul Warfield.

The Packers managed one touchdown on Elijah Pitts' 19-yard run in the opening quarter and trailed 14-7 at halftime.

The Packers tied the score after Bart Starr's fourth down pass from his 44 to Max McGee, who ran to the Cleveland one. Jim Taylor banged into the end zone.

Linebacker Ray Nitschke jarred the ball loose from Brown on the Cleveland 22 to set up Green Bay's third touchdown. Starr rolled out to his right for the last four yards.

The Packers roared 74 yards for what proved to be a decisive touchdown. Taylor cracked through right tackle from five yards out.

The Browns bounced back on Ryan's 19-yard scoring pass to Warfield, but were stopped twice in the closing minutes by a fumble and pass interception.

END OF A WILD PLAY — The Steelers' left end, Clendon Thomas, winds up on his back after catching a pass from quarterback Ed Brown that eluded two Giants defenders and scores in fourth quarter of the New York-Pittsburgh National Football League game Sunday at New York's Yankee Stadium. The ball bounced off the hands of Giant Erich Barnes (49, on ground) and Dick Lynch before Thomas snared it. Steeler end John Burrell leaps for joy. Pittsburgh clobbered the Giants, 44-17. Nicklaus Money Champ As Barber Wins Classic

Palmer Fails In Bid For Third Dollar Derby

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Big Jack Nicklaus wrested the 1964 golf money championship from Arnold Palmer Sunday as Miller Barber, a native of Louisiana, won the $25,000 Cajun Classic Golf Tournament — last PGA event of the year.

The 24-year-old Nicklaus wound up the year with winnings of $113,284.50.

By finishing as 1964's top tour money earner, he will be exempt from paying entry fees in all 1965 tournaments.

Nicklaus won the money title when Gay Brewer missed a 15-foot putt on the 18th green, which kept him from finishing second by himself.

As it was, Nicklaus and Brewer tied for second, each picking up $1,900 and Big Jack edged Palmer, who had been seeking his third dollar derby, by $81.13.

Barber's two rounds Sunday were as hot as the weather was cold. He turned in a 68 in the morning and a 67 in the afternoon over the par 36-36—72 Oakbourne course.

Nicklaus had rounds of 72-71 Sunday to finish with a 282 for 72 holes and five strokes behind Barber.

Brewer had a 74-68 for 282, while Palmer finished fourth with a pair of 71s.

Valley High School Will Seek Berth In PVC Today

All-Conference Grid Teams To Be Named

Valley High School has applied for membership in the Potomac Valley Conference and the application of the Lonaconing school will be considered at the dinner meeting of the organization today at 6:30 p.m., at the Old Homestead Hotel, Burlington, W. Va.

There were 20 schools in the conference last year but the number was reduced to 19 through the consolidation of Romney and Capon Bridge into Hampshire High School.

Valley made its football debut this year and Coach Thomas Harman feels that scheduling will be made much easier for the Black Knights if they are admitted to the conference.

The Lonaconing school is a member of the W.M.I. League of Allegany county. Beall and Bruce, members of the WMIL, also hold franchises in the Potomac Valley Conference.

Valley played Beall, LaSalle, Moorefield, Franklin and Bruce, all PVC schools, in football this year. During the 1963-64 basketball season the Black Knights met Keyser, Southern, Piedmont, LaSalle, Beall, Bruce and Elk Garden.

First and second all-conference football teams will be selected by the coaches at tonight's session. There are 12 schools in the football circuit, namely, LaSalle, Bruce, Petersburg, Keyser, Moorefield, Beall, Hampshire, Ridgeley, Franklin, Southern, West Virginia School for the Deaf and Circleville.

Rankin Johnson Reelected Head Of Eastern Loop

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rankin Johnson, Williamsport, Pa., was re-elected president of the Eastern League Sunday as the class AA baseball league held its fall meeting here.

Johnson, who will be starting his fifth year as president next season, was given a two year term with an undisclosed raise in salary.

Joe Buzas, owner of the Reading Red Sox, was named vice president, succeeding A.S. Feldman of York, Pa.

A spokesman said the league was expected to operate with the same six teams as last year, although the Charleston, W. Va., club "probably will move to another city." Other clubs in the league are Williamsport, York, Reading, Elmira, N.Y., and Springfield, Mass.

The spokesman said the Eastern League season would open April 24 and close Sept. 6 with a 140 game schedule. The annual mid-season All-Star game, an 11 year feature, will be discontinued.

Terps Score Back-To-Back Shutout Wins

Whip Virginia, 10-0, Finish With 5-5 Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maryland's sophomore-studded football team ended its 1964 season with 10-0 victory over Virginia and an even record of 5-5.

The victory Saturday was Maryland's second straight shutout having blanked Clemson the week before. It was the first time a Terp team had been able to put together back-to-back shutouts since 1955.

Sophomore kicking specialist Bernardo Bramson booted the extra point and then added an insurance field goal in the final period with less than four minutes left in the ball game.

The 30-yard goal gave Bramson a total of 44 points for the season.

Sophomore Tom Hickey set a Maryland season carrying record of 128 times moving the ball 129 yards in 26 carries. Hickey finished the season with 894 yards rushing, just 10 yards shy of the Maryland record, set in 1947.

The Terps finished third in the Atlantic Coast Conference with a 4-3 record.

In the only other state action, Western Maryland defeated Johns Hopkins 35-12 in their season finale.

The victory gave Western Maryland second place in the Mason-Dixon Conference standing with a 2-1 conference record. The Green Terrors won the championship last year.

Johns Hopkins lost both its conference games and finished the season with a 2-6 record overall. The Green Terrors were 4-5 overall.

The only Maryland team in action next Saturday will be Navy as the Middies meet Army in the traditional contest between the service academies in Philadelphia's John F. Kennedy Stadium.

NO LOSSES

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Warren Spahn has had only one losing season since joining the Braves in 1942. The magnificent southpaw posted a 14-19 record in 1952.

Redskins Steal Passes, Scalp Cowboys, 28-16

Rookie Paul Krause Intercepts Pair

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tough, alert Washington defense grabbed four Dallas passes and cashed in two for touchdowns as the Redskins scalped the Cowboys 28-16.

Rookie Paul Krause picked off two of Don Meredith's tosses to run his National Football League total to 10 for the season. He raced his second interception back 35 yards for a Washington touchdown in the final two minutes.

Linebacker John Reger snatched a Meredith pass in the opening minutes of the game and ran six yards for the first Redskin score.

The lone Dallas touchdown followed a fumbled punt by Pervis Atkins on the Washington nine. The Cowboys scored two plays later as Meredith, unable to pass, ran to the two, then lateraled to Jim Stiger.

The Redskin defense unit thwarted every other Dallas touchdown try. Dick Van Raaphorst kicked three field goals, from the 15, 32 and 38.

The Redskins scored their second touchdown as time ran out in the first half. Sonny Jurgensen moved the ball to the one on passes of 18 and 20 yards to Preston Carpenter, then sneaked over.

The other Washington score came on a 59-yard pass from Jurgensen to Angelo Coia.

Fielder Nets Detroit Tie With Vikings

Walker Salvages Deadlock, 23-23

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne Walker's 36-yard field goal with less than a minute to play enabled the Detroit Lions to tie the Minnesota Vikings 23-23 Sunday in a National Football League game.

A chilled crowd of 48,291 saw the Vikings move into a 20-6 lead in the third period on the combined talents of Fran Tarkenton and Fred Cox. The lead evaported as the Lions took advantage of late breaks.

Minnesota drove 46 yards in seven plays the first time it had the ball and Tarkenton hit Hal Bedsole with a 15-yard scoring pass.

Milt Plum's five-yard pass to Jim Gibbons brought Detroit's first score but Wayne Walker's try for the extra point was blocked.

The Vikings made it 10-6 at the half on a 20-yard field goal by Cox. A 44-yard field goal by Cox and Jim Prestel's 26-yard run with an intercepted pass put the Vikings ahead 20-6.

Detroit came to life as Sammy Williams picked up Tom Mason's fumble on the Minnesota four and ran it in for a touchdown. Then, aided by a pass interference penalty, the Lions tied it up at 20-all as Plum tossed an 18-yard pass to Barr.

Davidson Pilots Raiders Over Jets, 35-26

Cotton Sparks Five TD Drives

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Cotton Davidson scored one touchdown and passed for three others Sunday in leading the Oakland Raiders to a 35-26 American Football League victory over the New York Jets.

Billy Cannon scored three times, on a one-yard plunge and on 10 and 9-yard passes from Davidson.

The Raiders had to battle from a 10-0 first quarter deficit to claim the victory. They fell behind when defensive tackle LaVerne Torczon intercepted a Davidson pass and ran 40 yards for a touchdown. A 39-yard field goal by Jim Turner built the New York lead to 10-0.

Davidson put Oakland on the scoreboard with a 60-yard pass to Clem Daniels.

The Jets scored 10 more points in the second quarter on a nine-yard pass from Dick Wood to end Bake Turner and a 14-year field goal by Jim Turner.

With Davidson passing spectacularly, the Raiders battled back for three second half touchdowns, two by Cannon and one a six-yard bootleg by Davidson.

Davidson passed for 92 yards in a 76-yard drive for the final Oakland score, overcoming a 15-yard penalty against the Raiders.

The final Jet touchdown came on a 48-yard aerial from Wood to flanker Don Maynard.

Mount St. Mary's Harriers Cop Title

BRIDGEWATER, Va. (AP)—Tom Neidhart's record performance sparked Mount St. Mary's to the Mason-Dixon Conference cross country title.

Neidhart covered the Bridgewater College course in 15:28.5 set in 1960 by Rick Frampton of Loyola.

George Green of Old Dominion finished runner-up to Neidhart in 15:30.6, with Marty Bell of Catholic University third in 15:32.

Mount St. Mary's compiled a low score of 60 points as John McKee finished sixth and teammate Joe Murphy was seventh.

Towson State was second in the team standings with 62 points, led by the fourth and fifth-place finishes by Robert Stephens and Dennis Patton.

WE CAN'T BELIEVE IT!

The weatherman says that winter is coming, but it sure doesn't look like it. But old man winter can't be far away.
Right now is a good time to fly down to Florida and see for yourself how inexpensive living can be, and how much fun life can be. Whether by plane, train or your car, we will pay the large part of your trip cost. Write us for details about our Florida Fiesta and retirement town at Deltona.

No, Ma'am!
Please Be Carefull

Before you show this to the boss we'd like to warn you that he might buy that lot he's been looking at, and use all his spare time this fall & winter finishing out one of our no-down payment homes.
'Course we won't be mad 'cause we may get the opportunity to sell your old home, and that will be easy with our VA & FHA low down payment financing!
And about financing—if you can pay for your lot there's no money down on our owner-finished homes, and up to 20 years to pay your mortgage.

Fire Destroys Roof At Luke Paper Mill

8 Fire Companies Answer Alarm

A fire of undetermined origin yesterday afternoon destroyed the roof over two of four water tanks atop the No. 1 Bleach Room roof at the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

A company spokesman reported that the fire broke out at 1:25 p.m. and a total of eight volunteer fire companies with about 15 pieces of equipment responded.

There was no immediate estimate of the damage caused by the fire, which was out by 2:30 p. m.

Sprinklers inside the roof at the fire scene opened up and helped to contain the spread of the fire along with the prompt action of the volunteer firemen.

The spokesman said the tanks hold reclaimed water from the pulp mill and paper mill operations, that is used for the dilution of stock at the pulp mill.

William N. Devens, chief engineer and property conservation director, credited the prompt and efficient action by the fire companies with preventing the spread of the flames to other areas.

Volunteer firemen from Luke, Piedmont and Westernport fire companies fought the blaze.

Other units which stood by were those of Barton, Lonaconing, McCoole, Keyser and Bloomington.

Message To Son In Peace Corps

Mrs. William L. Smith Sr. records a Christmas "Voice From Home" message to her son, William L. Smith Jr., a Peace Corps volunteer, while his father and sisters, Mrs. Renelda Davis and Mrs. Treva Michael await their turn to send him greetings. The son, who is serving in Colombia, will receive the taped message along with a snapshot of the recording session in time for Christmas. Both are made available free by social welfare aides of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross.

State Director Of Fitness Will Visit City

Hillis D. Hume, Maryland's new physical fitness director, will attend the monthly meeting of the Allegany County Physical Fitness Commission at noon today at the Cas Taylor Restaurant, according to John J. Long, chairman of the county commission.

Mr. Hume, a former Naval Academy football star and now retired after 20 years of active duty, attended the commission's meeting in September.

Also invited to be guests today are John K. Snyder, president of the Cumberland Jaycees, and Herbert F. Rebhun, president of the Frostburg Jaycees, and the chairmen of their physical fitness committees.

Teen Adventure Tour Proposed

G. Neil Williams, band director at Fort Hill High School, is interested in promoting a 22-day "teen adventure tour" to Europe next summer.

There will be departures from New York City on July 13 and July 27. The jet airliner will take the participants from New York to Glasgow.

Other points to be visited during the three weeks are Edinburgh, London, Paris, Versailles, Nancy, Interlaken, Lucerne, Heidelberg, Cologne and Amsterdam, from where a jet airliner will return the group to New York.

Any student presently in the ninth grade up through 19 years of age is eligible. This includes college students. Mr. Williams and his wife, Bonnie, will chaperone the group. One cost covers transportation, hotels, three meals per day, bus service to and from airports, sightseeing buses with guides.

If enough teenagers are interested they will decide between July 13 and July 27 as the departure date. Interested students and parents should contact Mr. Williams for more details. His address is 720 Kent Avenue and his phone number is 724-2485.

Air Force Test Set

Local Air Force recruiters will conduct an aptitude test for interested young men and women tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the local recruiting station, Post Office Building.

LaVale Swim Club Pushes Pool Plans

The LaVale Swim Club is planning to sign a contract with a pool builder before the end of this year in order that the pool can be completed and in operation by next Memorial Day.

During a recent meeting, the pool construction committee reported that they met with an engineering firm to establish the type and size of pool that would be feasible with a planned membership of 300.

Antone Struntz, president of the club, announced a favorable increase in membership since the October meeting. He said that any persons who have not joined but are interested particularly LaVale residents, should call PA 4-0613 or PA 2-7336.

Once construction work begins no new members can be accepted since the pool must be constructed according to state regulations and can accommodate only the number of members in the club.

Plans are underway to hire an architect to supervise the construction of the pool. Shares of stock in the pool cost $150, a portion of which can be paid now with the entire amount due by April 1 next year.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Monday, December 14 at 7:30 p. m. in the LaVale fire hall.

LaVale Church Plans Service

Christ Lutheran Church will hold a special service of Thanksgiving at 10 a. m. Thursday at the LaVale Fire Hall, announced Rev. A. R. Burkhardt, pastor.

The sermon topic will be "The Ministry of Thanksgiving".

Both choirs will participate in this service. The anthem by the junior choir will be "Let All Things Now Living," by Davis. The choirs are conducted by Mrs. Robert Bittle.

Members of the congregation are asked to bring individual packages of cereal which will be sent to the National Lutheran Home for the Aged in Washington.

Local Chapter Continues Voice From Home Project

The popular "Voice From Home" program is in progress for the third straight year at Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, as its Christmas gift for servicemen overseas.

This free service, conducted by the chapter's social welfare aides, is offered in addition to families of servicemen, to exchange students and teachers, missionaries and clergymen and families of members of the Peace Corps.

Last week, the family of William L. Smith, a member of the Peace Corps serving at Cuerpo de Paz, Oficina de Avianca, Marsella, Caldas, Colombia, South America, taped a Christmas message for their son and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Smith Sr. and their two daughters, Ronelda and Treva, 923 Atlantic Avenue, LaVale, said they became acquainted with Red Cross work while another son, Curtis, was serving in the Navy. They brought color slides sent to them from South America by their son to show to the Red Cross workers.

Appointments to tape Christmas messages to friends and servicemen overseas may be made by calling the Red Cross chapter office PA 2-1760.

While the message is being recorded by the family, the SWAs take pictures of the session which also are sent along with the tape. The message and picture is mailed by the chapter without charge to the family.

Early Christmas Mailing Urged By Postmaster

Shopping early, mailing early and using ZIP codes were three ways stressed by Postmaster William B. Orndorff yesterday to assure on-time delivery of Christman packages and cards, and to avoid the annual Christmas mailing "rush."

One reason for the reminder is the fact that weather is a factor that can't be controlled. Mr. Orndorff said that while the old quote, "Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds," is still true of the postal service, bad weather can slow the mails down.

The postmaster urges everyone to use the five digit ZIP code numbers because the code cuts down the number of times a piece of mail must be handled, saving time, labor and money. In the event the code is not known, the sender should include his code number in the return address.

A ZIP code directory of all national numbers was placed in the lobby of the Post Office last week.

HFC Benefits State Colleges

Presidents of 531 privately-supported, coeducational and male liberal arts colleges and universities have just received checks totaling $92,050, according to J. E. Paupe, manager of Household Finance Corporation of Cumberland.

Seven Maryland institutions were among those benefitting, Mr. Paupe said. They included Johns Hopkins University and Columbia Union, Loyola, Mt. St. Mary's, St. John's, Washington and Western Maryland colleges.

Since 1956, when HFC established its annual program of unrestricted gifts, they have totaled more than $650,000. Checks are sent to all four-year privately-operated accredited colleges and universities in the 47 states in which the corporation operates.

Household is America's oldest and largest consumer finance company. It makes loans under small loan and similar laws through more than 1350 branches in over 900 cities in the United States and Canada.

4-H Members In Charge Of Program

Joan Miltenberger will be mistress of ceremonies tomorrow night during the annual Achievement Night program for 4-H Club members of Allegany County at St. Mary's hall.

Invocation will be given by Janice Cubbage at the outset of the meeting which is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m., said Charles Babich, extension agent, 4-H and youth.

The pledge to the flag will be given by Shirley Hersh and the 4-H pledge will be given by Darlene Hersh. Miss Miltenberger will welcome those who attend the program.

Recognition of 4-H leaders will be by Mr. Babich who will announce the special awards for the evening.

"The Wonderful World of 4-H" is the theme of this year's program, according to Mr. Babich, who said 4-H members will present a program of entertainment including songs and dances of countries throughout the world.

The committee in charge of the program includes Royce Simpson, John Heavener, Andrea Bowden, Michael Miltenberger, Joan Miltenberger, Marvel Major, Peggy Phillips and Jean Miltenberger.

Members of the Lonaconing Junior 4-H Club will serve as ushers and the LaVale Eager Beavers will serve refreshments.

Antennas Broken Off Two Automobiles

Antennas were broken off two parked automobiles in the Johnson Heights section sometime late Saturday or early yesterday, city police were informed.

One of the reports came from James H. White, 512 Louisiana Avenue, who said that two antennas were broken off his car while it was parked in front of his house between 8 p. m. and midnight Saturday. The other complaint came from a Mr. Hall who said an antenna was broken off his car parked on Warwick Avenue sometime before 9 a. m. yesterday.

Burglar Steals Four Revolvers

City police last night were still investigating the burglary at the Sports Shoppe, 55 North Centre Street, from which four revolvers valued at more than $240 were stolen early Saturday.

Entrance to the store was gained by breaking a side window. Employes had been in the store as late as 9:30 p. m. Friday.

Red Cross Unit Approves Plan For Volunteers

Single Course Set For All Services

A plan for updating the office of Red Cross volunteers was presented and approved at a special meeting of the board of directors of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross Thursday in the Liberty Trust Conference room.

The new plan, which calls for one course for all volunteers instead of specific courses for each Red Cross service, was presented by Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive director of the chapter, and Mrs. Margaret Gladstone, chairman of volunteers. Both women recently attended a training workshop in Annapolis to qualify them to teach the universal course.

With the board's approval, the chapter will start work immediately on the program beginning with an application to the Eastern Area headquarters to participate under the new plan.

Study on the volunteer program began on the national level in 1951 when it was realized that many chapters are short of volunteers and the present specialized training no longer meets the requirments of Red Cross programs serving the community needs. The study task force composed of vounteers and staff agreed that the solution was for a universal volunteer, one trained to perform all services of the chapter, whenever needed rather than special type work.

A new uniform is now being designed by National Red Cross which will eventually be worn by all volunteers instead of the individuals ones now being worn by Gray Ladies and the other services including canteen, motor service, staff aides and social welfare aides.

Mrs. Lindsay said the next course given by the local chapter will be under the new plan. Present chairmen of the services will be required to take the single course. However, volunteers now serving will not have to do so. She said the chapter hopes that all volunteers will take the course, however, as they will be better trained to meet the special needs of the community and the chapter's supporting services.

Mrs. Irving Millenson, building fund chairman, reported on the new chapter house being constructed at Cumberland and Chase streets and a report on the chapter's assistance in two recent fires was given by Mrs. Lindsay.

John L. Conway, chairman, presided at the meeting. Others attending were Mrs. Hammond Amick, Mrs. Robert Gerson, H. Glenn Boyd, Rev. William Cox, Miller Bowen, Charles Bramble, Rev. Chalmers H. Goshorn, Mrs. Harry Beneman, Mrs. Norman Geatz Sr.

Pa. Driver Jailed For Hit And Run

John Fullmar, 20, of Alum Bank, Pa., was arrested about 9:30 a.m. yesterday by Pennsylvania State Police and charged with hit-and-run driving in an accident which happened on State Route 56 in Bedford County about seven hours earlier.

State Police at Bedford said the accident occurred about one-and-one-half miles east of Pleasantville.

They reported that Fullmar was driving west on Route 56 and while driving on the left side of the road the left front of his vehicle collided with the left side of the automobile being driven east on Route 56 by William A. Bowser, 26, RD 1, New Paris.

Fullmar was taken to the Bedford County Jail after his arrest where he was being held pending the posting of bond.

Neither driver was injured but damage totaled about $750, $500 to the Bowser car and $250 to Fullmar's vehicle. The accident occurred about 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

Thanksgiving Advice Given By Police Chief

Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney said yesterday that his thoughts and best wishes will follow local citizens for whatever distance they plan to travel to celebrate Thanksgiving day.

However, he couldn't resist giving a typical, friendly warning:

"Watch the weather before starting out," he advised. "It's getting pretty late in the season. Thanksgiving Day foretells snow and ice and it's best to be prepared."

The chief hopes motorists have had their cars checked and tuned for severe weather driving. If not, there may still be time for a check of equipment which can be made the difference between a happy holiday and disappointment or disaster, he said.

The check list includes lights, battery, heater, defroster, seat belts, windshield wipers, brakes and tires.

"And for Thanksgivings' sakes, don't leave your tire chains hanging in your garage," he pleaded. "If the weather should turn unexpectedly bad, your failure to have them handy could invite an experience for which you might find it hard to be thankful."

3 Candidates List Expenses

Three candidates in Maryland's recent general election have filed campaign expense reports in Montgomery County showing that they spent a total of more than $225,000.

Leading in expenses was U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, Republican from Frostburg, who was defeated for re-election by Democrat Joseph D. Tydings. His report filed in the Montgomery County Circuit Court clerk's office showed expenditures of $123,606 and contributions of $120,065.

Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, Democrat who was successful in winning a second term as Maryland's Congressman-at-large, filed a report in the same Rockville office which showed that he spent $51,721 and had contributions of $40,908, which were bolstered by funds left over from the May primary election.

Rep. Charles McC. Mathias, Republican from Frederick, who won a third term in the House of Representatives from the Sixth Congressional District, filed a report in Rockville which indicated that he spent $50,218 and had contributions of $53,822.

Firemen Answer Alarm

East Side firemen were called to the home of Louis E. Grant, 457 Goethe Street, at 9:54 a. m. yesterday to extinguish a flue fire. They returned to their station at 10:25 a. m.

Bookmobile Will Resume Its Operations

Eastern Area To Be Visited

The Allegany County Library's bookmobile, which has been out of operation for repairs since November 12, will resume its regular schedule today when it visits the eastern end of Allegany County.

The only deviation from its regular schedule this week will result from the Thanksgiving holiday when the bookmobile will not operate.

Today the bookmobile will stop at Adams Road and Route 40 from 12:30 until 12:45 p. m. Next stop will be at the Piney Plains School from 1 until 3 p. m. The bookmobile will be at P. F. Leasure's on Orleans Road from 3:15 to 3:30 p. m. and at T. Mann's on Mann Road from 3:45 until 4 p. m.

Tuesday's schedule:

McRobie Store, Danville, 9:30 to 10 a. m.; McCoole Elementary School, 10:15 a. m. until noon; Westernport Elementary School, 1 to 2:30 p. m.; old McCoole Road, 3 to 3:30 p. m. and Barton's on McMullen Highway, 4 to 4:15 p. m.

Wednesday's schedule:

Eckhart Elementary School, 9:30 a. m. until noon; Jones' Store, Pekin, 1 to 1:30 p. m.; Shaw's Service Station, Moscow, 1:45 to 2 p. m., and Barton Elementary School, 2:15 to 4 p. m.

Saturday's schedule:

City Parking Area, Midland, 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; Merrbach Store, Gilmore, 1:15 to 1:45 p. m., and Union Street Health Center, Lonaconing, 2:30 to 4 p. m.

The bookmobile is operated by Mrs. Ray C. Dickerson and Mrs. Robert I. Bristow.

Police Probe Safe Robbing

State Police are continuing to probe a safecracking which occurred early Saturday at the Bowler, Winchester Road at its intersection with U. S. Route 40.

Cpl. Milton G. Hart, criminal investigator for the LaVale barracks, said the incident apparently occurred around 5 a. m. Saturday, although it was not discovered until the arrival of a janitor around 8:30 a.m.

Cpl. Hart, who is being assisted by Cpl. G. D. Folk and Tfc. Donald R. Wade, said the office of the establishment was looted and a safe torn open with a sledge and pick.

Between $400 and $600 is believed missing, the State Policemen said, explaining the exact total will not be known until an audit is taken. A small amount of money also was taken from a cigarette machine and music box, with Cpl. Hart explaining that not much was believed taken from the rifles machines since they only recently had been emptied.

How entry was made into the place has not definitely been established, although there is some evidence that a side door may have been forced. There is a possibility also that someone may have hidden in the bowling establishment before it was closed, Cpl. Hart said.

Leads are out on a number of suspects, he said, and it is likely there will be an early arrest.

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Turner Jr., RD 4, Oldtown Road, a son Saturday.

City Firemen Respond To Alarms

City firemen were called out to extinguish two apparent flue fires last night.

South End firemen were called to the residence of Mrs. Elsie Mattingly, 742 Maryland Avenue, at 7:20 p.m. but no fire was found. Firemen were back at their station at 7:35 p.m.

The second call sent East Side firemen to the home of Albert L. Marple, 416 Pulaski Street, at 8:38 p.m. and a flue fire quickly was extinguished. They were back at their station 30 minutes later.

Precautions In Preparing Holiday Turkey Are Listed

Precautions which should be observed in the preparation and cooking of the traditional Thanksgiving turkey have been listed by the Allegany County Health Department.

In order to avoid the possibility of food poisoning, turkey should be cooked thoroughly, served hot and refrigerated promptly after use.

C. S. Brinsfield, food control chief of the State Health Department, recommends that dressing be cooked outside the bird, as dressing prepared in advance or left in the turkey overnight may become too compact and too cold to be sure that oven heat can penetrate its density and destroy any bacteria present.

Thorough cooking will destroy the bacteria, but cooked meat may become recontaminated if allowed to stand too long before being served or refrigerated, and bacteria can grow at room temperatures.

Safeguards suggested by the Health Department include: clean fresh turkeys thoroughly and wash inside and out to be sure all internal organs are removed; allow sufficient time for frozen turkeys to thaw under refrigeration (a large bird may require three days, a small bird two days; additional thawing time is required for commercially frozen stuffed birds).

Turkey should be cooked on the same day it is to be served and should be allowed to stand for 20 minutes at room temperature after removal from the oven. Keep turkey and dressing very hot until ready to eat, and refrigerate both immediately after the meal. Sliced turkey should be refrigerated in small packages so that all slices will be thoroughly chilled.

Stress is also placed in strict observance of sanitary precautions.

Food poisoning outbreaks should be reported promptly to the family physician and to the Health Department. Indication of food poisoning may include sudden onset of headache, abdominal pain, nausea and vomiting, diarrhea and fever from two to 48 hours after eating. Although many cases of food poisoning are mild, some result in serious illness and a physician should be consulted if there is any reason to suspect food poisoning, the Health Department advised.

Fire Damage At Luke Mill

This is a view of the fire damage yesterday afternoon at the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. Volunteers from nine area volunteer fire companies responded to the blaze, which was confined to the roof over two of four water tanks atop the No. 1 Bleach Room roof. The tanks hold reclaimed water from the pulp mill and paper mill departments.
